The Arkansas Story

Cheering at a football game, working in a classroom, relaxing at a campus dance, participating in extra-curricular activities, the Arkansas student practices citizenship, friendship, and leadership.

Gone is the idea of a happy-go-lucky, pennant-waving, goldfish-swallowing Joe College. Today's college student may be fun-loving, but he is no longer blithely carefree.

Gone, too, is the idea that college is a four-year period of suspended animation. The modern college student, alert, aware, with a sense of his own responsibility, has dispelled that.

Originally, a state university was supposed to teach the students who came to study on its campus. This is still a very important part of its work, but no longer the only part. By research, it is expected to add to the general human knowledge. And now, it must serve as fully as possible not only the citizens on its campus but all the citizens of its state. This has made the University of Arkansas, along with other state universities, an integral and invaluable institution in its state.

The curriculum at Arkansas is constantly being augmented and improved. Its research facilities keep pace with the latest scientific and technological developments. And the University is justifiably proud of its physical expansion.

Social and recreational facilities are designed so that every student may find activities of particular interest to him, whether they be dancing, tennis, photography, or any of a hundred others.

Professional and honorary organizations thrive, too, where a student may find guidance and training in the various fields in which he is interested. Through extra-curricular activities, he makes practical use of his training and interests, participating in plays, working on a campus publication, competing in a debate tournament.

When Arkansas students get together, at an out-of-town football game, an alum banquet, or merely by accident, the sight of a red and white cap, or the band's playing of the Alma Mater, or the mention of a familiar name, seems to make them old acquaintances. Such is the attitude, unconscious perhaps, of its students. It is more than a pride in the Fine Arts Center, or the campus. It is simply the pride in being, or having been, a student at Arkansas.

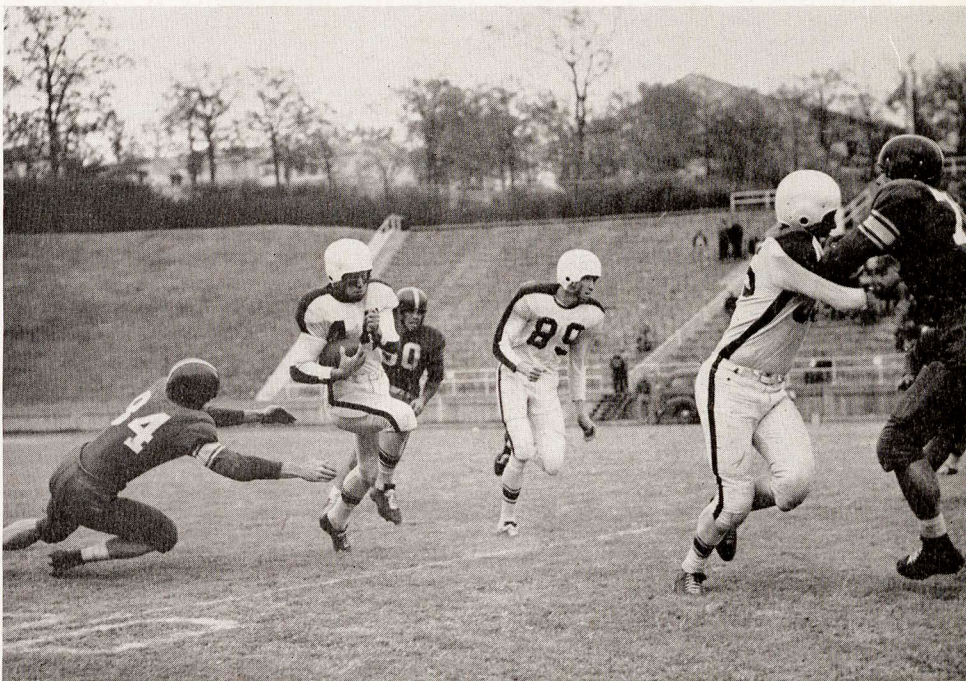

The Arkansas Story is being continuously written. It is a story that will manifest itself in an office building, on a farm, in an artist's studio, in a school room, in a law court, in an engineer's shack.

It has no ending as yet, for it will continue to be written as long as there is a University of Arkansas.

They go to class—sometimes.

And play football, or watch football being played.

And party, party, party.

It Started back in 1871

"There was nothing to start from but a farm house and one hundred and sixty acres of land, a hill side surpassingly beautiful indeed, a location the finest in the State, but the soil alone to build upon." So said A. W. Bishop, second president of the "Arkansas Industrial University with a Normal Department Therein", in his inaugural address in 1874, three years after the school was founded in Fayetteville.

Today, seventy-seven years later, that same "hill side surpassingly beautiful" is covered with classroom buildings and residence halls, and Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, twelfth president of the University of Arkansas, formerly Arkansas Industrial University, recently stated that its main problem would soon be the lack of room for physical expansion.

Arkansas Industrial University was the result of the firm belief of the people of the state in education. Four General Assemblies were to pass acts to establish a state university under provisions of the Morrill Act before the ideal was achieved. In 1871 the first University Board of Trustees, elected by the General Assembly, met to decide whether the University was to be located in Fayetteville or Batesville, the only two towns with interest enough in a state university to make an offer. The trustees chose Fayetteville, purchased a 160 acre homestead for $12,000, and chose Noah P. Gates as president of the new school.

On opening day, January 22, 1872, the University welcomed eight students, all from Fayetteville. The sole coed in the group complained because she was the only girl, but her mother sent her back, telling her there would soon be more girls. And there were, for enrollment increased rapidly.

During Bishop's term construction was begun on the building which has come to symbolize the University — University Hall, familiarly known as "Old Main". The Executive Committee saw to it that the building met exact specifications of comfort and efficiency. "Resolved," it stated, "that the Secretary be authorized to purchase such numbers of stoves and as many joints of pipe as may be absolutely necessary to heat the rooms of the new building," . . . "not exceeding ten rooms," it carefully added.

During the administration of General D. H. Hill, personification of the Old South, the school kept up its struggle for survival. Increased attendance, the building of a new dormitory for men and of a new laboratory for physics and chemistry, the establishment of an agricultural experiment station, the recognition of the Law School in Little Rock soon followed. The growth of student loyalty and activity is indicated by the first issue of a University magazine and the publication of the constitution and by-laws of the athletic association.

In 1889 the General Assembly agreed that the name of Arkansas Industrial University should be changed to the University of Arkansas. The choice of a color, cardinal, representing the University, is reported in the Cardinal, predecessor to the RAZORBACK.

Under the administration of President John C. Futrall (1913-39), the University entered upon a period of broadening viewpoint, using the work of many who had gone before as a sure foundation.

In 1922, a semi-centennial celebration of the University was held. Highlight of the celebration was the presentation of an elaborate and carefully planned pageant portraying the history of the University and its service to the state.

The depression for a time stymied the growth of the University, but in 1933 President Futrall presented an application to the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works for the construction of a library building, a chemistry building in Fayetteville and a medical building in Little Rock. Within a few years there were three other projects: the field house and Razorback hall; the stadium and practice field; and the student union, classroom building, and home economics building. Not even so far-seeing a man as President Futrall could realize that within ten years this stadium would have to be enlarged, and that the field house could accommodate only half the students at a basketball game.

Returning from a business trip to Little Rock in September, 1939, President Futrall was killed instantly in a collision with a truck. At the age of thirty-four, J. W. Fulbright, now Arkansas' junior senator, became his successor and the youngest president of a state university. The medals awarded on Honors' Day to the best senior student in each college are the results of his interest in the superior student.

World War II introduced the modern era of the University of Arkansas. Its full impact was to fall upon the Harding administration, whose inauguration marked the beginning of this period. The college year of 1942-43 saw students in civilian pilot training, the pre-radar unit, and the Army Air corps unit. The majority of male students were in Army uniform. Many Arkansas correspondence courses were included in those offered by the Armed Forces Institute. Reports on assignments were received from service men all over the world; some came through the Red Cross from German prison camps.

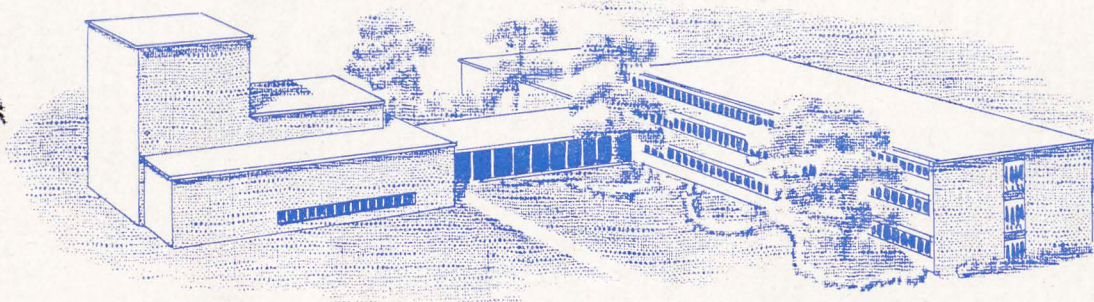

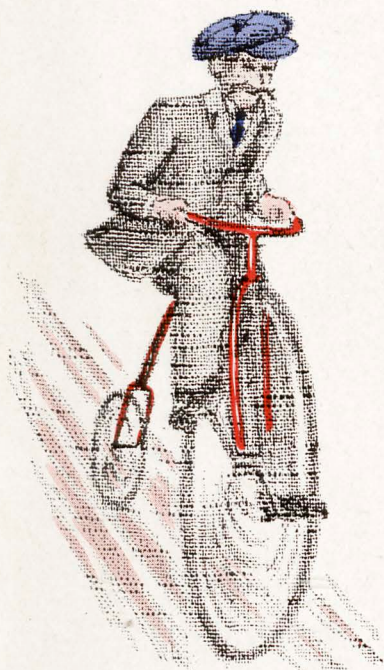

A notable increase in gifts and grants made possible certain useful activities. Approval was given for a permanent bureau of research. The appointment of a permanent athletic committee reflected the growing interest in University athletics.

The seventy-fifth anniversary convocation, celebrating the beginning of class work in 1872, was held in the field house on January 22, 1947. On that day, the Board of Trustees announced that Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, president of Bennington College, Vermont, had accepted the presidency of the University.

Untiring in his efforts, Dr. Jones has communicated to the state his own confidence in the ability of the University to have a major part in the progress and development of Arkansas. His efforts were a great contributing factor to the construction of the newly completed Fine Arts building, one of the finest university art centers in the nation.

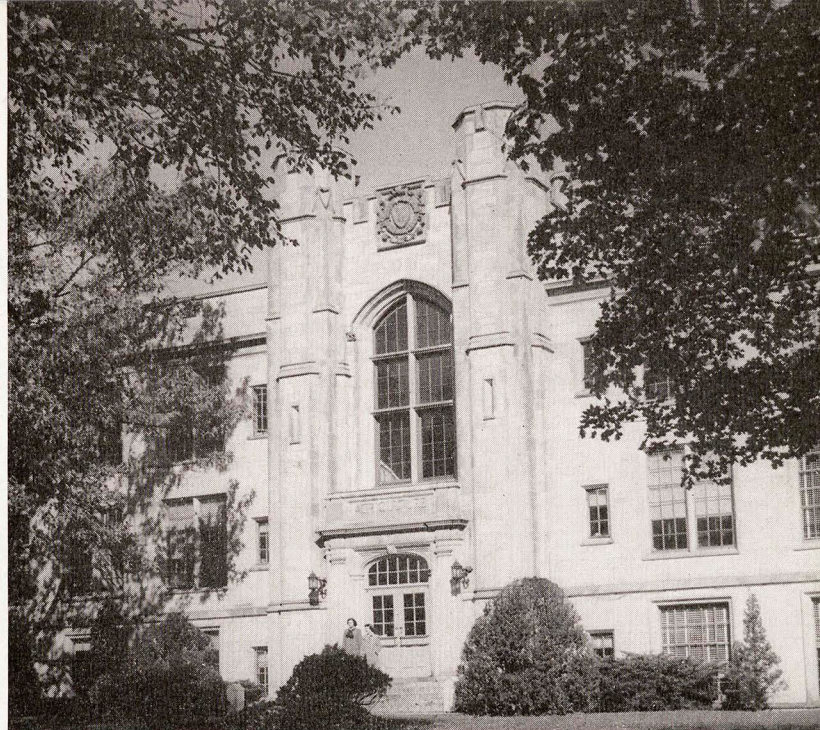

"The University of Arkansas has the courage and vigor of youth," Dr. Jones once stated, "and is not bound in the habits which were appropriate in situations which have passed away. I am convinced that it is from the great state universities of the Mississippi Basin, and of the Southern and Western parts of this country, that the creative movements which will shape the destinies of America, and therefore of our whole civilization, are most likely to come."

The founders of little Arkansas Industrial University would be astounded at its growth. And the University of Arkansas continues to grow, constantly expanding to meet the needs of the people and students of Arkansas.

Governor Sidney McMath, an alumnus of the University and the youngest governor in Arkansas history, was elected governor in 1948. Governor McMath was president of the associated students in 1936 and business manager of the RAZORBACK in 1935.

The University Board of Trustees has ten members who are appointed by the governor to serve a term of four years. A new member is appointed every year. Last year's appointee was Miss Pauline Hoeltzel, an English instructor in the Little Rock Junior College. Miss Hoeltzel is the first alumna of the University to serve on the Board. Other Board members are: Herbert Thomas, Fred I. Brown, P. E. Murphy, Raymond Orr, W. W. Sharp, W. T. Jones, Jack Stephens, Joe Hardin, and Henry Yocum.

Dr. Lewis Webster Jones, the University's twelfth president, came to the campus in 1947 from Bennington College in Vermont. Dr. Jones, a native of Nebraska, received his B.A. degree from Reed College in Oregon and his PhD. from the Robert Brookings Graduate School. He then went abroad for post-doctoral study in England and Switzerland.

Dr. Jones has carried an extremely heavy schedule since coming to the University. He has directed the University's three-fold program of residence instruction, research, and extension while working in close co-operation with the presidents of other Arkansas colleges on the program of higher education.

Away from the classroom, the desk, and the lecture platform, are the countless people, removed from the purely academic level, who help to make and carry out the policies of the University. For vast and complex mechanics are required so that all phases of University life may function smoothly.

The work of the people behind the scenes may consist of formulating a new field of study, handling publicity and finances, or counseling students about many different problems. Or it may be work which carries out the policies which other people make — tabulating records in the registrar's office, cooking meals in the Student Union grille, or shoveling snow off the sidewalks.

Every time a student eats lunch, or buys a magazine at the information desk, or checks out a book from the library, he can do so only because of the work of numerous administrators and University employees, who affect his life both on and off the campus.

THE COLLEGES ARE THE UNIVERSITY

When it was still Arkansas Industrial University, the University was expected to be an institution of broad outlook and varied service. In 1874, President Bishop quoted a contemplated plan for a University of four colleges with thirteen subordinate schools. The colleges were: agriculture, engineering, natural science, and general science and literature. Schools of military science and commerce were also planned. There was also a normal department.

None of the students entering for the first partial school year, January-July, 1872, were considered qualified to enroll as freshmen. Ten of the more advanced students were listed in the normal department, while the remainder, ninety-one, were enrolled in the preparatory department.

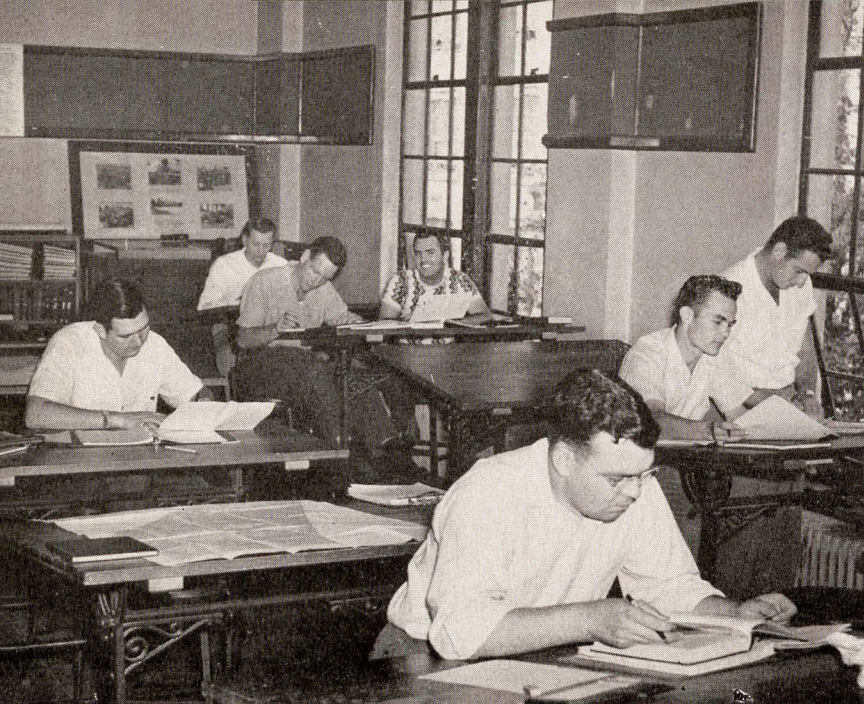

The title of "dean" first appeared in the catalog of 1905-06 and was applied to W. G. Vincenheller of the College of Agriculture. There was then no dean for the College of Liberal Arts, Sciences, and Engineering, often called the College.

Under the present system, the University is composed of five colleges: arts and sciences, education, engineering, agriculture, and business administration, and two schools: graduate and law.

The student interested in anything from Aerodynamics to Zoology can find instruction here, which is a far cry from the limited curriculum in the days when the University was "but thirty hours from Little Rock by stage and rail, and students were passed at half fare to the Capital."

CURRICULAR ACTIVITY, IN A CLASS BY ITSELF

In a lecture hall, a student takes pages of notes, doodling idly on the margin. In lab he looks for an "unknown", known only to the instructor. In the library, he crams for an exam, and "takes a break" by skimming over a book in the recreational reading room or drifting downstairs for a quick smoke. Classroom and study facilities are as varied as the courses of study themselves. In as many cases as possible, the student learns by practice participation in his particular field — practice teaching, working in the green house, or producing an actual radio broadcast. Whatever his field of study, his required and elective courses, he is sure never to be far-removed from that all-important element of college life — the classroom.

The personal touch

"But Miss Scudder, I thought it was a 12:30 night." "I just can't take zoology, even if it is required." "It's a trifle annoying when my roommate plays Khatchaturian at 3 in the morning!" The problems and complaints which coeds bring to the room of the personnel office marked "Dean of Women" are as varied and individual as the girls themselves.

Equipped with a bachelor of arts degree from Purdue, a master's from Columbia, and an innate understanding, Dean Jeannette Scudder has guided Arkansas coeds in the development of personality, character, and leadership since 1940.

DEANS OF MEN AND WOMEN

From assistant director of Ordark Research Project to Dean of Men was quite a change, but no one can any longer imagine Dean Shoemaker as anyone but Dean Shoemaker. A Harvard graduate, Dean John Shoemaker, a native of Seattle, Washington, received degrees in engineering, which led to his work with the Ordark Project.

Now, whether he's helping foreign students to sell book ends, or advising a veteran worried about his G.I. Bill, or counseling men students about personal problems, the personable dean is one of the most popular administrators on the campus.

Government BY THE STUDENTS

Student government at the University of Arkansas is a very vital part of campus life, for through actual participation, students keep an active voice in the governing policies of the University.

The Student Senate each year performs such integral functions as the obtaining of professional entertainment for the benefit of the students, apportioning of money to student organizations, and selecting representatives to festivals of other Southwest schools.

This year it obtained such "name" entertainers as Ray Anthony, Charlie Spivak, and Horace Heidt. An outstanding contribution was Prexy Bill Robbins' seven-point sportsmanship program, designed to help the University win the Southwest conference trophy. The Senate also serves as an advisory body to University officials, in such matters as class attendance, grading, and handling of student funds.

Student body officers this year were: president, Bill Robbins; vice-president, Steve Matthews; secretary, Janet Toney; and treasurer, John Thach.

The Student Court, composed of five undergraduate members, reviews the case of students who violate University rules. Chief justice of the court was Ben Core.

Student Government

The Association of Women Students, composed of executive and judicial boards, serves to foster the standing of women students in campus activities, and, in conjunction with Dean of Women Jeannette Scudder, helps fix rules relative to the action and behavior of Arkansas coeds. Each year it sponsors a mass meeting for freshmen women and transfers; a Christmas vice-versa dance, in which the girls turn the tables by asking the men for dates; and a spring festival, at which new Mortar Board members are tapped and sophomore counselors are announced.

Executive board officers this year were: president, Joan Glasgow; vice-president, June Cross; secretary, Nancy Anne Hall; and treasurer, Barbara Wood.

The student buys his school supplies in the bookstore, mails letters at the post office, or wanders into the lounge to read the home town paper. Later on, he finds that the Union serves other purposes, too. For, when he becomes a member of various organizations, he finds that most of them hold their regular meetings in the Union. And he will soon have occasion to learn that the personnel office, home of the offices of the dean of women and dean of men, is just across the hall from the lounge.

FOR THE STUDENT UNION, STUDENT PLANNING

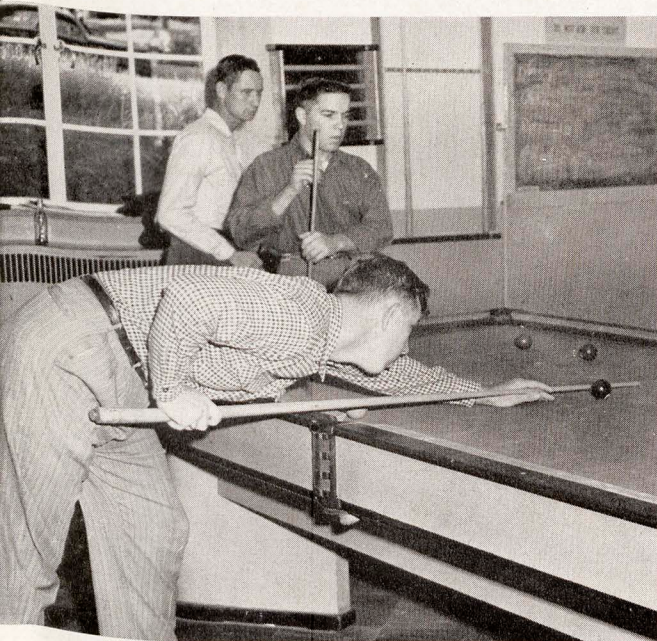

Keeping the Student Union running smoothly is a full-time job. Its over-all functions are supervised by Mrs. Earle Lawrence and the Student Union Board. The Board, whose 1950-51 chairman was Barbara Wood, acts as the co-ordinator for the maintenance, budget, upkeep, and program of the entire Union.

Its members formulate all Union policy and are in charge of all procedures and regulations. It is composed of six students and four faculty members.

The Central Planning Committee, headed by Bob McKinney, has a membership composed of the co-chairmen of each of the eight Student Union Committees: art, cinema, publicity, office management, special projects, photography, dance, and game. It evaluates and sets up programs concerning activities of the various committees.

It also carried out a program of expansion and remodeling of the Union which included purchase of new furniture and the redecoration of several meeting rooms.

THE WAY BACK, VIA REGISTRATION

Lines and triplicate forms and lines and class cards and more lines. So goes fall registration, the annual pandemonium where new students are confused and old students are grimly resigned.

"At least it's a tradition," one frazzled senior muttered, "just about as sure to be here every year as Old Main!" An indifferent voice over the loudspeaker announced that History 203x, section 14, was closed, and a moan went up from a group of sophomores standing before the desk.

Coming back to school, seeing old friends, settling down in their dorms or fraternity or sorority houses, old students soon fell into the familiar pattern of college life.

Freshmen and transfers, too, after having been thoroughly oriented by entrance exams, conferences with advisors, tours, and speeches, became familiar with campus ways and means. And when classes began, after hours of standing in book lines and groping their way to well-hidden class rooms, Arkansas students settled down into the routine for another year.

The Finer Things

A dream became a reality this fall when classes began in the new fine arts center. The completion of the center was the culmination of a plan begun several years ago and vigorously endorsed by President Jones. Construction was started in the Spring of 1949 after nearly a year of actual planning.

Until the completion of the center, the fine arts at the University could not receive the emphasis which they deserved, simply because of inadequate facilities. Now, the building houses the art, architecture, and music departments.

A "pre-dedication" ceremony, the world premiere of "Acres of Sky", was followed by dedication ceremonies consisting of a series of guest artists, who appeared throughout the year.

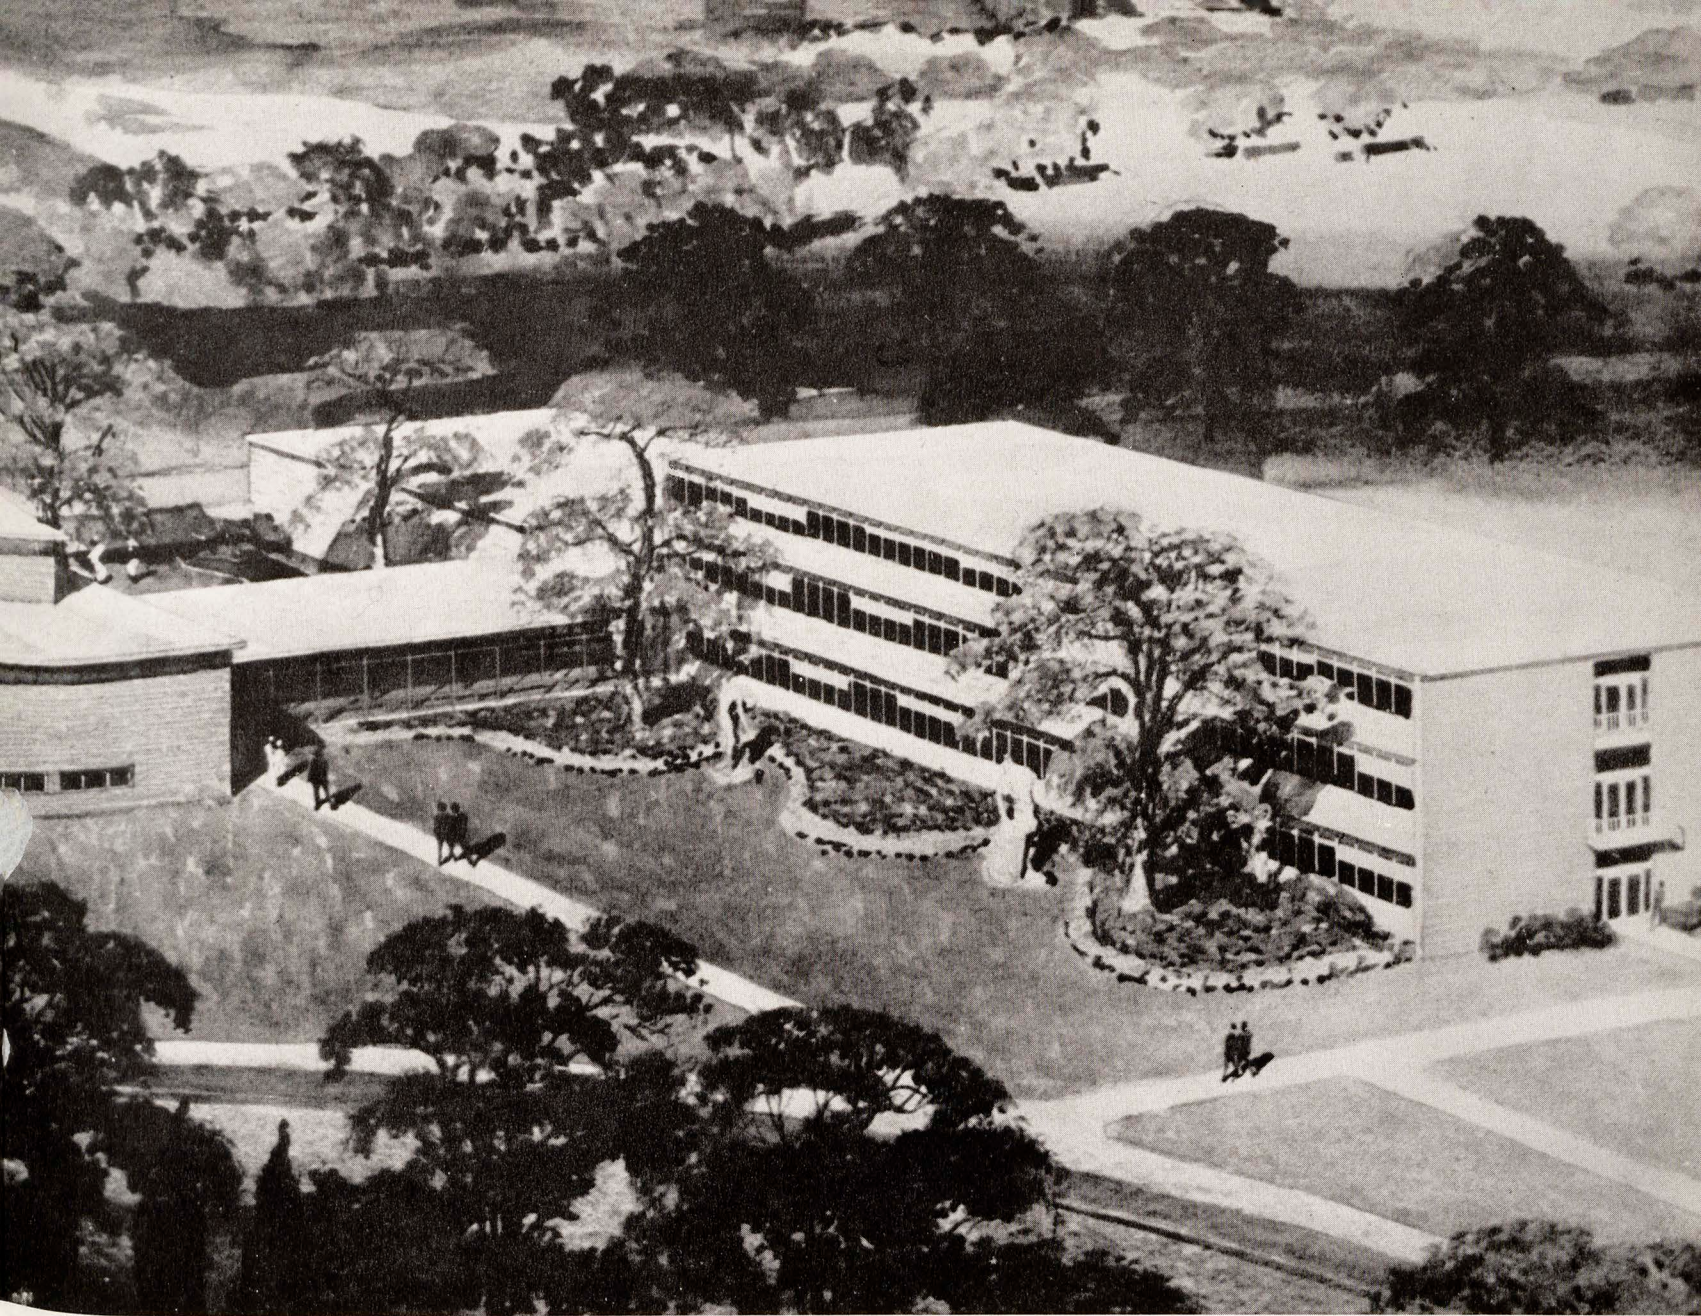

"Do you have a couple on Row D?"

The Play's the thing!

"This new theater is superior to any that I have seen in an educational institution. Talent here is fresh and vitalized," remarked Zoe Schiller, dialogue and lyric writer for "Acres of Sky."

With the completion of the arts center, the speech department and Blackfriars began making good use of the new theater and production facilities. Key note presentation of the season was the world premier of "Acres", adapted from a book by Arkansan Charles Morrow Wilson.

The other Blackfriars productions for the 1950-51 season were: "The Male Animal", presented in Old Main auditorium before the completion of the new theater; the refreshing and sparkling "Warrior's Husband"; "Double Door", a psychological melodrama; "Heaven Can Wait", a thoroughly entertaining confusion of events; "The Guardsman"; "Born Yesterday", presented "in the round"; and the ever-popular "Philadelphia Story."

Wesley Players promotes interest for the advancement of religious drama. The local chapter was organized in 1931. Membership is open to all students interested in producing, acting, or studying religious drama.

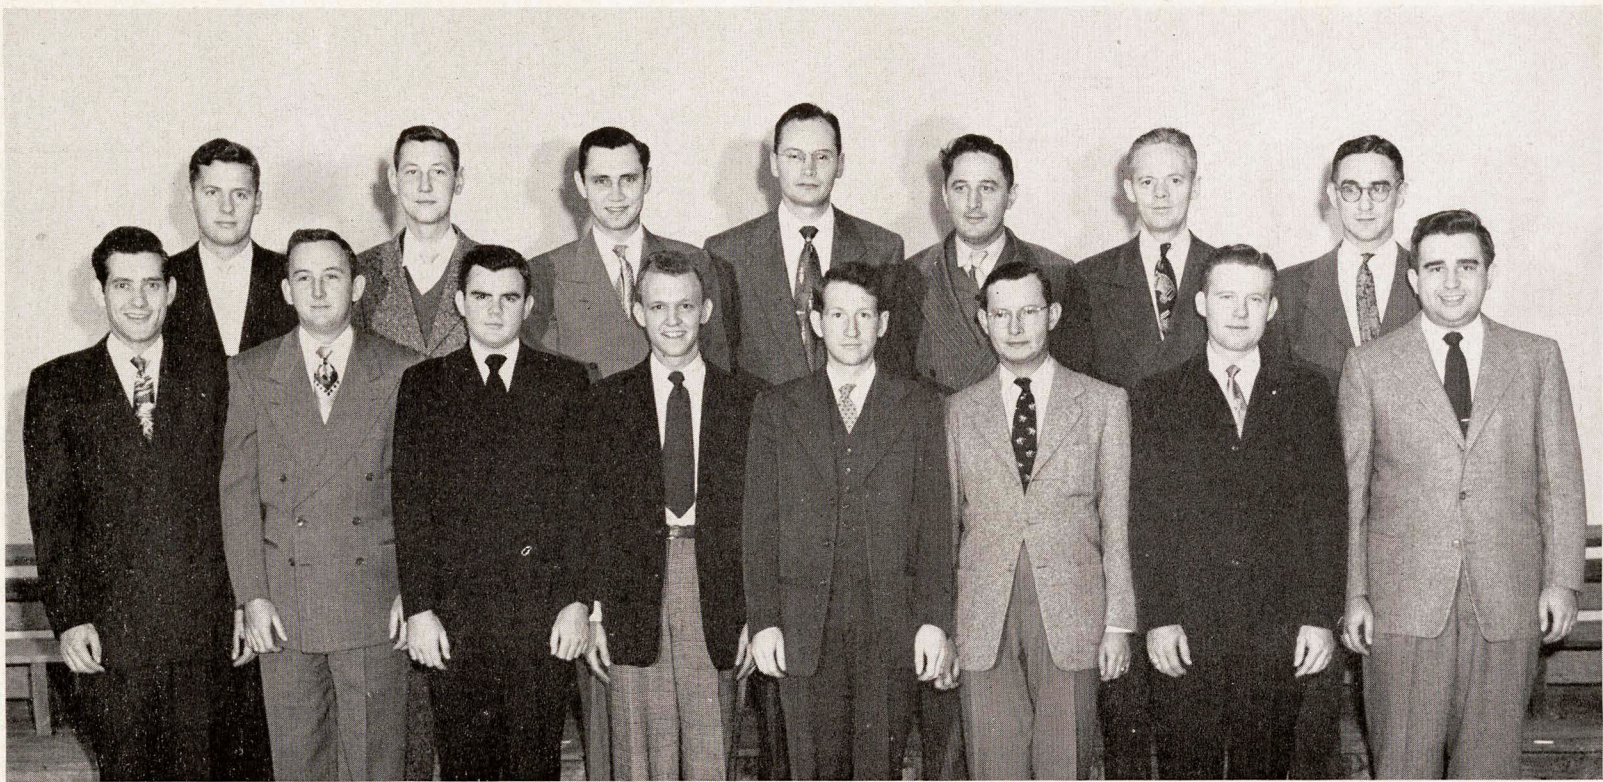

There's Music in the Air

Almost any hour of the day, piano music bounces across the campus from the open windows on third floor of the arts center. But a student need not be a serious vocalist or musician to take advantage of the various offerings of the music department.

If he is interested in making music "just for fun", he may participate in the University Mixed Chorus, the University Symphony Orchestra, or the Razorback Band. Class credit is given for work in mixed chorus or band.

The symphony orchestra, now in its second year, is composed of University students and faculty, townspeople, and high school students. It is under the direction of Marx J. Pales. In addition to three concerts, it this year presented a Bach festival and a children's concert.

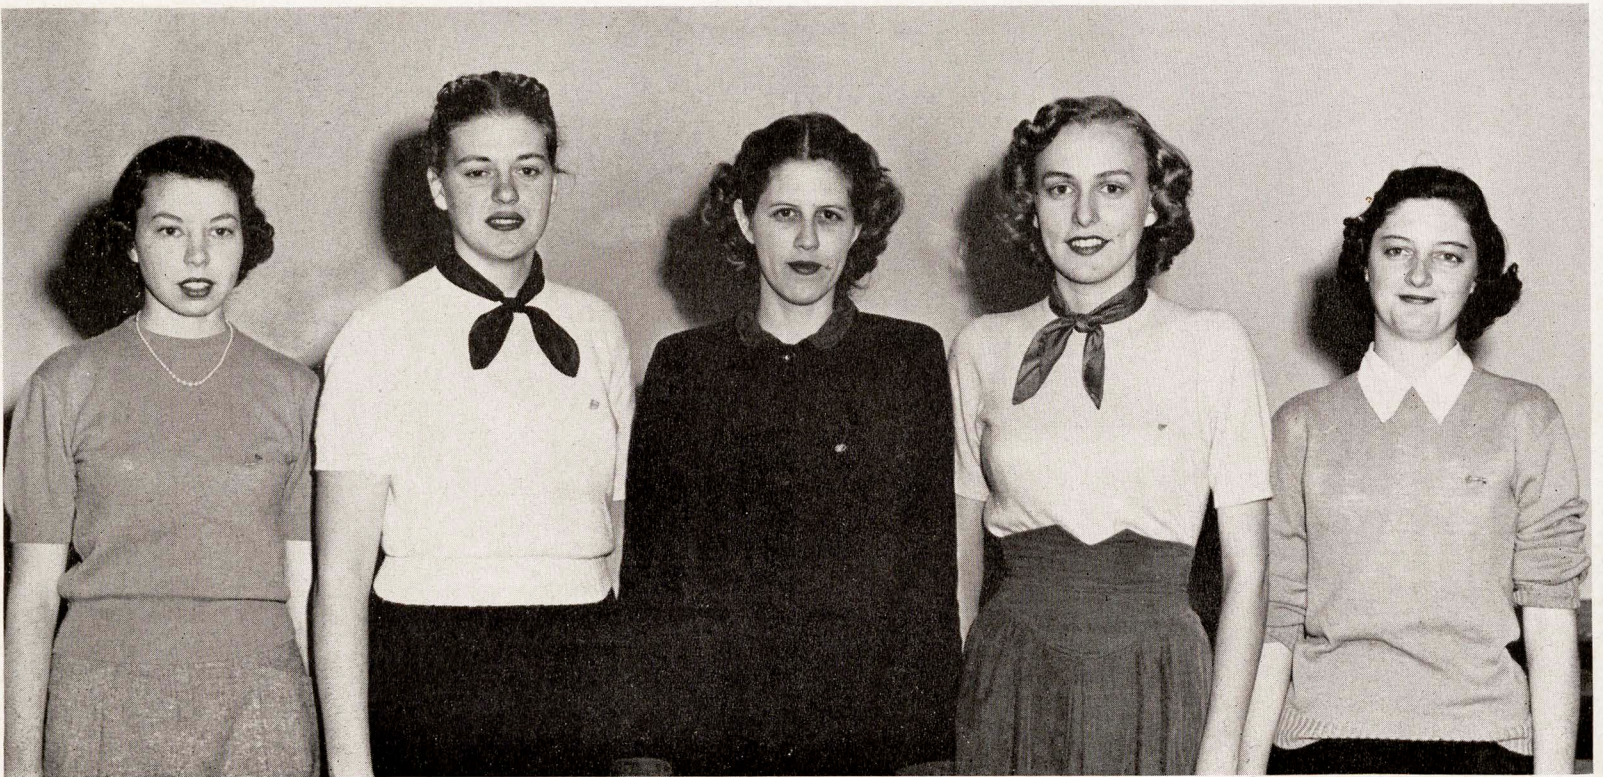

Membership in the band reached a peak of over 100 pieces. It continued to play both swing and jazz as well as straight march tunes. It is directed by Edmund J. Marty.

Sigma Alpha Iota is a national professional music fraternity for women students outstanding in music ability. -Sigma Omicron chapter was established on the campus in 1926. The chapter this year sponsored receptions following the concerts of guest artists and recitals of the music faculty.

UNIVERSITY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The University Symphony Orchestra is composed of University students, faculty, townspeople, and talented high school students.

The group made its first public appearance of the school year Sunday afternoon, December 10, as part of the Bach festival. Two Bach orchestral compositions were presented and the orchestra and a capella chorus joined to give the first cantata to be presented on this campus. The first formal orchestra concert was held in January.

UNIVERSITY MIXED CHORUS

The University Mixed Chorus is composed of students interested in ensemble singing. One hour of class credit is given for student participation. The requirements for membership are a basic knowledge of music and the ability to read music. The chorus is under the direction of Professor Harry E. Shultz.

"When you first think of the University of Arkansas, you naturally think of two things, the football team and the Razorback band," someone once remarked. And this is true, for the Razorback band, besides being downright pleasant to listen to, is one of the University's best public relation agents.

Under the direction of E. J. Marty, the band has grown to include a membership of over one hundred. Highlight of the 1950-51 season was its trip to the 1950 Mardi Gras, in which it was the official band of King Rex.

It's up and at 'em early for the band during game season. The big busses lumber out long before dawn, but the band members seem to thrive on it. They're always there on the field at half time, and the "Arkansas Traveler" never sounded so good as in an out-of-town hotel lobby at a pre-game rally.

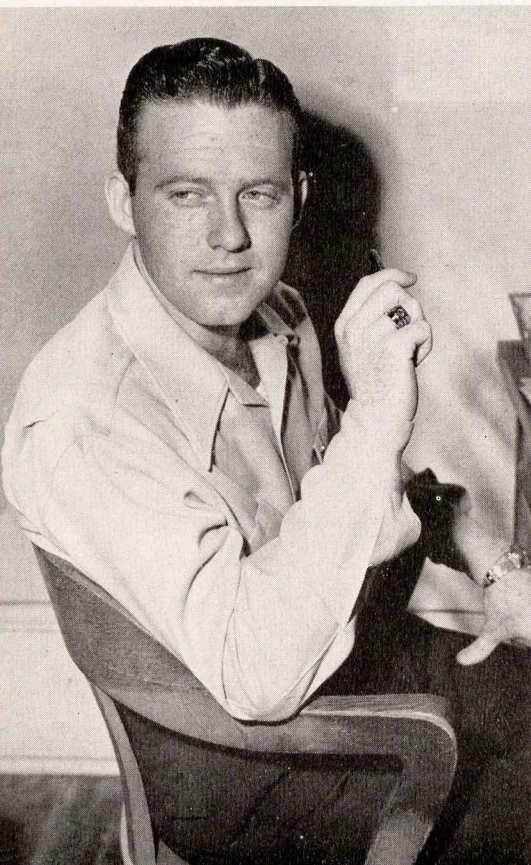

They are the most traveled Arkansas Travelers on the campus, and they love every minute of it. And so do the Razorbacks and the Razorback-rooters.

Tau Beta Sigma, newly organized on this campus, is a national honorary fraternity for women who are members of the student band. It is a sister organization to Kappa Kappa Psi, and works with it to provide a pleasant relationship for all engaged in college band work.

Kappa Kappa Psi, founded at Oklahoma A. and M. College in 1919, is a national honorary fraternity for college bandmen. The local chapter was organized in 1924. Its purposes are to promote the existence and welfare of the college band, and to foster a close relationship between college bands.

The Artistic Touch

This fall, the art department packed up its easels and sketch pads and moved from the fourth floor of Old Main to, appropriately enough, the Fine Arts Center. There painting, sculpture, ceramics, and architecture accustomed themselves to modern, well-equipped working facilities, with, best of all, plenty of light and space. Here are spacious studios, an outdoor sculpture court, and a handsomely furnished library.

The Art Guild, organization for art majors, serves the vital purpose of many such organizations—it brings together people with the same basic interests. The guild has been active in sponsoring exhibits and acting as a student-faculty medium within the department.

The American Institute of Architects, a national professional organization, is composed, quite naturally, of architectural students. Before the existence of the Fine Arts Center, architecture was a division of engineering, but now it has moved over to arts.

Whether he is a future Picasso or a non-major taking an introductory art course, the student will find top-level instruction and working conditions in the University art department.

Looks interesting, but what is it?

Charlie Spivak beams as he presents an armful of RAZORBACK beauty: Barbara Brothers, Jacque Galloway, Patricia McKenzie, and Diane Mack

A Pretty Girl

"What a job you handed me!" Charlie Spivak told the RAZORBACK staff as he scrutinized pictures of beauty candidates and the beauties themselves in the Student Union Blue Room.

Announcing his selections at the concert preceding the annual Porker Party, the merry little maestro presented each of the quartet with a bouquet of American Beauty roses and a kiss on the cheek. Then, turning to the audience, he asked, "May I come back and do this again next year?"

Thus, for the second year, the RAZORBACK beauties were picked "in person" rather than by photographs, for the staff believed that a beauty in the flesh is worth two in a photograph. Before 1950, the selections had been made only on the basis of photographs submitted to a well-known personality for judging.

The staff believes that the personable Mr. Spivak made excellent choices. He couldn't have been more co-operative, either—dashing from a hurried dinner to dress, while four editors sat munching their fingernails in his hotel lobby because there had been a misunderstanding about the time of the judging.

Here they are. We're mighty pleased with them, too—our RAZORBACK beauties for 1951.

Worst was the waiting.

For King Porker Rogers, a title and a tribute.

The judge and staff ponder, and Jacque comes up a winner.

No wonder the decisions were so hard to make.

From the Printed Page

Clacking typewriters, blaring radios, and the not-so-gentle mutterings of frenzied editors now make life interesting on the third floor of Hill Hall from 8 in the morning until midnight-and-after.

For, since the acquisition of a journalism building and a printing plant, the upper story of Hill has become publications floor, and headquarters for the RAZORBACK, Traveler, Agriculturist, Engineer, and Guild Ticker. All publications, except the RAZORBACK, are now printed in the University printing plant.

There were several mishaps—such as the time when the RAZORBACK editor, associate editor, and assistant editor found themselves barricaded in their office by playful Traveler staffers who blocked the door with surplus 1950 yearbooks; the girls were rescued only when two ex-editors from Idaho came wandering up the stairs in search of a photographer. And the Traveler staff found that the rapid depletion of their copy paper was due to a staff member's discovery that a quick flick of a ruler inserted between their locked office door and the facing would cancel all their attempts to preserve privacy.

There's a friendly informality about a publications office, and the future fourth-estaters who inhabit it wouldn't be doing anything else except writing copy, selling ads, and sometimes nearly flunking as a consequence. They're funny that way.

With the print shop came added emphasis on technical journalism.

BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS

The Board of Publications, general supervisory body for all student publications, annually selects the editors and business managers of the Traveler and RAZORBACK and the editor of the A Book. It is composed of the editor of the Traveler; editor of the RAZORBACK; the president of the Press Club; two student editors or business managers from the Agriculturist, Guild Ticker, Engineer, or Law Review; a student senator; a member of the journalism faculty, a member of the business office staff; and one other faculty member.

The Press Club is composed of students interested in journalism. The requirements for membership are either having completed the course in newswriting or being enrolled in the newswriting course, or having served as a staff member on the Traveler or RAZORBACK.

For the Traveler, a last-minute proofreading.

Research for a seminar notebook, of course.

Mr. Albin receives his '50 RAZORBACK with, shall we say, skepticism?

THE 1951 RAZORBACK

A MAGAZINE LAYOUT . . .

"This is the Arkansas RAZORBACK office. No, we can't give you second east. You must want Razorback Hall. . . . No, you know, the yearbook. Yes, we do have an office." The preceding conversation occurred at least twice daily during the staff's struggles to put together the 1951 RAZORBACK.

Coupled with such other details as mysteriously disappearing class pictures, a lost dummy, and even-more-lost photographers, the staff lived through enough harrying events to enable them to write a book.

If there is a theme to the book, it is the "Arkansas Story". But the real theme is the book itself. In the spring of 1950, when the staff first began to make plans, they only knew that they wanted to publish "something different" in layout and format from previous books. And so came a complete magazine layout, which extended even to the cover design and gave more spontaneity and freedom to the layout.

Filing class cards, filing pictures, typing lists ad infinitum, writing copy, the staff managed to sort out the book, piece by piece. In producing an annual, there are so many different kinds of work, and so many people who must receive credit . . . Janie Sullivan, editor-elect of the '52 RAZORBACK; assistant editors Grace Godat and Perrin Jones; the Wilsons, Tommy and Lou, Tommy with experience gained the hard way—from being editor of the '50 RAZORBACK; Mary Anna Culkin, who took her typing home because she "couldn't work in that noisy office"; Ann Barrett, who ran innumerable last-minute errands and kept smiling through it all; photographers Don McMillan, Aubert Martin, and Marvin Demuth; and Bill Espy's efficient business staff—Bob Hornor, Terri Campbell, and Martha Williams.

And there are others, too, to whom we are indebted . . . Ed Puska, genial photographer-about-town, without whom there could have been no book; Mr. J. A. Thalheimer, faculty advisor; Bob Cheyne, University sports publicity director, who gave invaluable aid in writing and compiling the sports section; Mr. R. C. Walker, president of Southwestern Engraving Company; Mr. R. J. Collins, of Economy Advertising Company; and Mr. V. T. Montague, of Kingsport Press.

All in all, it didn't take long to realize that the joys of producing a yearbook would be anything but joys for pros who tried to trace editors who were trying to trace staff members who were trying to trace house and organization copy. And the lowest blow of all came when an innocent outsider wandered in to remark, "Don't see what you're worried about. You have a snap, putting out a yearbook. There's only one a year!"

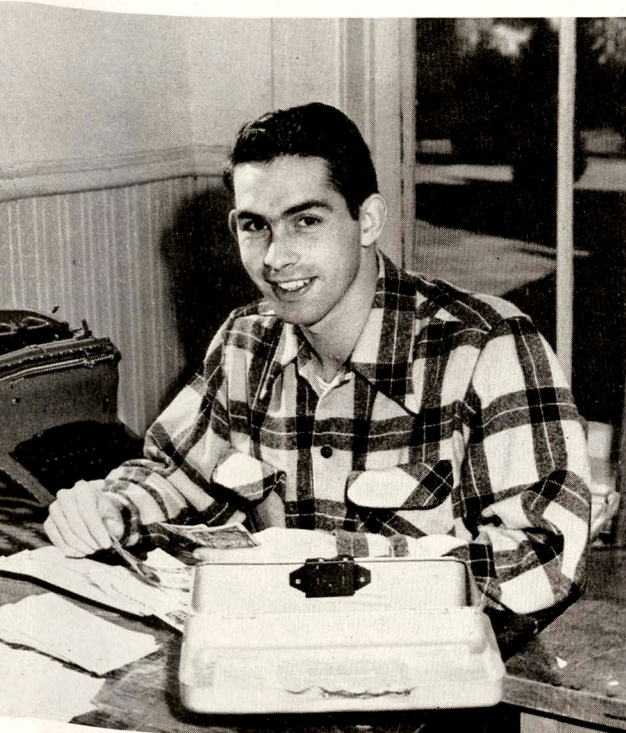

For which small blessing the staff could be sincerely grateful.

For Arkansas Students, the Arkansas Story.

THE ARKANSAS TRAVELER

TRAVELING SINCE 1894

A 12-page Arkansas Traveler rolled off the presses in the University printing plant on September 22, 1950, the first of the Traveler's 60 editions for 1950-51. This, the largest first edition in the history of the paper, was followed by a record publication schedule of two eight-page editions weekly.

That first edition had a different appearance from former Travelers. The front page slogan had been picked in a contest held in the spring of 1950. The first paper also carried a new streamlined nameplate, and on it was the slogan "Traveling Since 1894." This slogan had been picked in a contest held in the spring of 1950. The first paper also carried the Traveler's newly designed nameplates for its editorial, society, and sports pages. These were part of the modern, new appearance of the paper, going through its second year of publication in the University's $60,000 printing plant.

The increased size of the paper allowed the addition of several weekly features. An editorial page was carried in each edition. A picture page was carried in the regular Tuesday edition, and a feature page was begun in the second semester.

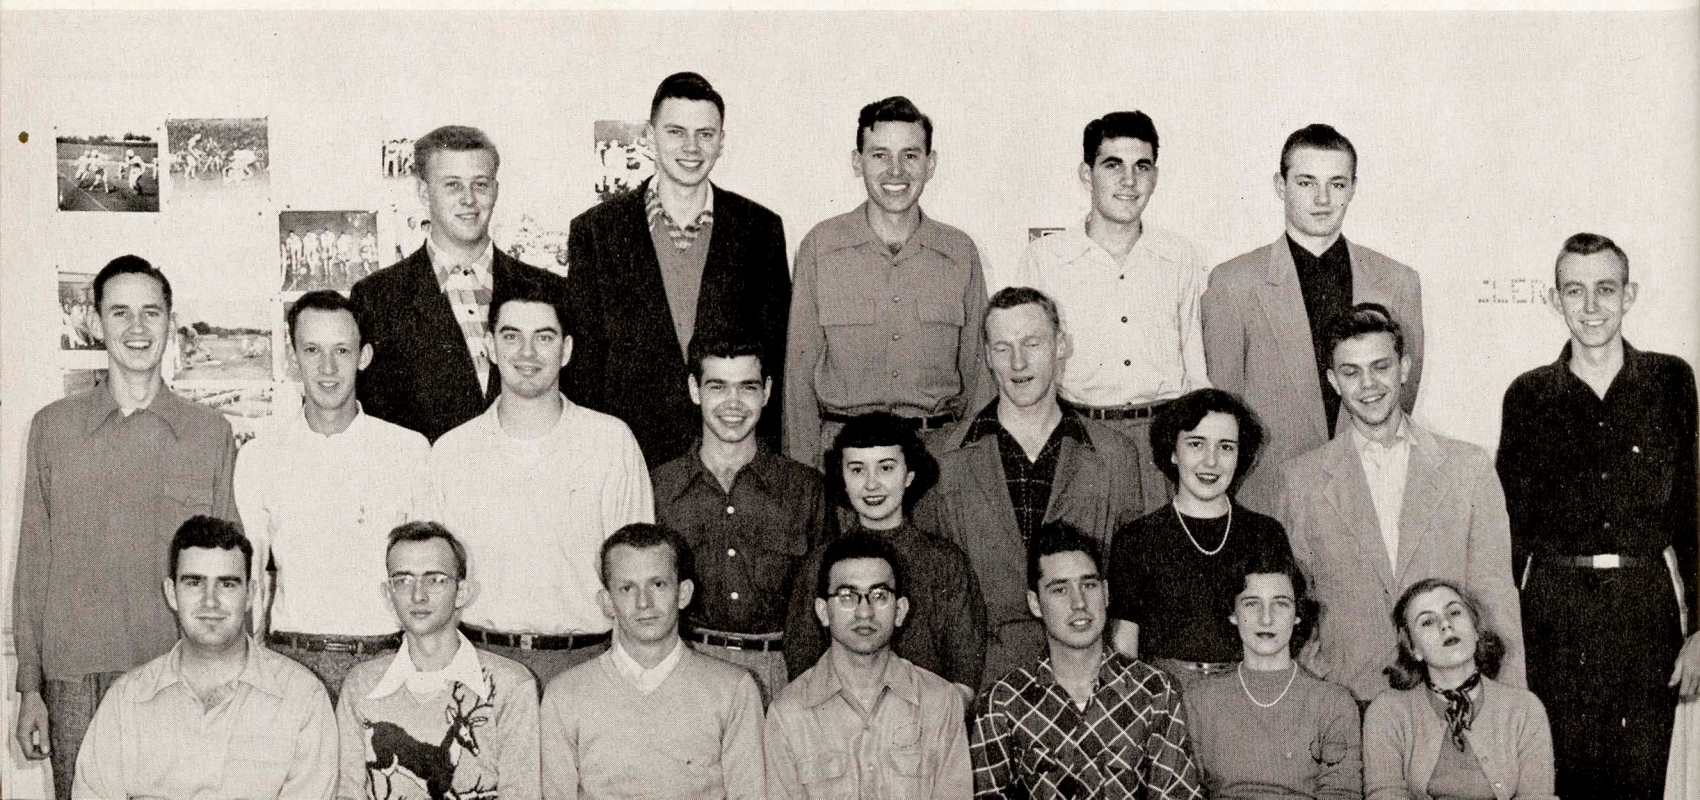

Because of the drop in income caused by decreased enrollment, the Traveler's Tuesday edition was decreased from eight to four pages, toward the latter part of the first semester. Further cuts in publication were threatened until the University appropriated enough money to the Traveler to get it out of its financial slump. Advertising and off-campus circulation were also increased to help the financial situation.

For Homecoming the Traveler published a 16-page special edition with headlines in color, the first to be used in the history of the publication.

A special reporter's award for outstanding service to the Traveler was given out for the first time in 1951. First recipient of this award was Sam Boyce. The annual award was set up by the board of publications to be awarded for meritorious service by a Traveler reporter.

On Tuesday's editorial page a policy of carrying guest editorials was inaugurated. These, written by students, University personnel, and others, were carried along with the regular staff editorials.

THE GUILD TICKER

"THAT BETTER TRADE . . ."

Since an accurate spring enrollment trend in the College of Business Administration could not be forecast earlier, only a spring issue of the Guild Ticker was published this year. Hustle was the by-word as March arrived and the clanging of typewriters began filling the previously peaceful atmosphere of the office.

A great deal of attention was directed toward the activities of Commerce Day. The issue also contained comments on alumni, organizational news, and feature articles.

The cover, designed by the art department, and the art work throughout the book highlighted Commerce Day and the fourteenth year of publication of the Guild Ticker.

Campus circulation of the magazine was 800, while approximately 550 copies were mailed to high schools and industries in Arkansas and other colleges throughout the country.

THE ARKANSAS AGRICULTURIST

GRUNTS AND SQUEALS

The Arkansas Agriculturist is the official student and faculty voice of the College of Agriculture, and has been published since 1924. Throughout its pages are found articles of interest about Agri school, features on technical research in agriculture and home economics, news of the various clubs and organizations in the college, editorials, and general news about students. Eight issues each school year are put out by the students in the college.

One of the highlights of the year was the special Chicken-of-Tomorrow issue, which came out in March, just as the national Chicken-of-Tomorrow contest was getting under way. Five thousand copies of the 56-page issue, which contained articles about the poultry industry, the contest, and the University's part in it, were distributed to visitors, poultry contestants, and poultrymen throughout Arkansas and the nation.

Another big issue was the annual Agri Day issue, which was distributed on April 28, Agri Day. The cover, in its traditional red, featured Agri Queen Donna Hudson. Its pages included pictures and stories of the organizations in Agri School, Who's Who in the College, and a feature on the winner of "Miss Chicken-of-Tomorrow."

A permanent feature of the Agriculturist which was continued this year was the "Ags of the Month" page. A committee of the staff together with faculty members selected three Agri students each month for the honor.

New features this year included a column, "Pitching Pitchforks", written by Tom Wilkinson, and a series of articles depicting the departmental arrangements within the college.

The editor, associate editor, and business manager of the Agriculturist are elected each year prior to Agri Day, along with the other students of the Agri Students Association, the governing body of Agri school.

For Agri students, features, articles, and jokes.

ARKANSAS ENGINEER

"WITH LOCAL COLOR . . ."

After getting over a few of the rough spots at the beginning of the year, the Engineer finally got under way under the direction of Bill Robbins and Don Boling.

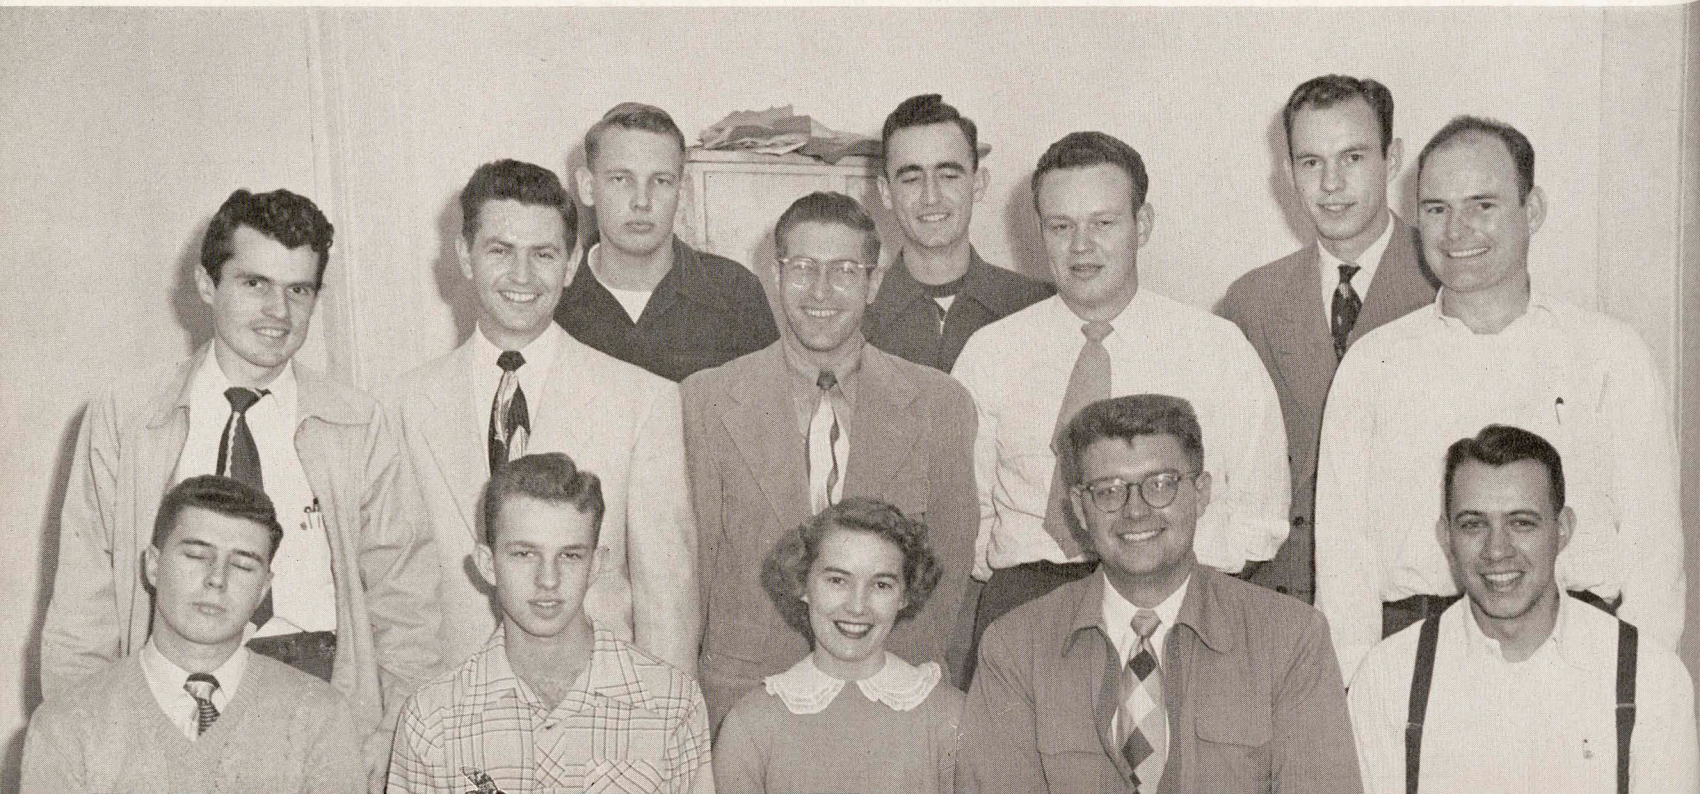

At the beginning of this year, the business manager who was elected in the spring elections resigned his post. After volunteering to take the position, Don Boling had to show the University treasurer that the Engineer could pay off one-fourth of the standing debt that had been accumulating for the past several years, before the Engineer could go to press.

The Engineer this year tried to keep as much local color and interest in the magazine as possible. This was evident in such articles as those dealing with the fine arts theatre.

The editor and business manager made a trip to Stillwater, Oklahoma, where they attended the national convention of the Engineering College Magazines Associated, which was held at Oklahoma A. and M. College.

Outstanding staff members were presented Arkansas Engineer keys at the annual Engineer's Banquet.

For engineers, frivolity and professional chit-chat.

THE ARKANSAS LAW REVIEW

"OUTSTANDING SCHOLARLY PUBLICATION . . ."

Five years from its foundation in the spring of 1946, the Arkansas Law Review has attained the rank of the "outstanding scholarly publication in the state," with a circulation of upwards of 1400 copies throughout Arkansas and the other states, as well as Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

The first issue was published for Arkansas lawyers in January of 1947. In the summer of that year, a group of prominent attorneys, representing the Arkansas Bar Association, formed a corporation to publish the Review. With the summer issue of 1947, the format of the publication was changed to the Arkansas Law Review and Bar Association Journal, and since then it has been a joint enterprise of the bar Association and the faculty and students of the Law School. The Review is distributed to University of Arkansas law students, member of the Arkansas Bar Association, to practically every law school throughout the country, and to many of the state Supreme Courts.

Patterned after the publications of the older law schools, the Review consists of critical and analytical legal writings on topics of interest to the Arkansas bench and bar. It has been cited as authority in decisions by the Arkansas Supreme Court as well as the courts of other jurisdictions. Full length articles written by faculty members, outstanding lawyers, and authorities of other states constitute the bulk of the publication. Contributions of the student staff include comments on legal problems of current interest and brief case notes on recent significant decisions by the courts throughout the country.

The Student Editorial Board is selected from law students who have demonstrated ability in legal writing, and have written a certain amount of publishable material for the Review.

A Law Review office, complete with library, is provided in the basement of the Law building. Here the members of the staff read and screen the decisions of the higher courts, write the short articles which form an important part of the Law Review, and criticize or revise articles written for publication by other students. Law Review work is considered invaluable training for a law student inasmuch as it affords an opportunity to do original research on legal problems as practicing attorneys must do.

For law students, decisions and critical analyses.

Mortar Board, national leadership honorary for senior women, this year adopted a point system, to be adopted voluntarily by campus organizations, by which a girl would be limited in the number of offices she could hold at any one time. The group, after thorough consideration, felt that such a policy would help to prevent a few girls from becoming overburdened with activities, and would also give service opportunities to a greater number of girls.

Blue Key, national leadership fraternity for college men, this year continued its policy of publicizing the University in high schools throughout the state. In co-operation with Mortar Board, it sent out student speakers to high schools in the state.

Members of Omicron Delta Kappa, national leadership honor society for men, are selected from junior and senior men on the basis of character and specified eligibility in five major phases of campus life, scholarship, athletics, social and religious affairs, publications and speech, and music and dramatic arts.

Honor Bound

Early in May every year, an Honor's Day convocation is held in the Student Union ballroom. Sponsored by the Honor Council, the convocation is established to give recognition to scholastic achievement by students during the past year.

At this time, students are presented with various awards, scholarships, and certificates in recognition of their scholastic achievement. Also, the senior scholar keys are presented to the outstanding senior, scholastically, in each college.

The Honor Council is composed of honor organizations on the campus which require at least a four point in scholarship for membership. Wayne Boyce was president and Gene Lambert was vice-president of the Council this year.

Tau Beta Pi, national engineering society, is composed of students who are outstanding in scholarship and character. Members are selected from the upper fifth of the senior class and the upper eighth of the junior class. Some scholarships are offered to graduate students each year and a slide rule is given to the freshman with the highest grade point average.

GAEBALE: For Students, a Jubilee

Once a year, Arkansas students kick over the traces and have themselves a Spring holiday. After weeks of planning, preparation, and hammering and sawing on booths, though, it is often said by the aforesaid students that the only people who really enjoy Gaebale are their guests!

Established in 1947, this annual student carnival was named by combining the initial letters of each of the seven colleges: Graduate, Arts and Sciences, Education, Business Administration, Agriculture, Law, and Engineering. It includes a beauty show, a student-written and dramatized varsity show, a formal, and, highlight of the entire procedure, a carnival midway, in which each organized house enters a booth.

Bob Logsden was general student chairman of Gaebale this year.

ABC drawing drew a crowd.

For Gaebale, pulchritude and personality.

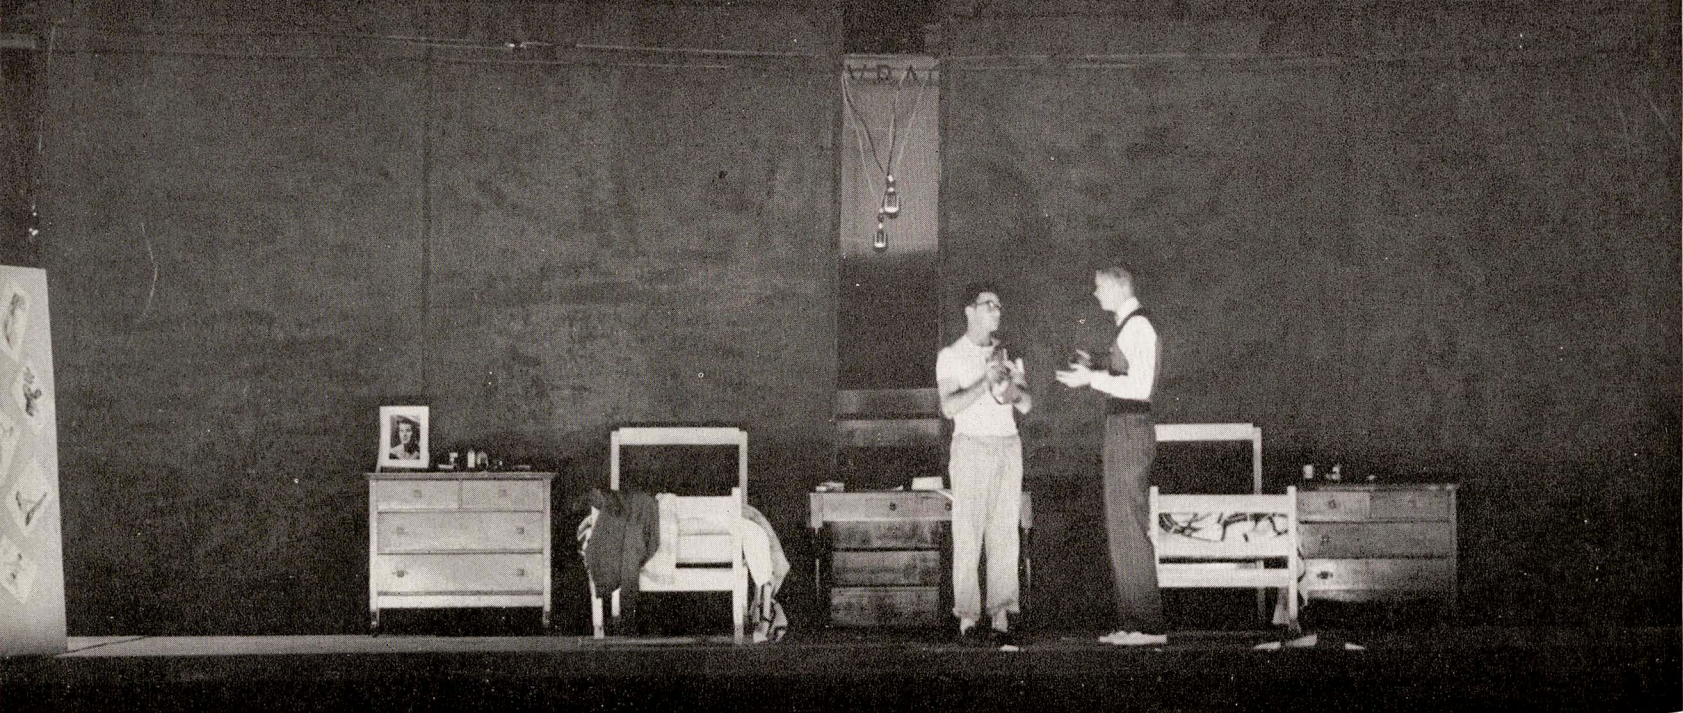

Harlem Honeys harmonize.

Crowds and confusion add to the atmosphere.

For the varsity show, "Good News".

From Holcombe Hall, a lively skit.

And still the crowds came . . .

. . . And went.

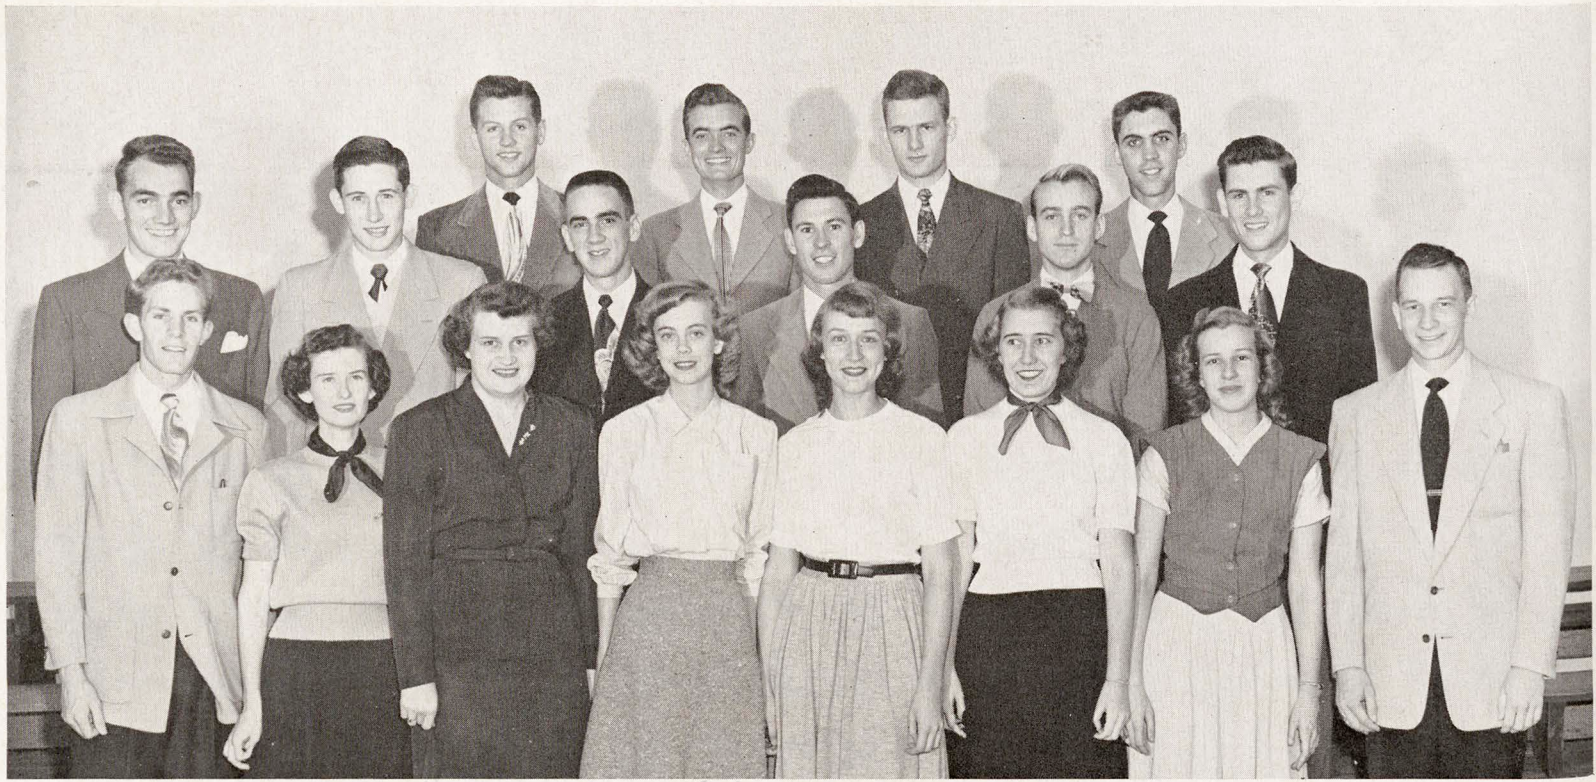

Friendship and Fellowship

Twenty-four churches in Fayetteville provide opportunity for spiritual development of University students.

For the third annual year, Religious Emphasis Week was sponsored on the campus by the Student Christian Council, featuring a number of religious leaders.

Opened by a sunrise service in the Greek amphitheater, the series was composed of class sessions in various colleges, discussion groups in organized houses, and convocations. Private conferences were also arranged for all students who desired.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

The purpose of the Baptist Student Union is to serve as a connecting link between the campus and the First Baptist Church. It co-ordinates the religious activities of Baptist students, such as Sunday School, training union, woman's auxiliary, brotherhood, and youth fellowship.

CANTERBURY CLUB

The Association of Canterbury Clubs is a national organization of student members of the Episcopal Church in college and university centers over the country. The University of Arkansas Canterbury Club is, in effect, the student section of the Church Society for College Work of the Episcopal Church.

DISCIPLE STUDENT FELLOWSHIP

The Disciple Student Fellowship, the student organization of the First Christian Church, has as its purpose the molding of Christian personalities through a four-fold program of worship, study, fellowship, and service. The group holds retreats, Sunday vespers, informal supper meetings, and group discussions all during the year.

NEWMAN CLUB

 SECOND ROW: J. P. Fialla, Joe Marics, W. A. Townsend, Father Francis J. McKee, B. L. Connelly, Donald Berg, Francis J. Dolci, William B. Kirk, George Ballard.
 BACK ROW: Vincent Lovoi, Tom J. Caldarera, Charles Hughes, Jr., William B. Bishop, Joe McGrath, Al Rockenhaus, Al D'Ambrose, Jerry Ahne, Thomas M. Kehn.

The Newman Club strives to reach all Catholic students on the campus in order to provide them with a fuller and richer religious life while they are in the University. Its stated purpose is "to deepen the spiritual and to enrich the temporal lives of its members through a balanced program of religious, intellectual, and social activities."

The Student Christian Council endeavors to bring about a closer fellowship between the churches of Fayetteville and the students on the University of Arkansas campus. The Council is composed of two student representatives from each of the city churches, and two representatives from both YMCA and YWCA. Pastors of the churches are advisors to the council. The main program of the Council is the sponsorship of Religious Emphasis Week, which is held each spring.

UNIVERSITY MEN'S BIBLE CLASS

The University Men's Bible Class is the largest organized group in the student program of the Central Presbyterian Church. This class recognizes the importance of the development of Christian fellowship in University of Arkansas campus life. In addition to the regular Sunday morning classes, special days such as Homecoming, Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Mother's Day are suitably celebrated. In accordance with a custom of nearly twenty-five years, members of the football and basketball teams are honor guests each season.

WESLEY FOUNDATION COUNCIL

FRONT ROW: Carrie Holland, Jo Treece, Chloe Goodloe, Kathryn Rodgers, Georgianna Steinbach, Rosa Lou Fox, Billie Jo Jennings, Ethel Louise Willcox.
 SECOND ROW: Jean Kimberling, Jim Newman, Louis Sanders, John Martin Rosso, Don M. Hitt, Caroline Hathcock, Mrs. A. W. Blake.

Wesley Foundation provides opportunities for the college student to develop spiritually, mentally, socially, and physically. Although the organization is sponsored by the Methodist Church, it welcomes all students who are interested in a well-rounded program, including worship, recreation, and fellowship.

The newly organized Westminster Fellowship is composed of student members of both the Central and First Presbyterian churches. Through fellowship together, the group promotes understanding and co-operation between the two student groups, and also serves as a means of service and recreation.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

 SECOND ROW: Sam Gooden, Gene Basden, Forrest Tennant, Birch Willey, Ray Bickerstaff.

The YMCA, a world-wide organization, strives to promote Christian work on the University campus. Any University male is eligible for membership. The primary purpose of the organization is to promote religious interest and friendliness among students on the campus. Through its receptions for new students, the "Y" endeavors to help newcomers to the campus become acquainted and become better adjusted to University life.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

The YWCA has become an integral part in University campus activities through interest rendered by its membership. One of its functional services is to make campus life more pleasant and worthwhile. All women students are eligible to membership in YWCA. It sponsors the sunrise service held annually on Palm Sunday as part of Religious Emphasis Week on the campus.

Forward, March!

The Military Department of the University of Arkansas, which is made up of the Air Force and Army units, is performing its part in the overall Department of Defense plans to meet the international emergency. Officer procurements of the services is about 90% dependent upon the Reserve Officer Training Corps program and this fact alone conveys an idea of the importance and prestige commanded by the Military Department on the campus.

Under the leadership of Col. Ray M. O'Day of the Army and Lt. Col. Merton L. Parks of the Air Force, military students have demonstrated interest and sincerity in their studies toward a commission as second lieutenant in the branch of their choice. An enlarged staff carries on the training plans for the ROTC and this faculty will continue to furnish trained officers for the Air Force and Army in the future.

AIR FORCE ROTC

During the school year 1950-51, another milestone was marked in the history of the Air Force ROTC program since its activation at the University in 1946. The AFROTC Cadet Corps exceeded all previous enrollment in both basic and advanced classes by over two hundred students.

During the second year of autonomous operation, under the leadership of Lt. Col. Merton L. Parks, Professor of Air Science and Tactics, the Air Force ROTC continued its record, and gained added prestige on the campus, both among faculty members and the student body. Second Lieutenant commissions were awarded to 98 Air Force cadets, the largest class in the history of the unit.

Last year the summer camp for AF cadets in the Administration and Logistics course was held at Kelly Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, while the cadets in Aircraft Maintenance Engineering attended camp at Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, Illinois. Cadet Henry Thomas was named the outstanding cadet from Arkansas, was appointed as cadet colonel of the cadet corps and was tendered a regular commission in the United States Air Force.

Since the Air Force ROTC program was activated five years ago, the Air Force has awarded reserve commissions to 285 students, and Regular Air Force commissions have been tendered to twelve students.

Captain Claude A. Hughes, the Plans and Training Officer, is also the instructor for the advanced Aircraft Maintenance Engineering course. Captain Herbert C. Burton, the instructor for freshmen, is the adjutant for the unit. Captain William W. Lee is instructor for sophomore classes and coaches the AFROTC Rifle Team. Lieutenant George A. Dawes is the instructor for advanced Administration and Logistics course and is also the Supply Officer for the unit. M/Sgt. Charles L. Mutter is an instructor for both advanced and basic classes.

ARMY ROTC

The 78th anniversary of the Army ROTC, currently directed by Colonel Ray M. O'Day, Professor of Military Science and Tactics, marked another milestone in the mission of the unit; that is, the turning out of trained Reserve officers for duty in the United States Army as second lieutenants.

Many of last year's graduates of the Infantry and Signal Corps are on duty in all parts of the world and their ability to serve in a creditable manner is attested by rapid promotions to higher ranks and their assignments to highly responsible positions.

The realization of the importance of college military training by the students is shown by the high increase in enrollment in the Advanced course. This enrollment has risen from 159 last year to 244 during 1950-51. A comparable gain was shown in the basic courses. These gains were recorded despite a decreased total enrollment in the University.

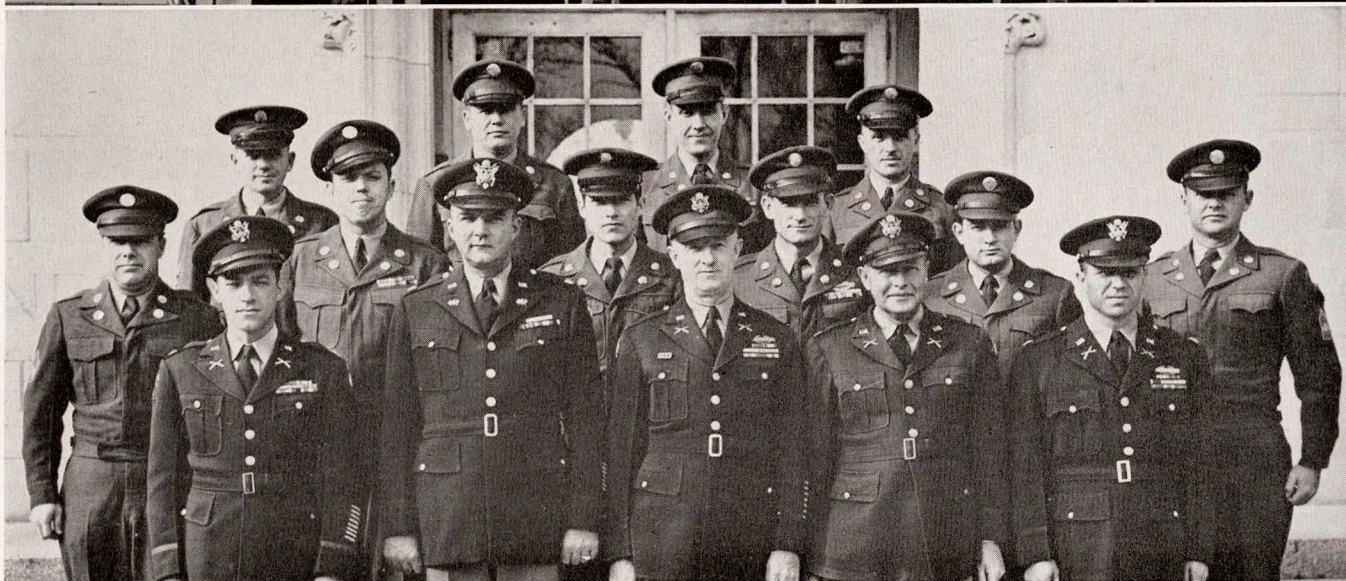

The highlights of the ROTC program are the annual Federal Inspection and the Cadet Military Ball. The Federal Inspection is conducted by a group of high ranking officers from Fourth Army and State headquarters. The reports made by these officers show the reasons for the high rating that is consistently given to the ROTC unit on the campus. Jimmy Dorsey and his orchestra furnished the music for this year's Military Ball, where the sponsors for the various units were presented.

Outstanding cadets are designated as Distinguished Military Students and those graduating in June of 1951 have been tendered regular army commissions. Those who have accepted these commissions are David J. Baumgardner, Wayne W. Reed, Charles M. Milam, William E. Taliaferro, and Joseph B. Milwee.

RAZORBACK SPORTS

The overall athletic program at the University of Arkansas in 1950-51 was the most complete and far-reaching in the 56 years of inter-collegiate competition for the Razorbacks.

Though a lone Southwest Conference championship in cross country was entered in the record books during the year, athletes from Arkansas entered and competed in 112 varsity and freshman contests in the University's six sports.

Football and basketball, Arkansas's so-called one-two punch in collegiate athletics, suffered rude setbacks during the past season but outstanding freshman teams in both sports gave promise of a "road to recovery" in the coming year.

Razorback football dads are honored on Dad's Day.

The year 1950 saw at least two "firsts" in athletics at University of Arkansas. A thrilled crowd of 18,000 heralded the Arkansas-Baylor Dad's Day game with the Razorbacks winning 27-6. Featuring a full day of activity on the campus, at organized houses and during the football game, the Dad's Day program proved to be a genuine success and may in time rank along with Homecoming Day as a campus holiday.

In track, where tremendous strides have been made, the First (and this past spring — the Second) Annual University of Arkansas Relays had its birth. A brain-child of Coach Johnny Morriss, the meet drew wide interest over the state from high schools. The Relays this past season swelled to nearly 300 college and high school athletes.

HOMECOMING

Over a thousand blazing torches set off a round of activities that culminated in a gridiron skirmish between the Razorbacks and the Rice Owls. Homecoming, one of Arkansas' two traditional celebrations, was this year, as usual, a mass of color, confusion, and visiting alums. As usual, there were a parade, colorful lawn decorations, and a dance. And, incidentally, Arkansas lost the game. But glamour, pageantry, and beauties couldn't be outdone, and combined to make another successful and memorable Homecoming.

Arkansas started off its football season with a 12-7 loss to Oklahoma A. and M. Noteworthy in the game was the play of tackle Dave "Red" Hanner and the defensive play of the Porker backfield.

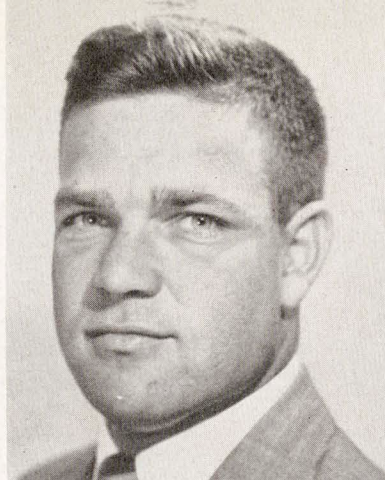

In the first home game of the season, before a crowd of 15,000, the Porkers trounced North Texas State 50-6. They unleashed a crushing ground attack constructed around the running of Sam Furo, Joe Baldrige, Buddy Rogers, and Ray Parks. The big difference between this game and the Aggie affair was due to pass reception. A crew of Porker flankers and backs who could snare only three aerials against the Aggies managed to clutch eight of 20 for 111 yards. The entire attacking line blocked savagely, and the soph secondary of Buddy Sutton, Footsie Cross, Johnny Cole, and Dean Pryor continued masterful play.

In a repeat performance of the Aggie game, though, Arkansas bowed to TCU 13-6. This time it was the Porker ground attack that failed to come through, while the passing attack picked up most of the yardage.

In the Porkers' first and only Southwest conference win, they walked off with the Baylor game 27-6. Ray Parks was a consistent ground-gainer as he chalked up a 180-yard rushing total. It was the team's defense that was largely responsible for the win.

Before 40,000 Texans, the University of Texas Longhorns captured their twelfth victory in a row over the Razorbacks. The margin, 19-14, however, was the smallest since the Steers began their string with a 14-13 win in 1939.

Vanderbilt Commodores capitalized on the Porker's mistakes to take a 14-13 victory in Little Rock Memorial Stadium. It was the fourth straight defeat by the margin of a touchdown or less for the Hogs.

The Texas Aggies mutilated the Porker defense to run up a 42-13 victory over the Razorbacks.

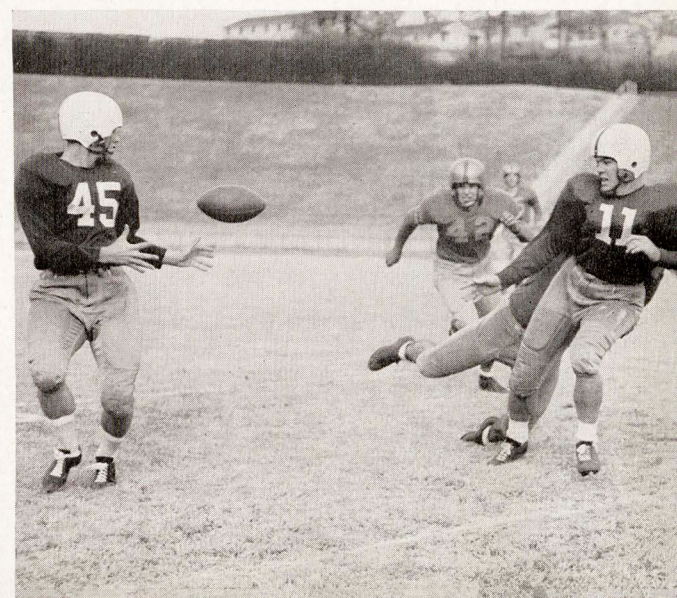

On a cold Homecoming Day, on Armistice Day, Arkansas suffered its sixth defeat—Rice 9, Arkansas 6. The Razorback defense was more than adequate in stopping Rice's T attack, with linebacker Louis Schaufele and Jimmy Smith and halfback Dean Pryor coming up nicely to smack down the Owls' halfbacks before they could make their cut upfield.

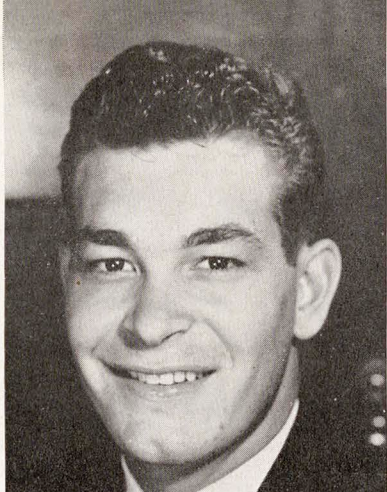

The Porkers displayed a splendid defensive effort in the SMU tilt, in which they were defeated 14-7. Their rally was too tardy, however, to enable them to overtake the Mustangs.

The season ended with a 28-13 defeat to the University of Tulsa, at Tulsa. As usual, the contributions of Louis Schaufele and Red Hanner on defense were outstanding for the Porks, while Bill Ward and Pat Summerall also bulwarked the retainer wall.

BASKETBALL

An injury-ridden squad of Arkansas basketball players came within a single point of tying for their third consecutive Southwest Conference championship during 1950-51.

Battered by a wave of injuries after winning runner-up honors in the All College Tournament in December, the Porkers found themselves with a 1-3 conference record after one-third of the loop schedule was finished.

All but out of the race, Arkansas came back after suffering the most crucial loss of the year, a 34-33 decision to Texas A&M, and defeated — in turn — every team in the conference with the exception of Texas Christian.

The February drive provided Arkansas fans the most exciting basketball in years and included overtime victories over SMU and the Texas Aggies in Razorback Field House. A second loss to the Horned Frogs with All-Conference guard D. L. Miller sidelined ended Razorback chances.

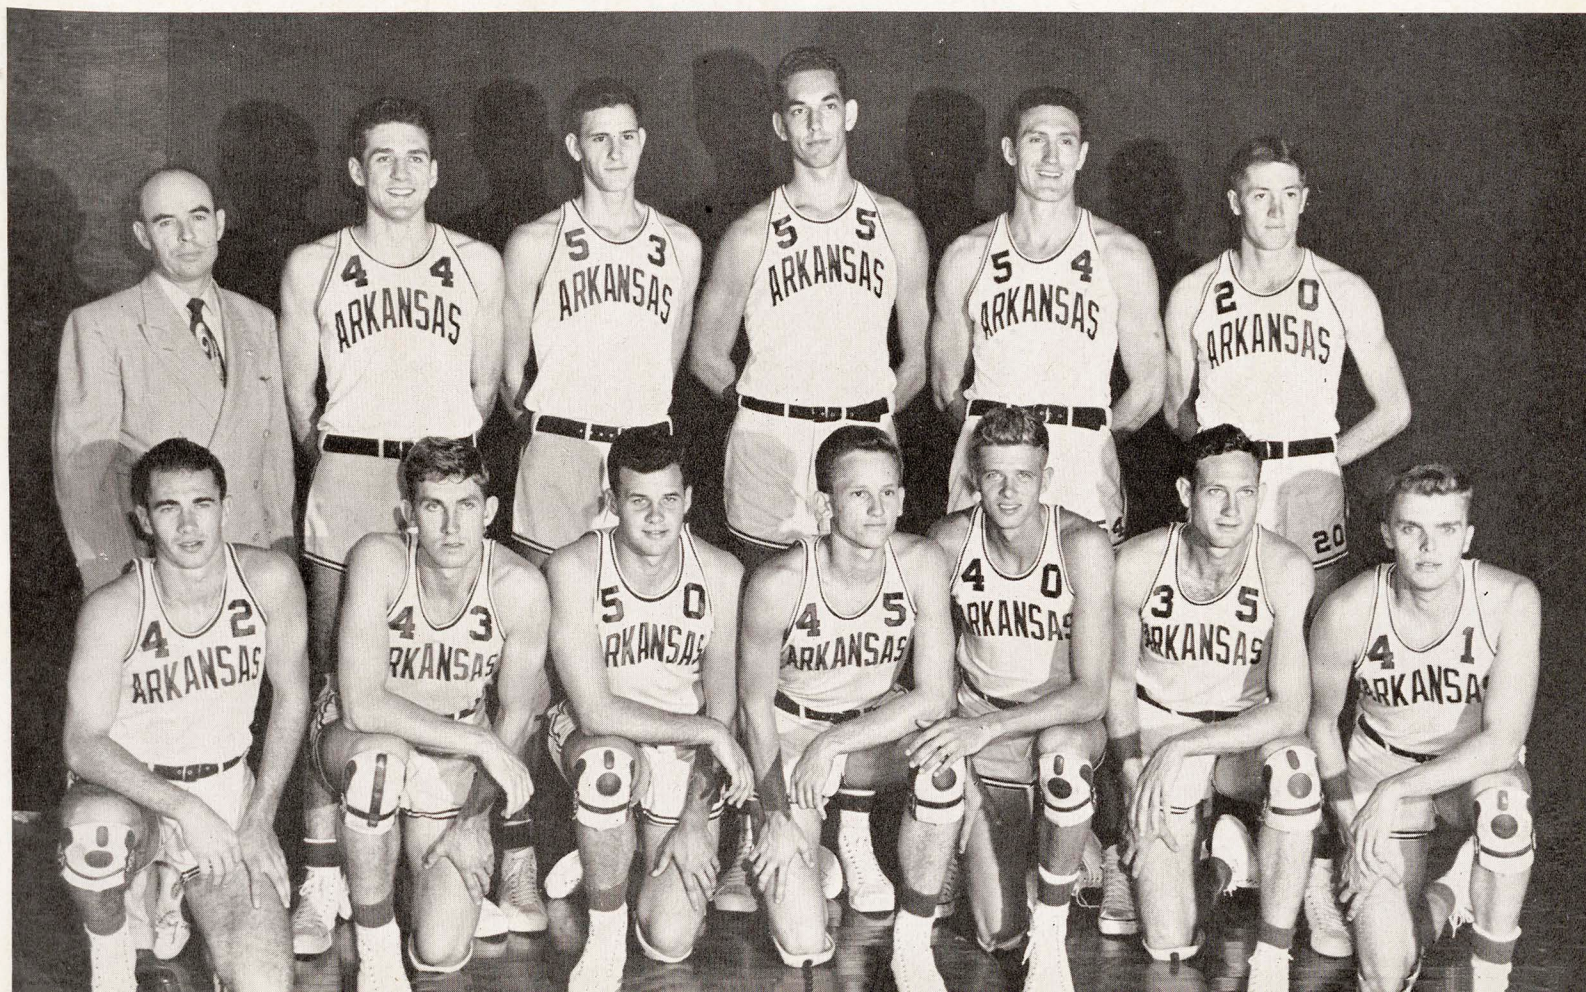

The Porkers opened their season with non-conference wins — both impressive — over Arkansas Tech (in a benefit game) and Tulsa. A close decision to Oklahoma A&M and a disheartening loss to Tulsa led to a disastrous December record — brightened only by the All College Tournament comeback.

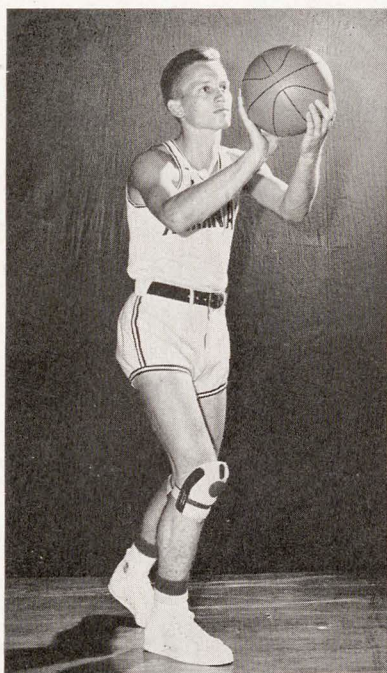

Individual stars on Arkansas' team — battered as it was — could easily be found. Miller in gaining conference recognition was listed among the better all-time SWC guards while giant 7-0 Billy "Toar" Hester and 6-8 Bob Ambler provided interest in the unusual. Few Arkansas fans will ever see as tall a ball club again representing Arkansas but here was one of the Porker's very weaknesses. Smaller guards Miller, Jack Hess and Bob Williams were injured part of the time and left the Razorbacks without the necessary speed and ball-handling.

Chief among Arkansas' accomplishments was its rating as second in the Nation as a defensive ball club. An average of 45.9 points a game scored against them made them one of the best in Porker history defensively.

BASKETBALL

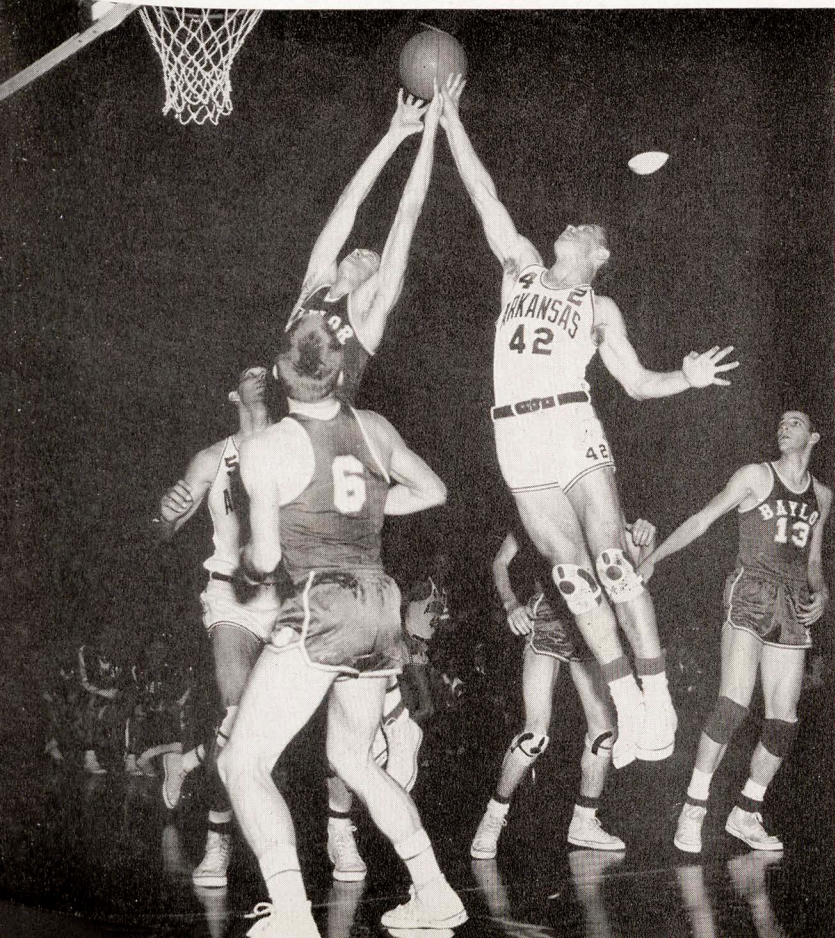

Arkansas' basketballing Razorbacks entered the national cage race and the Southwest Conference scramble tabbed as the team to be resting on the top of the heap when the firing stopped. Tall Toar Hester, the Porker's phenomenal 7 feet of center, who was somewhat sensational as a frosh, was tapped for several pre-season All-American teams. Hog fans were settled in their conviction that the Razorbacks were the best in the big Southwest and they were mainly in wonderment regarding the runners-up. They were sadly disappointed by early season developments.

As usual, the injuries hit—and they hit hard. During early practice, Sammy Smith sprained an ankle that benched him for the first month of play. Then Duddy Waller, sensational long shot artist, rebroke his wrist and was lost for the second straight season. Bob Ambler was troubled by a knee injury throughout the year and Hester bruised his heel severely in the All-College tournament during the Christmas holidays and limped through the next several games.

But the hardest luck of all was the wrenched knee of D. L. Miller, All-Southwest guard and top ball-handler, in the Baylor game at Waco in mid-February. That hit when the Porkers were striving mightily to grab the circuit lead down the stretch. The Hogs were never able to operate to full satisfaction without Miller's inspired play and they lost a sure portion of the loop crown in the next-to-last game of the season against Texas Christian here in Fayetteville.

TRACK, GOLF AND TENNIS

Competing in the record-breaking Drake relays held in Des Moines, Iowa, the University of Arkansas track team placed fourth in three events and fifth in another. The four-mile team of Joe Hardin, Olly Gatchell, James West, and James Brown placed fourth; the distance medley team of Norm Price, Rick Heber, Gatchell, and Brown also placed fourth; James West placed fourth in the mile run; and the sprint medley of Price, Al Wilkinson, Bill Jurney, and Heber placed fifth.

A mass migration of lettermen golfers left the Arkansas campus after the 1950 links season but not until they had registered a respective conference and season record that included a $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ loss to the defending collegiate champions of North Texas State.

Paced by a quartet of seniors—James Mosley, Waner Marks, Welling Eisenmann and Randy Warner, Razorback golfers placed third in the Southwest Conference behind Texas and Baylor and wound up with a 5-4-2 overall mark.

Tennis in 1950 suffered a fate reserved for golf this past season—little chance of success without a single letterman returning.

Abstaining from conference play entirely, a foursome of Charlie Crigger, James Hanry, Harry Farr and Visit Tansacha found the going too tough and dropped every match of the year with one exception. A 3-3 tie was gained with SW Missouri Teachers.

Davis, in inaugurating a new tennis program at Arkansas, has guaranteed net fans continued high calibre of play in years to come without the sharp drops in capable replacements as noted in the past three years.

 THIRD ROW: Charlie Temple, Charlie Ratcliff, Jack Shawgo, Chris Brown, Jimmy Smith.

BASEBALL TEAM

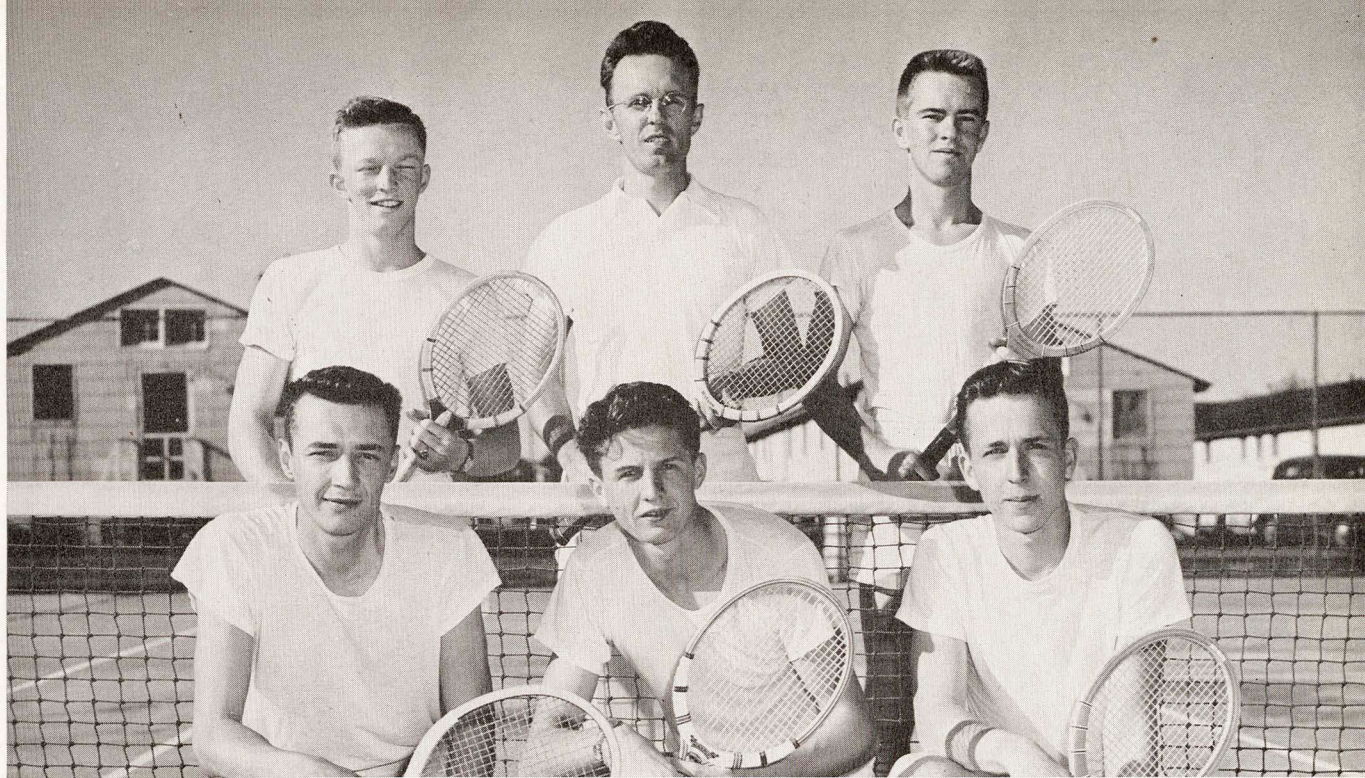

Playing the most abbreviated schedule since the end of the war, the Arkansas Razorback baseball crew in 1950 wound up their campaign with a 5-3 season record over collegiate competition.

A two games series with Oklahoma A&M dropped the Razorbacks to a .500 on the collegiate field, followed by three wins in four games with the University of Tulsa.

Rain proved to be the schedule maker in Coach Bill Ferrell's first season as six games were called off. The loss of only Thomason (Captain of the '50 squad) gave promise of one of Arkansas' better balanced diamond squads during 1951.

VARSITY TENNIS TEAM

With the '51 season still in the balance at this writing, the net fortunes at Arkansas had already improved considerably. Newly appointed Coach Hughes Davis held large-scale varsity and frosh playoffs at the start of the season to determine playing squads and the most complete schedule since pre-World War II had been arranged.

WOMEN'S PHYSICAL EDUCATION

A division of the College of Education, the women's physical education department offers a wide variety of sports to interested women students. All coeds are required to take physical education their freshman and sophomore years, and may choose among such sports as tennis, archery, bowling, golf, modern dance, folk dance, or outing activities.

Intramural competition is very keen, and basketball, volley ball, and softball games feature wide-scale participation among the organized women's groups.

Ambler, Sam Smith, Jim Smith, Buddy Rogers.

Only the cream of the athletic crop at the University of Arkansas—wearers of the coveted red and white varsity "A"—are eligible for membership in the "A" Club. The organization is for all those who have won a varsity letter—highest athletic award bestowed by the University—in basketball, football, track, tennis, or baseball. It has as its primary aim to promote loyalty to the University throughout the entire student body, and to make the red sweater a symbol of achievement and sportsmanship.

ARKANSAS BOOSTERS CLUB

Hickman, Field Wasson, Dick Bennett, William Gerber, Edwin H. Pollock. BACK ROW: Hershel D. Sorrels, Tom Curry, L. W. Hale, George W. Hudson, Fred Ragland, Ralph McDonald, Jr.

The Arkansas Boosters Club is the official pep club and "chamber of commerce" for the University of Arkansas. Membership is composed of equal quotas from each organized group of men on the campus. The aim of ABC is to promote the University of Arkansas and its athletic events in particular, in every way possible. It is in charge of arrangements for Homecoming, and gives awards for outstanding floats and house decorations.

CHEERLEADERS

Elected and governed by the Arkansas Boosters Club, the tonsil-straining Cheerleaders for 1950-51 did a commendable job of "calling the hogs". They were out there every minute of the game whether at Fayetteville, Little Rock, or in Texas. In addition to providing the spirit at all of the football and basketball games, the Cheerleaders led the annual Homecoming Parade and were present at all the pep rallies.

ROOTIN' RUBES

Organized in 1925, as a sister organization to ABC, the Rootin' Rubes have become a tradition at the U. of A. Their participation as the nucleus of the cheering section at ball games and pep rallies have added color to all the sporting events.

WOMEN'S MAJOR-MINOR CLUB

Founded on the University of Arkansas campus in 1945 under the sponsorship of the Physical Education department, the aim of this club is to promote the existence of group spirit among students in the field of physical education and to foster the professional growth of members.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Women's Athletic Association is an organization which is active in promoting athletics for women students. Its purposes are to promote interest and participation in sports and to provide opportunity for participation in recreational sports for all under-graduate women students. Membership is granted to those women exhibiting an interest and ability in athletics.

"But I have to wear your black dress! Don't you understand? I have a date with Joe!" . . .

"Ten Kappa Sigs are down from Kansas, and I have to get dates for them all by six o'clock!" . . .

Six sororities are found on the University campus: Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Delta Gamma, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Pi Beta Phi, and Zeta Tau Alpha.

Through Panhellenic Council, they attempt to work through the spirit of co-operation, rather than competition.

Panhellenic has had two main campus goals: to enhance people's understanding of the workings of each group through publicity, and to establish rules of rushing that will be effective from year to year.

CHI OMEGA

MEMBERS of Psi chapter of Chi Omega are proud of the unity that the organization has displayed on this campus. To start the year off, Psi was awarded the National Loving Cup at the national convention for the chapter most outstanding in activities and scholarship. At Homecoming, Chi Omega won first place for the best float. Jacque Galloway and Barbara Brothers were chosen by the football team as maids to the Homecoming Queen. They were also selected as two of the four RAZORBACK beauties for 1950-51.

The chapter has taken an active part in campus activities this year. Helen Knoble was the associate justice of the Student Court. Janet Toney was secretary of Associated Students and a Gaebale chairman and June Cross was vice-president of AWS. Betty Rushing was treasurer of WAA and Liz Bauman was secretary. On Mortar Board were Martha Kelley Lambert, Janet Toney, and June Cross. Alice Paddock was a counselor at Holcombe hall and a member of Chi Theta. Betty Rogers and Barbara Brothers were ROTC sponsors, and Joan Donaldson was society editor of the Traveler.

Elected to honoraries were: Lambda Tau, Muriel Stuck, Jacque Galloway, Helen Knoble and June Cross; Alpha Lambda Delta, Claire Coleman, Marie Rhea; Phi Upsilon Omicron, Ann Wiggans; Psi Chi, Margaret Bell, Jacque Galloway, Barbara Brothers, and Joan Donaldson.

The Christmas tea for the faculty and alumni is one of the most outstanding events of the year. Candlelight reflects the beauty of Christmas decorations. The annual dinner party for all Chi Omegas and dates is also held late in December. The spirit of Chi Omega is reflected in the Founders' Day banquet, given on April 5 to celebrate the beginning of the sorority on that date in 1895 in Fayetteville. Every May, the Plantation Party, a traditional formal dance, is held with the theme of the Old South dominating the atmosphere.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

DELTA IOTA chapter of Delta Delta Delta received its charter in 1910. This year, Tri-Delta has exhibited the qualities which have made it always among the first in campus activities.

The retiring president, Fay Marie Stafford, is a member of Mortar Board, and was chosen Sweetheart of Sigma Chi for 1950. Two campus presidents live in the Delta Shelter. They are Judy Price of Mortar Board and Sylvia Stewart of Pan-Hellenic. Five members of the fall pledge class, Eva Howell, Rita Snoddy, Peggy Paty, Annabel White, and Marietta Barham, are Sophomore counselors. Another pledge, Martha Dixon, was chosen a varsity cheerleader. Betty Coldren and Dianne Mack were maids at Homecoming and Jane Morse, who was elected by the Traveler staff to be "Miss Esky" from the U of A was also Maid of Honor to the Homecoming Queen and one of the six ROTC sponsors from the house. The other five Tri-Delts selected by the ROTC units as sponsors are Nancy Matthews, Mary Poulos, Annabel White, Catherine Cox, and Joan Willbourne. Dianne Mack was chosen as one of the RAZORBACK beauties by Charlie Spivak.

Through all-out participation in intramural sports, Tri-Delta won the sweepstakes trophy.

Tri-Delta's social calendar has been a full one—a sweater hop and a football party in October; the fall formal and annual Founder's Day banquet in November; and a faculty reception and Christmas party in December.

But the instructions are so simple.

DELTA GAMMA

ALPHA OMEGA of Delta Gamma was brought to the campus of the University in 1930, having been founded nationally in 1873. From the first of the year in its newly decorated house, the chapter has taken an active part in campus life.

Kickoff for the honors of the fall was the selection of Roy Dell Caldwell as maid to Miss Arkansas at the SMU game. Among other distinguished DG's on the campus are: Pat Gregory, Mortar Board treasurer and AWS executive board; Carol Sittler and Helen Beckett, AWS executive board; Lynn Carruth, Mary Ann Williams, and Jane Robinson, members of Alpha Lambda Delta; Carol Sittler and Helen Beckett, Lambda Tau; Pat Gregory, Carol Sittler and Helen Beckett, Psi Chi; and Mary Ann Williams, Roberta Massey, Sally Ingels, Brenda Corn and Dorothy Bushart, Sophomore Council. Elected to Rootin' Rubes were: Martha Hamilton, Dorothy Girdley, Sue Redyard and Roy Dell Caldwell. Marnelle Thomsen is Rootin' Rubes reporter, on the Mademoiselle board, and was Homecoming and Gaebale publicity chairman.

Margaret Ann Dial returned for the second semester after being the Arkansas Home Ec representative to Europe, where she stayed several months, touring Scotland, England, France, and Holland. Katherine Fitzhugh is a state officer of the Home Ec club.

On the Delta Gamma social side, there are many standout events every year. This year, as in the past, the calendar began with a faculty tea and a reception for the province in December. The Christmas party was highlighted by a silver tree with blue lights and the season was climaxed by the annual chapter formal in the early spring.

Southern colonial, that is.

So glad you came.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA, founded nationally at Monmouth College in 1870 and locally in 1925, has concluded another year of enthusiastic participation in campus activities.

At Homecoming, Orian Wymer and Joan Glasgow were chosen as maids to the queen. Shortly afterward Kappa scored in sports by placing second in intramural volleyball.

The sorority has many outstanding women on the campus. Joan Glasgow was president of AWS, a member of Mortar Board, and a cheerleader. Jane Pitman, president of the chapter, was also president of YWCA, and a member of Mortar Board. Nell Parker was president of WAA; Martha Williams, president of Alpha Lambda Delta; Mary Jac Snider, president of Major-Minor club; and Emma Louise Kanis, president of the Met club.

Kappa's contribution to campus honoraries include: Joan Glasgow and Martha Williams, Phi Upsilon Omicron; Grace Godat and Charlotte Emery, Sigma Delta Pi; Janet Lester, Sigma Alpha Iota; Jackie Coffman, Phi Gamma Nu; Grace Godat, Phi Alpha Theta; Charlotte Emery, Lambda Tau; Peggy Garrett, Sarah McKinney and Helen Turner, Sophomore Council.

In October, Kappa honored its pledges with a sweater hop in the union. Decorations centered around the pledge pin painted on the mirror. On October 12, the memorable Founder's Day banquet was held celebrating the time when the sorority was organized nationally. The annual Kappa formal was held in April. All members and dates celebrated the season again with an outing in May.

Gamma Nu has started a series of exchange dinners with the fraternities. Each week, ten Kappas have dinner at a fraternity house, and ten men from that fraternity have dinner at the Kappa house.

A little more tinsel up here.

PI BETA PHI

PI BETA PHI completed this year with a round of new honors and social activities. The chapter won first place at national convention for the best original song. It was awarded second place on house and float decorations at Homecoming.

Noted women of Pi Phi on the campus are: Becky Phillips, maid of honor to the queen for the SMU game; Pat McKenzie, RAZORBACK beauty for the year; Toni Daniel and Jane Longino, Mortar Board; Barbara Morley, cheerleader; Nancy Ann Hall, secretary of AWS; and Mary Lou Thomas, president of Sophomore Council. Toni Daniel is a counselor at Holcombe Hall and Gail Adkisson played one of the leading parts in "Acres of Sky." Glenna Foster was selected as maid in the SMU court and is a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron. Sally Ruth McGregor and Jackie Pugh were ROTC sponsors; Terri Campbell was president of Sigma Delta Pi and Boots and Spurs; and Nancy Lane is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Lambda Tau, Sigma Alpha Iota and Phi Alpha Theta.

The Pi Phis started off their entertaining with a sweater hop in the ballroom of the Union on October 6. Following the dance there was a dinner for members, pledges and dates at the house.

On November 3, the sorority held its fall outing at Lake Wedington. There was a hayride from the house to the lodge. The Winter Wonderland annual formal on January 7 in the Student Union ballroom depicted the snowy atmosphere of the season with its realistic decorations. A serenade to the men's organized houses followed the dance. Everyone enjoyed the spring outing held every year in April for members and dates.

ZETA TAU ALPHA

WITH the building of its beautiful new colonial house, Zeta Tau Alpha began the year with added spirit and cooperation. The chapter, founded nationally in 1898 and locally in 1903, won honors from the first by having Betty Jo Simmons elected Homecoming Queen. Zeta was also proud to win first prize for its yard decorations at Homecoming.

Margaret Ann Hickey and Boyce Ann Lewis were chosen as maids to Miss Arkansas at the SMU game; Mary Margaret Corley was KA sweetheart; and Eleanor McGee was Sigma Pi sweetheart. Charla Oman had the distinction of being the first Pi KA Girl of the Month on this campus. Members of Zeta have taken an active part in campus activities this year. Johnnie Wallace and Beauton Wood, vice-president of Blackfriars, were Mortar Board members; Betty Jo Simmons was president of Rootin' Rubes; Mary Ann Ellis was secretary of the Student Union Board and Marilyn Whitehead was president of the Home Ec club. Janie Sullivan was associate editor of the RAZORBACK, Barbara Larson business manager of the Traveler and Jeanne Waible editor of the social welfare paper. Mary John Skillern is a member of Pi Mu Epsilon; Pat Cates, Phi Alpha Theta; and Sissy Cunningham, Phi Gamma Nu.

Outstanding social events of the year included the Founder's Day banquet on October 15; the Halloween party given by the pledges for the initiates; and the Christmas dinner-dance. In March, the Mardi Gras formal was held in the ballroom of the Student Union. Gala New Orleans decorations put everyone in the festive holiday spirit. The initiation banquet, usually in March, is especially looked forward to by the pledges who have just become Zeta members.

FRATERNITIES: COUNCIL IS A CLEARING GROUND

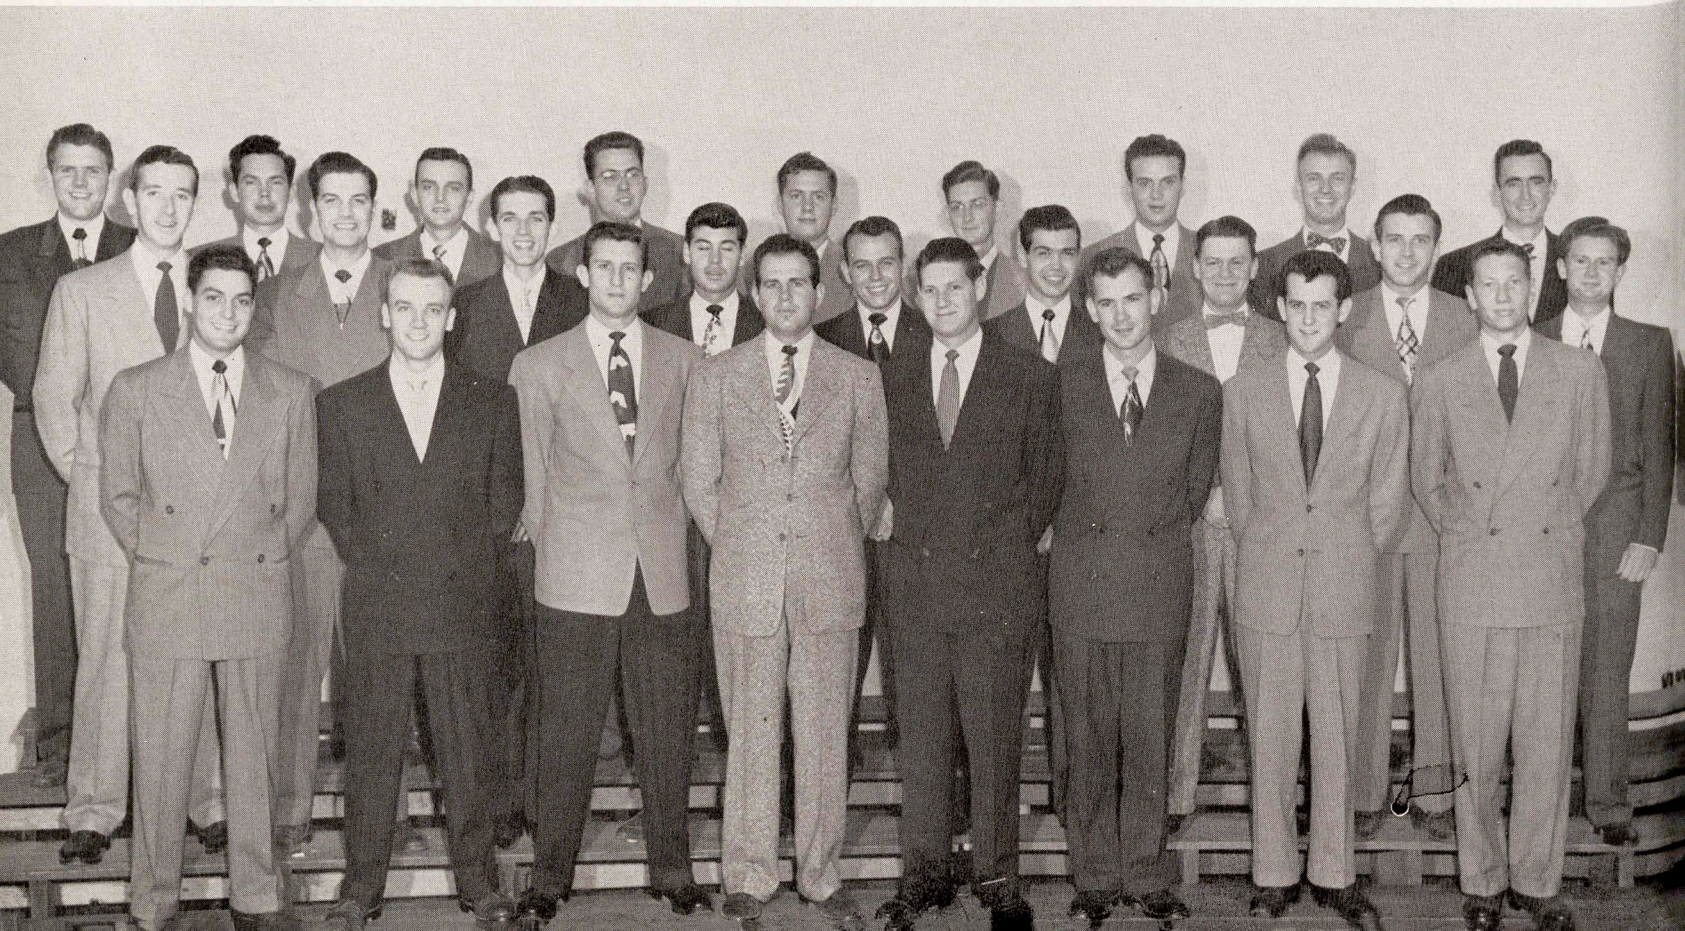

With the acquisition of national Acacia and Alpha Tau Omega charters, the number of fraternities on the University campus rose to sixteen this year. The others are: Alpha Gamma Rho, Delta Sigma Phi, Kappa Alpha, Kappa Sigma, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Delta Theta, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Pi, Theta Tau, and Zeta Beta Tau.

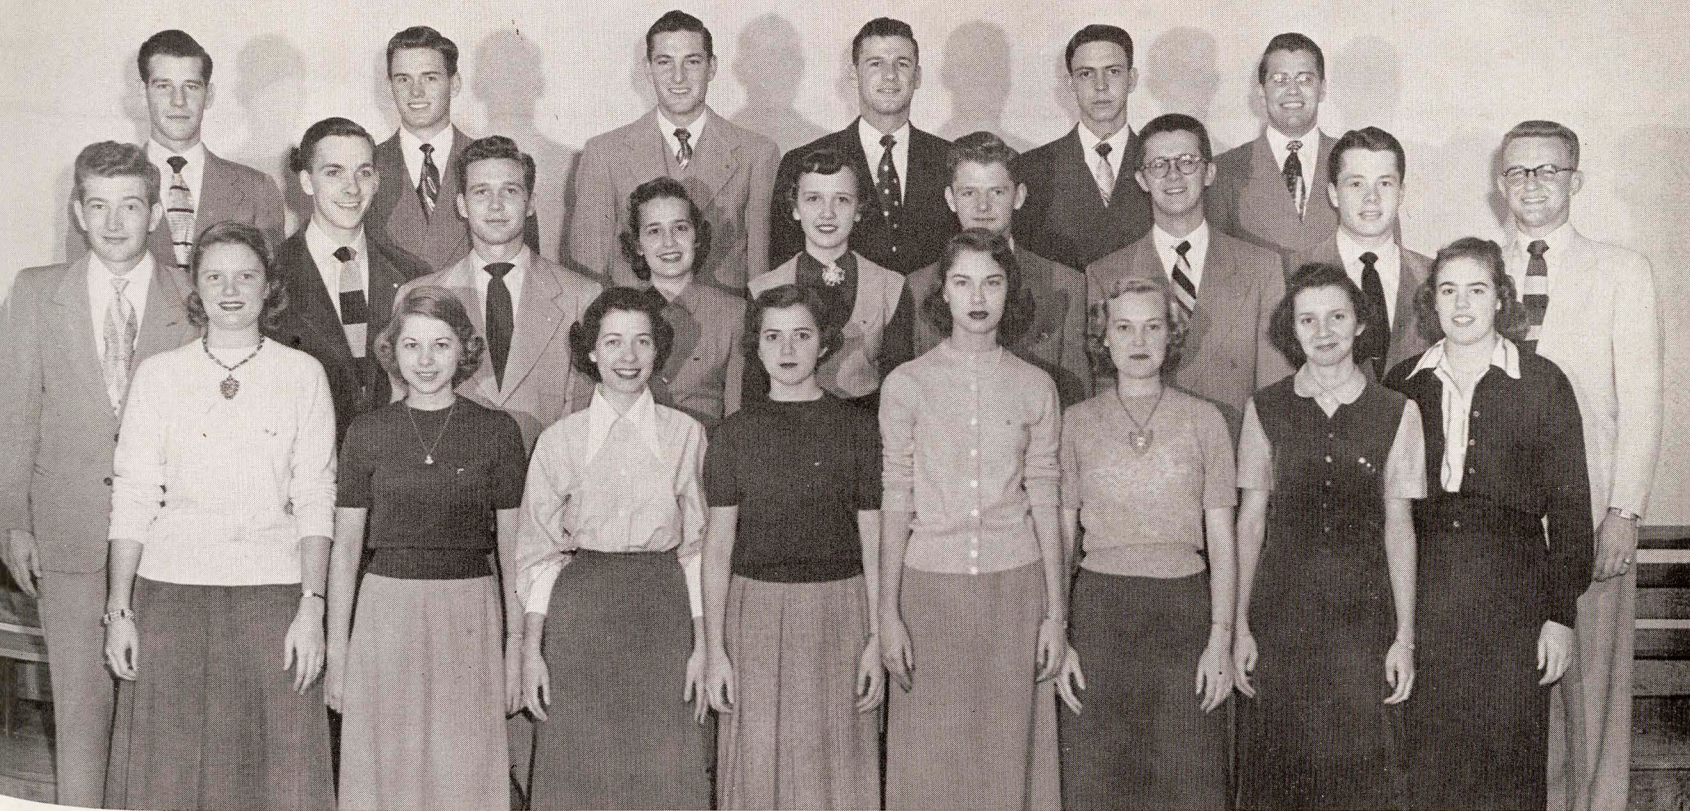

The Inter-fraternity Council is composed of two representatives from each social fraternity on the campus. It functions to give mutual aid to Greek societies and mediate any questions that may arise between them, and to co-ordinate relations between the University and the fraternities.

Meetings are held twice a month, where policies and problems of the group are thoroughly discussed and decided.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

CLIMAXING a most successful year for Gamma Chi chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha, the new, thoroughly modern fraternity house overlooking the stadium is rapidly nearing completion with the members planning to move in on or about June 1. Gamma Chi chapter was installed on the campus of the University of Arkansas in 1925, the national fraternity having been founded at Boston University, Boston, Mass., in 1909. The national fraternity has made great strides during the years, now having a total of 137 chapters and 7 colonies. In the way of social activities, the men of Gamma Chi progressed through the season with much success. Among the most outstanding of these events were: the Christmas formal and the traditional Black and White formal held on Founder's Day in the spring at which time the Crescent Girl of the year was selected, and many other occasions such as hayrides, house parties, costume parties and the annual Night Club dance after rush week.

Gamma Chi of Lambda Chi Alpha has many men in the key organizations of the campus. Nat Richmond is a member of Tau Beta Pi, Blue Key, Pi Mu Epsilon, Theta Tau, and vice-president of the chapter. Frank Gill is a member of Student Senate, Alpha Kappa Psi, Theta Tau, and Blue Key. He was also the founder of the University General Business Club. Bill Blair, immediate past president of the group, was also president of the Interfraternity Council and a member of Blue Key, Delta Theta Phi, professional law fraternity, and the Student Senate.

Following the winning of the first place award for their side show at Gaebale last year, the Lambda Chis rounded out their honors for this year by copping the intramural volleyball title.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

PI KAPPA ALPHA was founded at the University of Virginia on March 1, 1868, by six men who had just returned from the battlefields of the Civil War. Under the guidance of these men it grew until today the fraternity numbers over 100 chapters with a membership of nearly 40,000.

Alpha Zeta of Pi Kappa Alpha at the University of Arkansas was chartered November 2, 1904, with ten charter members. Since that time, the Pi Kappa Alphas have grown on the campus to gain much respect and prestige. The year 1951 has been one of Alpha Zeta's outstanding years. Many improvements have been made in the chapter, including the new and spacious chapter house on Arkansas Avenue. Much of this progress has been under the leadership of the president, Jim Wallace, who is also president of the Interfraternity Council and vice-president of the Commerce Guild; the vice-president, Jim Gardner; the secretary, J. M. Park; and the treasurer, Felix Swann. Social calendar of the Pi Kappa Alphas included a formal dinner-dance; the traditional Dream Girl formal, at which Charla Oman was named the Dream Girl of Pi Kappa Alpha; a very successful backwards dance and numerous house parties for members, pledges and dates. On March 1, Founder's Day was celebrated by the Pikes and they had the honor to have the national president of the fraternity, Powell B. McHaney, president of the American Life Insurance company, as the principal speaker for the annual banquet. Several outings and other parties were given during the year.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

THE Arkansas chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon came to the campus July 8, 1893, making it one of the oldest fraternities at the University of Arkansas, the national fraternity having been founded on March 9, 1856.

This year, the Sig Alph social season went over very well, climaxing in the formal in the early spring. Other notable happenings at the Alph house included the Halloween masquerade and Christmas formal in the fall and the Valentine dinner-dance, Honky-Tonk party and house parties in the spring. Many other outings, parties, and informal get-togethers were held during the year.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon has a large number of campus leaders. Among them are: Dick Wootten, member of Blue Key and Delta Theta Phi and president of the fraternity; Basil Hoag, president of Alpha Kappa Psi and member of Scabbard and Blade; Bob Logsdon, president of Lloyd Halls, member of the Student Senate and chairman of the 1951 Gaebale spring carnival; and Gene Rapley, editor of the Guild Ticker and assistant chairman of 1951 Gaebale. Many other Sig Alphas take part in all phases of campus life and activities.

Among the honors received by the chapter was the winning last year, for the second consecutive year, of the intramural sweepstakes, winning the second place slot in intramural football this year.

SIGMA CHI

OMEGA CHAPTER of Sigma Chi was installed at the University of Arkansas in 1905 when a petitioning group, known as the Indian club, received its charter. The national Sigma Chi fraternity was founded at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio on June 28, 1855.

The Sigs led the larger social fraternities on the campus in scholarship last semester just as they did the previous semester and rounded out their honors by annexing the intramural football, tennis doubles, and horseshoes trophies during the intramural mixups of the year.

Outstanding Skis on the campus are: Bob Riley, the chapter president, who is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Blue Key, Arkansas Boosters club and has served as editorial secretary of the Arkansas Traveler; Bob Williams, varsity basketball man, who is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa; Bob Owen, former chapter president, who is also president of Tau Beta Pi; Tommy Wilson, former editor of the RAZORBACK; and Gene Lambert, varsity basketball player.

FIRST ROW: Bill Apple, Bob Bailey, Bill Bartholomew, Bill Bodie, Bob Bowen, Max O. Bowie, James Buckley, John Bumpers, Jerry Carter.

SIGMA NU

SIGMA NU'S Gamma Upsilon chapter was installed at the University of Arkansas in 1904, making it one of the oldest campus men's groups. This year, the men of Sigma Nu at Arkansas moved into their beautiful new home on Arkansas avenue, after some delay in its construction, opening a new page in the chapter's history. The national fraternity was founded in 1869.

Standout points of the social season for the Sigma Nu's were the thirteenth annual Sadie Hawkins Day dance, with the couple attired in the best replica of a "dogpatch" costume winning the prize, the annual spring formal, and the fall outing, with many other parties at different times during the year.

Sigma Nu had many campus leaders. Pete H'Doubler was vice-president of Blue Key, past president of Phi Eta Sigma, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Pi Mu Alpha, Pi Mu Epsilon, Alpha Epsilon Delta, Alpha Chi Sigma, and a sophomore senator. John Gearhart was president of the Commerce Guild and a member of Omicron Delta Kappa. Paul Parker was president of the Pre-Med club. Corley Senyard was a past president of Theta Tau and a member of Phi Eta Sigma and Blue Key. William Walters was a member of Blue Key and Pi Mu Alpha and Pete Kemp was a member of Blue Key.

Gamma Upsilon of Sigma Nu has received several outstanding honors this year, one of the most important of which was the winning of the first place award for the best men's Homecoming float.

Now YOU guess what's for dinner.

THETA TAU

THE two-fold purpose of Theta Tau, national professional engineering fraternity on the campus, is that of developing and maintaining a high standard of professional interest among its members as well as the establishing of a strong feeling of fraternalism among them.

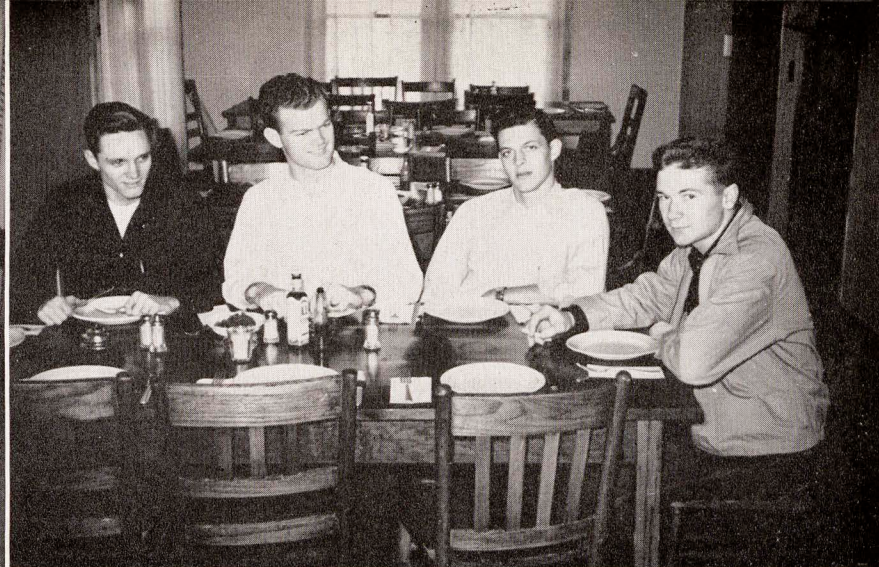

Important events on this year's Theta Tau social calendar were the annual Founder's Day banquet on October 17, the formal on February 17, and the annual spring picnic. These events for the chapter members and advisors added much to the campus list of social events.

Among campus leaders in the membership file of Theta Tau are: Bill Robbins, student body president and editor of the Arkansas Engineer; Jim Gregory, president of the Engine council; Omer North, president of Tau Beta Pi; Bill Spinelli, president of Pi Mu Epsilon; Don Boling, business manager of the Arkansas Engineer; Ken Rippey, secretary of the mid-continent conference of the American Society of Chemical Engineers; Nat Richmond, president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers; Al Singer, president of ASCE; Don Callahan, president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers; Nathan McDaniel, president of AIA; and Lloyd Porter, president of AES.

The Arkansas chapter has been very active ever since its installation on the campus in 1928 and all of its members have been outstanding in engineering and related fields. The national fraternity was founded on October 15, 1904.

ACACIA

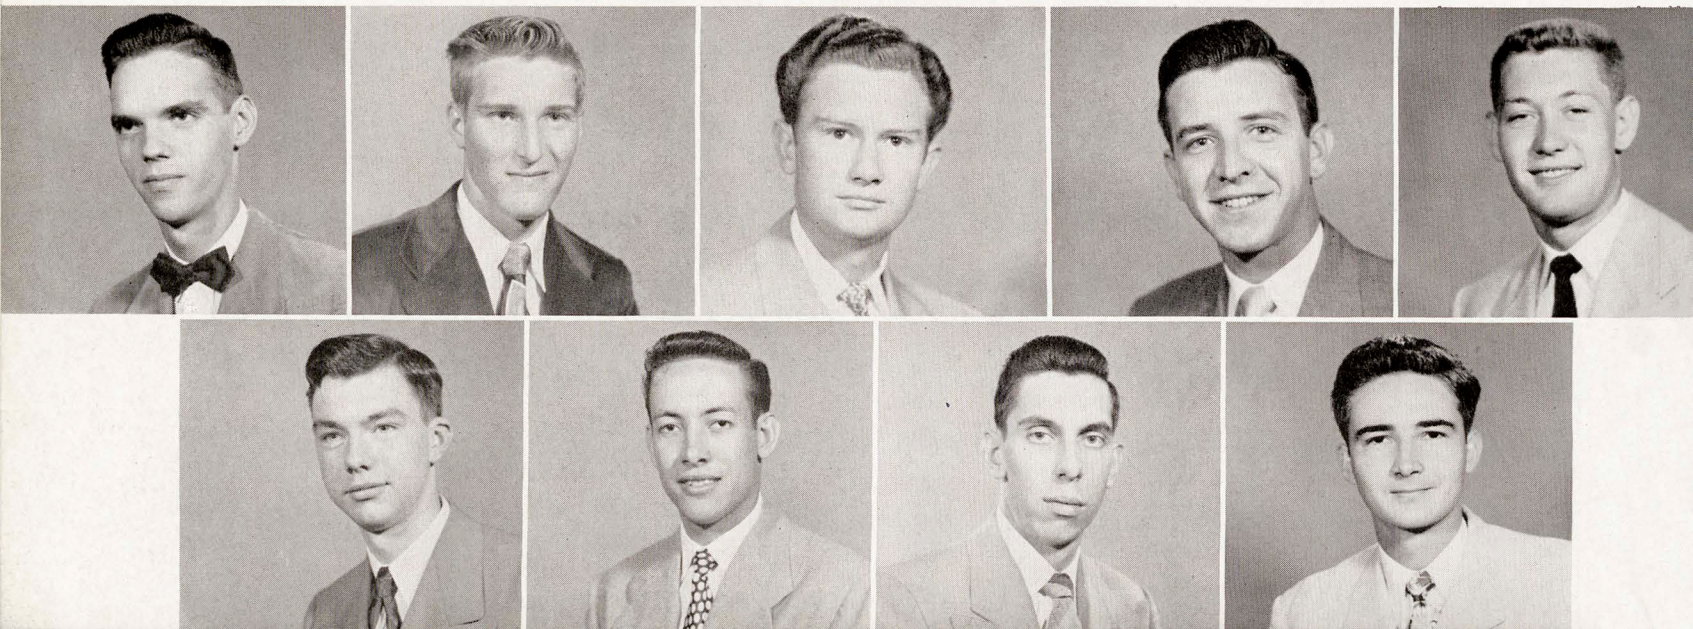

IN December 1948, four men first colonized Acacia on the University of Arkansas campus. Since that time they have made steady progress and now have 21 members. The local chapter is presently located in the U-Ark theatre building.

The national group was founded at the University of Michigan in 1904 by a group of master Masons. Because of the close association with masonry, the name "Acacia", a masonic symbol, was chosen instead of a combination of Greek letters.

Outstanding among the events of Acacia's social season were: the Halloween and Christmas parties, as well as the annual Shipwreck Ball. The group was also entertained at a dinner given by two of their alumni faculty members.

Acacia has been active this year in intramural tennis, bowling, and basketball and received the Good Sportsmanship Award for basketball.

FIRST ROW: Harry Buckley, Bob Cupps, Bill Fancher, Myron Fry, Frank Robertson.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO

ALPHA GAMMA RHO, social and agricultural fraternity, was brought to the University of Arkansas campus on April 28, 1934. The chapter has been presented with two scholarship plaques from the national fraternity.

Outstanding AGR's on the campus are Past Noble Ruler Paul Rollins, member of Interfraternity Council, Alpha Zeta, and Arkansas Agriculturist staff; Charles "Buddy" Weems, member of Interfraternity Council, ODK, Scabbard and Blade and office holder in Alpha Zeta, YMCA, and Pershing Rifles.

Among social events on the Alpha Gamma Rho calendar were the annual Pink Rose formal in April and the Rooster Day dance in January. Many "Barn Stomps" were also held during the year.

Alpha Gamma Rho members were also very active on the staff of the Arkansas Agriculturist.

FIRST ROW: James Atkinson, Rudolph L. Bauer, Clarence Bowden, Claude H. Clement, Jr., James C. Clement, Thomas A. Coleman, Charles S. Dewett, Roy Grimsley, William H. Hestir.

SECOND ROW: Miles Jameson, Thomas Kehn, Ray Masters, George R. Miller, Ed D. Moore, Jacob R. Phillips, J. D. Phillips, Marvin L. Reinold, Paul C. Rollins.

THIRD ROW: W. K. Shofner, A. D. Stanley, John Stipe, Bobby J. Starr, Keith Taylor, Billy Walker, James T. Weathers, Charles L. Weems.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

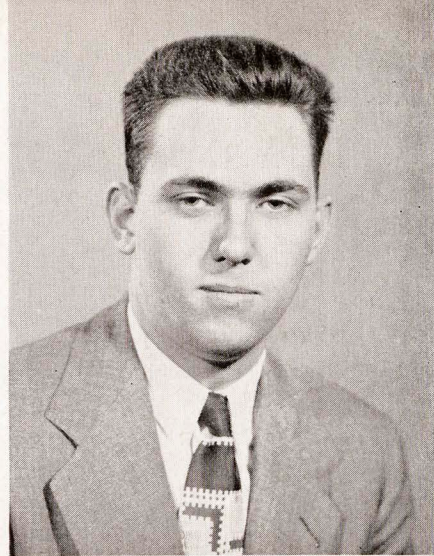

THE ATO club is a petitioning group of the national Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. The organization was installed on the campus of the university in April of 1882, but was forced to go inactive during the war. For this reason they are re-applying for their charter. They are actually the oldest social fraternity on the campus through their 1882 founding. The national fraternity was founded on September 11, 1865.

Social events held by Alpha Tau Omega this year included the house-mother's tea in October, the reception for the cast of "Acres of Sky", and the annual spring picnic.

Alpha Tau Omega's outstanding men on the campus were: Al Ercolano, who held down a top role in "Acres of Sky"; Craig Basse, news editor of the Arkansas Traveler; and George Tait, a member of the staff of the Arkansas Engineer.

FIRST ROW: Russ Cantley, Robert Egan, David Forristall, Gerald Goss, Vealee Hudspeth, Dick Lindsay, Earl Phillips.
SECOND ROW: Wayne Reed, Gene Sheets, Hershel Sorrells, Steve Smith, Oscar Stadthagen, Ed Steffy, George Tait.

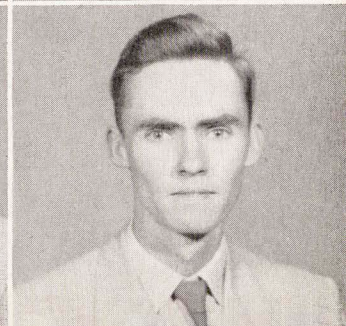

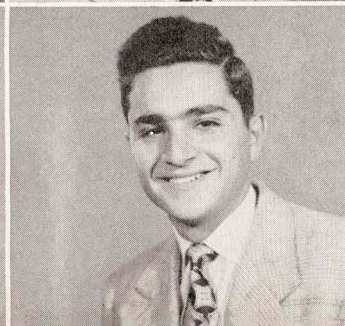

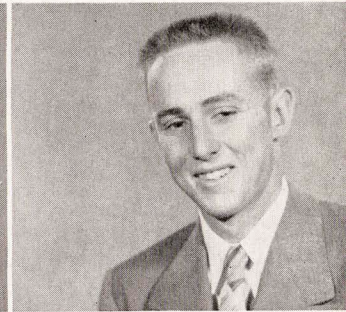

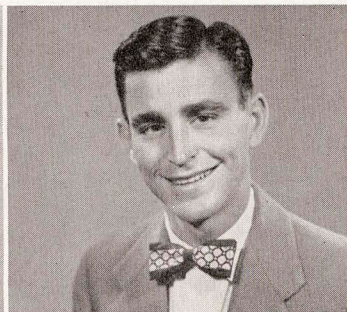

Robert E. Pitts, president

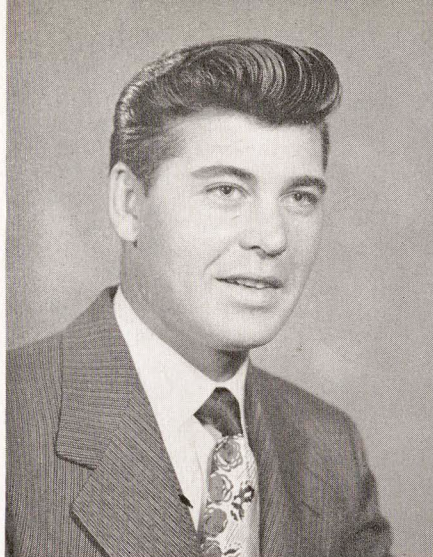

DELTA SIGMA PHI

GAMMA BETA chapter of Delta Sigma Phi was first formed on the campus in November 1946 as a petitioning group. It received its charter on March 6, 1949, so it is relatively new on the campus. Delta Sigma Phi is, however, very old nationally, having been one of the charter members of the Interfraternity Council. The Sailor's Ball is an annual affair on November 4. Other social events engaged in by the group are the annual Founder's Day banquet and the Hobo party and formal Carnation Ball.

Outstanding among the men of Delta Sigma Phi are Ira Parsons, who is on the Student Union calendar committee, a member of Theta Tau, Wesley Players, make-up editor of the Engineer and member of IFC; and Don Endicott, Bob Hill, Al Black and Dale McMullin, outstanding military students.

FIRST ROW: Irvin A. Black, Donald Ray Endicott, James O. Fels, William O. Jones, Joe H. McCutchen.

KAPPA ALPHA

FOUNDED at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Virginia, in 1865, the Kappa Alpha order brought its Alpha Omicron chapter to the University of Arkansas in 1895. The fraternity was instituted through the inspiration of Robert E. Lee, at that time president of Washington and Lee, and its purposes were to instill Southern traditions and ideals into its members.

This year, the Charleston party on October 6, the Pigalle party on November 4, and the annual Dixie Ball in the late spring rounded out the social events.

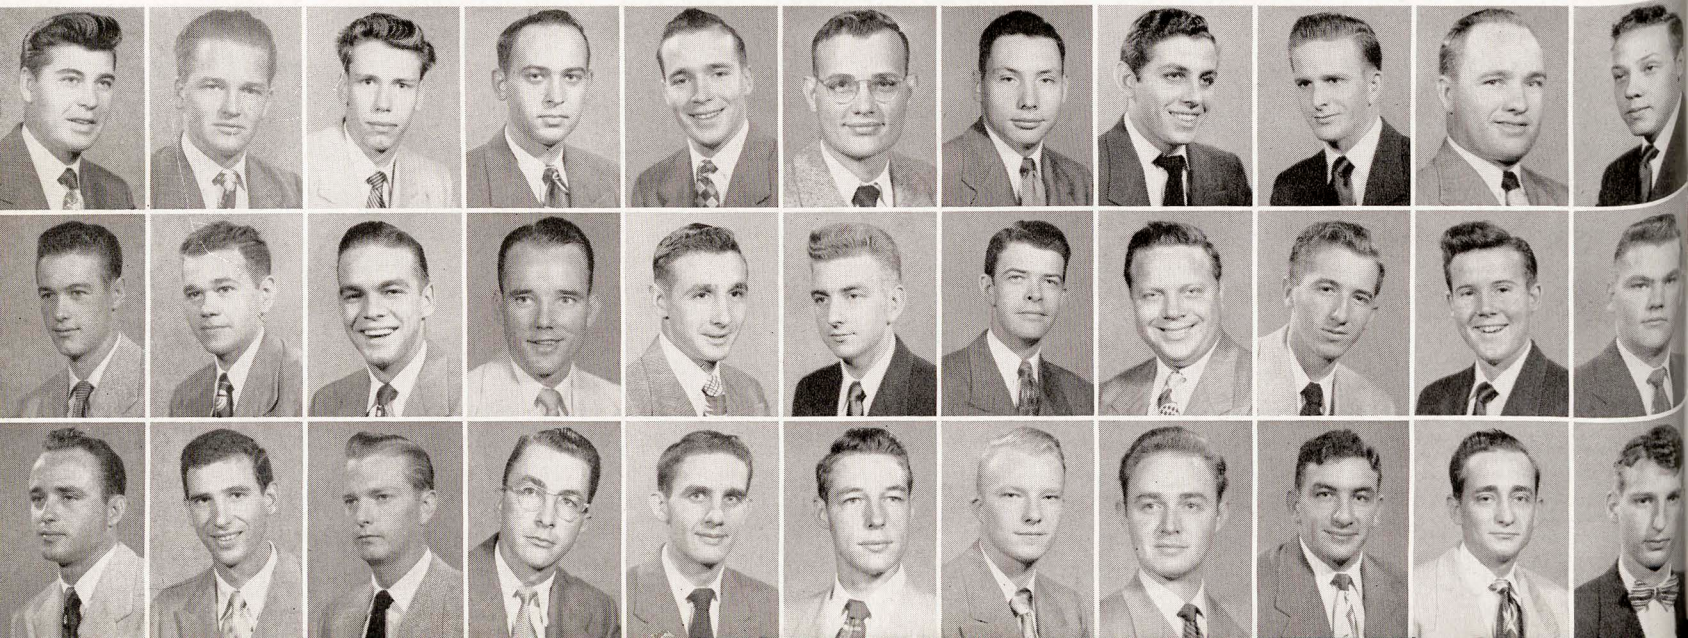

On the campus, Nash Abrams, president of Kappa Alpha, and treasurer of Blue Key; Bruce Loving, who had the lead in the University production of "Male Animal"; Sidney Brown and Joe Dugan, members of the Student Senate; and T. E. Martin, justice of the Student Court, were outstanding figures.

Kappa Alpha received a second place award for its Homecoming float.

FIRST ROW: Nash Abrams, Raymond Belva, Sidney Brown, Charles Churchwell, Creighton Cockrell, Thomas Curry, Thomas Deal, Kelly Draper, Blakely Dunn, Bill Fortune, William Gee.

SECOND ROW: Neil Graff, Gordon Hastings, William Hollis, John Holt, Walter Lambert, Archie Lewis, Jim McAllister, T. E. Martin, Kenneth Moody, Tommy Moorehead, Charles Mullins.

THIRD ROW: Jerry O'Roark, James Ragland, Larry Randall, Don Rhea, David Sawyer, Martin Scroggins, Eddie Sheeks, James Stephens, Tres Watson, Joe Wellborn, Clifton Wells.

Robert Love, president

PHI DELTA THETA

ARKANSAS ALPHA, which has the singular distinction of being the centennial chapter of Phi Delta Theta, completed its third year on the University of Arkansas campus with much of the hard work of establishing a new chapter accomplished.

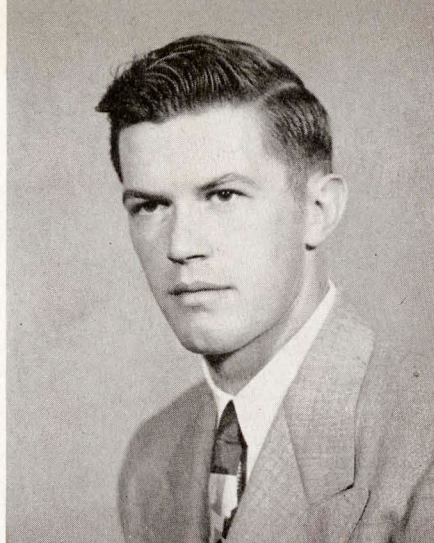

On the social side, the Phis held numerous parties, picnics, and informal smokers. The high point was the Phi Delt Buccaneer's Ball at which another charming Phi Dream Girl was presented.

In scholarship, the Phis ranked high, going on to uphold that rating the rest of the year.

Some outstanding Phis were: Bob Love, vice-president of IFC and Blue Key member; Jim Emery, ABC president, and a six-pointer; John Leslie, president of IFC pledge council; Terry Guinn, president of YMCA; C. R. "Brick" Bickerstaff, president of Intramural Officials Association; Aubert Martin and Sam Boyce, members of the Traveler staff; and the past master of Phi Delta Theta at being a big wheel, Wayne Boyce, president of the Debate club, Blue Key member, and fraternity rush captain.

FIRST ROW: Milton Anderson, Robert Atteberry, C. R. Bickerstaff, Sam Boyce, Wayne Boyce, Harvey Brooks, Tom Bruce, Dibrell DuVal, James Emery, Patrick Ferrari, Victor Ferrari.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

ARKANSAS ALPHA of Sigma Phi Epsilon is beginning its third year since its reactivation in 1948. Actually the group has a much longer history on the University of Arkansas campus. It was first brought here in 1907, only six years after the national fraternity was founded in 1901.

Two of the chapter's most outstanding social events are the Golden Heart formal which is held on the Saturday night just preceding St. Valentine's day every year, and the April Fool's dance on April 1.

Outstanding Sig Eps include: James West, track, baseball, Blue Key, and Scabbard and Blade; Oliver Gatchell, track and 1950 St. Pat of engine school; Charles McIntosh, band, Kappa Kappa Psi, Lambda Tau, Pi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, and Phi Eta Sigma; Jimmy Pappas, Phi Eta Sigma and outstanding basic cadet of 1950; and John Higgins, Wayne Myers and Emil Misicovsky, all members of Phi Eta Sigma.

SIGMA PI

THE year 1950 marked the fifth year of Alpha Sigma of Sigma Pi on the University of Arkansas campus. The thirteen charter members have more than quadrupled their number since the founding here and have made many other great strides. The national fraternity was founded on February 26, 1897.

Sigma Pi's social season was climaxed with the annual Orchid formal in the spring after the many other parties, outings and smokers during the year, including the informal Christmas house dance on December 16. It is at the Orchid formal that the Orchid queen of the fraternity is selected.

FIRST ROW: John Anderson, Sammy Anderson, Robert Auchard, Warren E. Banks, Jr., Paul E. Bayley, James A. Brown, Charles R. Dozier, Alva Henry Gillespie, Charles V. Hall.

ZETA BETA TAU

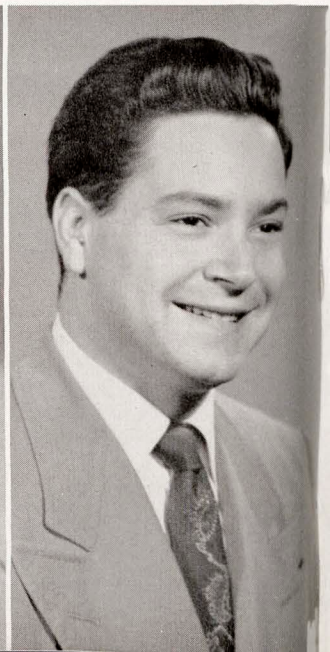

THE Arkansas chapter of Zeta Beta Tau is now in its second year of campus activity although the Beta Tau petitioning group has been very active for several years.

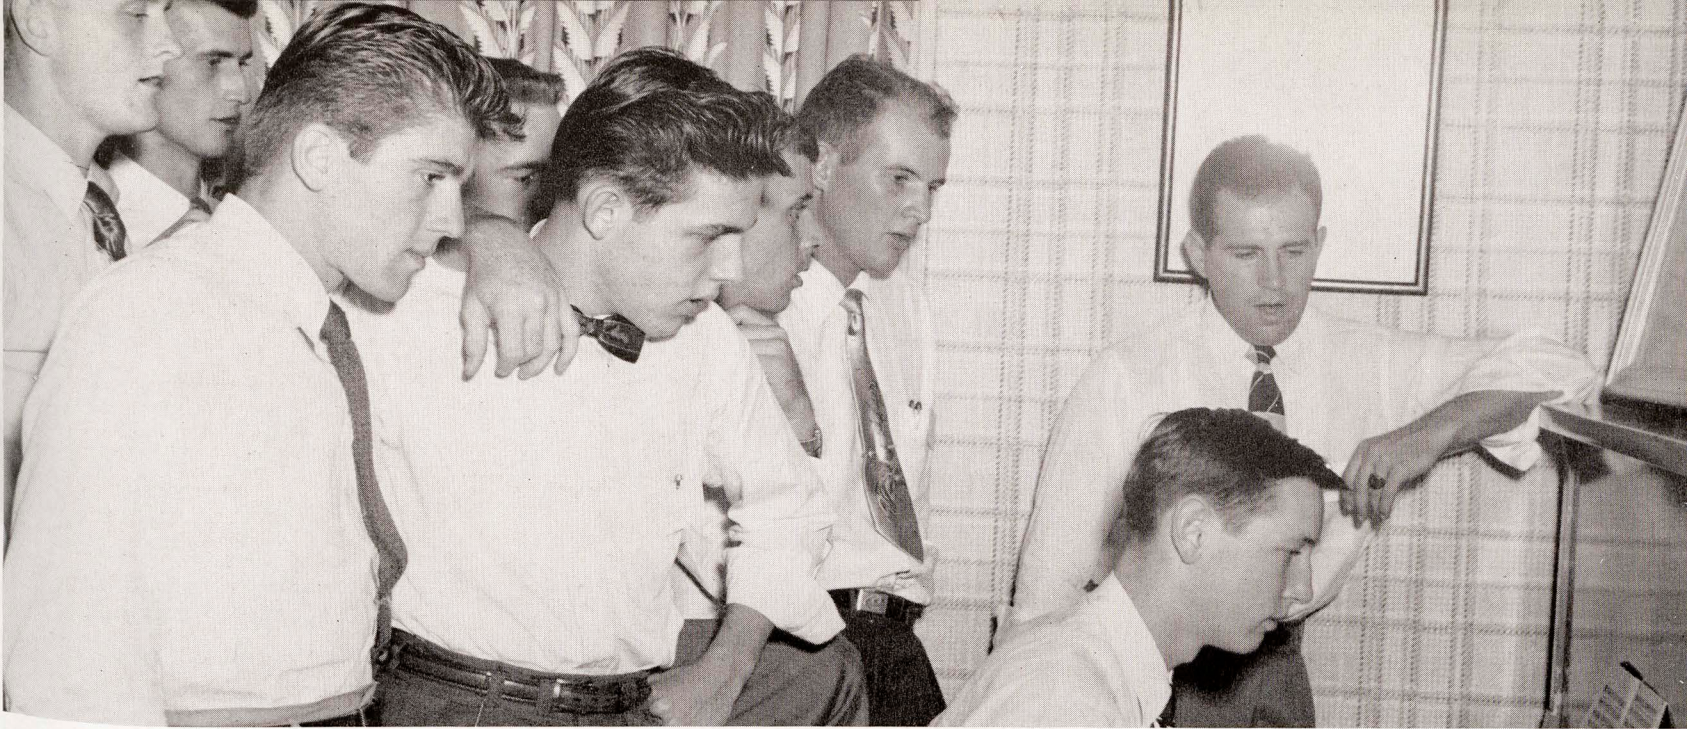

Highlights of the Zeta Beta Tau social season were the Bar-B-Q and the spring formal or Cinderella Ball. Many house parties and several dinners were also given culminating in the Founder's Day banquet on April 15.

The new Arkansas chapter received a very high honor this year when one of its alums and the first president of the chapter was named field secretary of the fraternity.

Alan Hirsch, current president of the chapter, received the award for distinguished military student and was elected president of the Arkansas Marketing club and vice-president of Alpha Phi Omega; Ed Pollock was chairman of the ABC publicity committee; Howard Weinstein was editor of Probe and president of Phi Sigma; and Ernest Weitz was president of Alpha Epsilon Delta.

DORMS: COMPETENT COUNSELING FOR BOTH MEN AND WOMEN

"But there's a five-minute phone limit" . . . "The committee for the Gaebale skit meets after date call" . . . "I'm sorry, this is second north. Would you like to call 2604 again?"

Three women's dorms, Carnall, Davis, and Holcombe, and three men's dorms, Gregson, Razorback, and Lloyd Halls, provide housing for approximately 800 students.

The Interhall Council, in its second year of organization, functions as a central policy-making group for Carnall, Davis, and Holcombe Halls. Its activities, besides handling problems common to the three halls, include exchange dinners among the halls and the annual "Harvest Moon Ball" held in the fall of each year.

With the opening, in the fall of 1948, of Holcombe Hall, residence hall for freshman women, a freshman counseling program was begun. Upper-class women, chosen for qualities of character, leadership, and social competence, live in the hall with the freshmen.

The residence hall counseling program for men was organized in the fall of 1948 with the opening of Gregson Hall.

STUDENT COUNCIL FOR UNIVERSITY MEN'S HOUSES

Selected by the Dean of Men's office, the student counselors assist in supervising the residence halls and carry on general social counseling.

INTER-HALL COUNCIL

 BACK ROW: Peggy Williams, Cleta Stuart, Carolyn Wulff, Barbara Wood, June Dalton, Mickey McCullough.

The presidents, social chairmen, house managers, and an elected representative from each house comprise the membership of this council, which meets twice a month. Barbara Wood served as chairman and Flo Martin was secretary.

HOLCOMBE HALL COUNSELORS

BACK ROW: Betty Huxtable, Sarah Black, Tony Daniel.

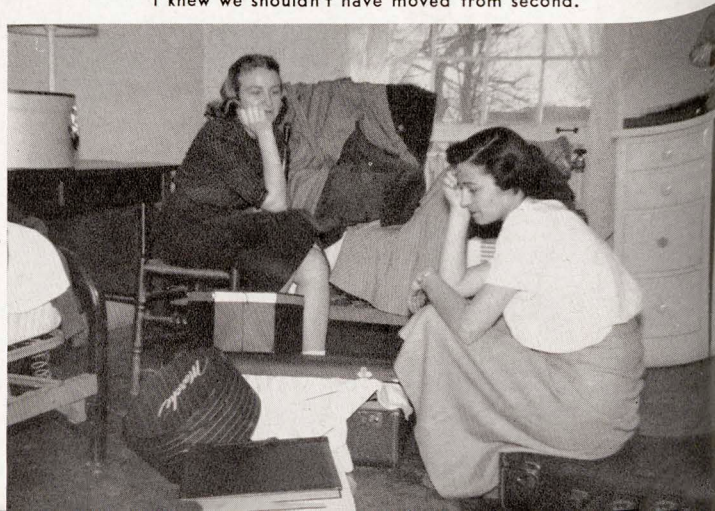

The counseling program, which stresses the social, athletic, academic, and extra-curricular phases of student life, is designed to help freshmen develop qualities of effective citizenship and live well-balanced lives. The counselors receive training in personnel and counseling technique and work closely with the assistant dean of women and the head resident.

"If there's not a letter today, there's going to be trouble!"

Carnall's coed stag party brought out the entire campus.

"I knew we shouldn't have moved from second."

Don't know where we go from here, but it sure is fun!

Organic is a snap, Henderson; just takes concentration.

The calls must go through.

Oh, take one; they're not fattening.

CARNALL HALL

CARNALL HALL, built in 1905, is big and spacious and has the whole campus for its front yard.

The 1950-51 year ended with many happy memories of gay parties, dances, and lively association for all the members. The girls' special pride was their two foreign students, Inge Lotz and Maggi Mitchell, who added a great deal to life in the house.

In October, under bright leaves and soft moonlight, the Harvest Moon Ball was held with Holcombe and Davis. With the arrival of Christmas, the girls brought out tinsel, icicles, and Charlie the Snowman for their annual Christmas dinner-dance. A week later they put up their Christmas angels and set up a mock bar for the fabulous stag party held before the AWS St. Nick Dance.

With Spring came the annual Spring formal, which this year featured the theme, "April Showers", with countless umbrellas suspended from the ceiling of the Union ballroom. The Spring picnic ended the social season, except for numerous sweater hops, a faculty tea, and "drop downstairs" informal parties for the girls.

Barbara Wood, Carnall president, was also chairman of the Student Union Board, treasurer of AWS, and chairman of the Inter-Hall Council. Peggy Williams, Carnall veep, was president of Coterie, secretary of YWCA, and a member of Phi Alpha Theta. Pat Pierce was editor of the RAZORBACK, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and senior advisor to Alpha Lambda Delta. Mary Brown Gattinger was president of FTA. Carrie Holland was president of Wesley Players, and Billie Jo Jennings was assistant manager of ASA.

Five Carnall girls, Barbara Wood, Peggy Williams, Pat Pierce, Mary Jane Baker, and Gina Holt, were tapped for Mortar Board in the spring of 1950.

Members of honoraries were: Virginia Holt and Jean McIntyre, Tau Beta Sigma; Doris Strauss and Mary Henderson, Phi Upsilon Omicron; Sarah Shell, Phi Sigma; Wilma Dolan, Ruth Spears, and Mary Brown Gattinger, Lambda Tau.

Get set to synchronize.

DAVIS HALL

DAVIS HALL is the smaller residence house for upper class women. It is located at 1020 West Maple and the housemother is Mrs. C. C. Brown.

Christmas spirit ran high at the informal Christmas dance given at the hall. The traditional tree and roaring fire completed the atmosphere. Participants also enjoyed the several sweater hops that were given throughout the year. The annual spring picnic is always an event that Davis hall girls look forward to the year 'round.

The hall has had its share of campus honors this year. Jeannine Hartley was head drum majorette of Razorback band besides being president of Tau Beta Sigma and on the AWS executive board. Vivian Jorgensen was vice-president of Tau Beta Sigma and secretary of the Razorback band.

Peggy Pentecost was a maid to Miss Arkansas at the SMU game in the fall. Cleta Stewart was secretary of the Marketing club and Frances Smith was treasurer of Phi Upsilon Omicron. Billie Kirkland was a member of the Sophomore council and Alpha Lambda Delta. Joyce Peterson was extension chairman of BSU.

Always room for one more.

HOLCOMBE HALL

HOLCOMBE HALL this year has proved itself to be more than just a residence hall for freshman women. The organization exhibited, at the first of the fall semester during the preparation for Homecoming, a close relationship among the girls which has been the basis for its successful dorm life.

The annual Valentine dance was as beautiful as it was enjoyable with holiday decorations adorning the ballroom. The spring formal is also looked forward to with great anticipation by all those who attend it. It is actually one of the outstanding social events of the freshman social season.

A standard committee was established at the beginning of the year to enlighten the girls on the standards in dress, attitude, etiquette, and campus activity that they felt should be met by every university coed.

FIRST ROW: Kathryn Adcox, Betty Lou Adkins, Katie Alter, Adolphine Andrews, Evelyn Baer, Jo Ann Barham, Betty Bayley, Ethel McRae Bemis, LaVonne Bevans, Joan Blackman, Betty Fay Bowman, Martha Boyle.

GIRLS' 4-H HOUSE

THE Girls' Four-H group, which has already had the distinction of being the first house of its kind organized in the United States, this year got a beautiful new house. The Four-H living group, the first cooperative house established on the campus, is a member of the Central League of Campus Co-ops, an organ of the National Consumers Cooperative Association.

Four-H social activities moved along very well this year with the annual back yard buffet supper in honor of the new girls, the annual Christmas "Holly Day" Banquet, and the Founder's Day banquet in the spring. The season was also given to sweater hops, candy making parties, and many other activities.

Many of the members of the Arkansas Four-H chapter were outstanding in school work and in extracurricular activities during this school year, to make it a very important one for the girls.

FIRST ROW: Betty Lou Bailey, Patricia Brewer, Jeanne Christian, Muriel Crawley, Dorothy Davis, Betty Ann Etheridge, Patricia Ann Falls, Janet Griffith.

ORGANIZED INDEPENDENT WOMEN

ORGANIZED INDEPENDENT WOMEN started off the school year by giving a hayride and weiner roast in the fall. One of the most successful events of the year was the annual AWS vice-versa dance given at the end of the first semester. OIW preceded the dance with a dessert party in honor of all women participants.

Honors and activities go hand in hand and OIW girls have taken a vital part in school organizations. Ruth Vickers is a Phi Beta Kappa, and Mary Martha Diggs was on the Student Senate and a member of Phi Upsilon Omicron. Lou Wilson was on the Student Union calendar committee and vice-president of Coterie. Pat Black is a member of Phi Gamma Nu, honorary business fraternity, and Martha Brooks was a Cotton Queen finalist.

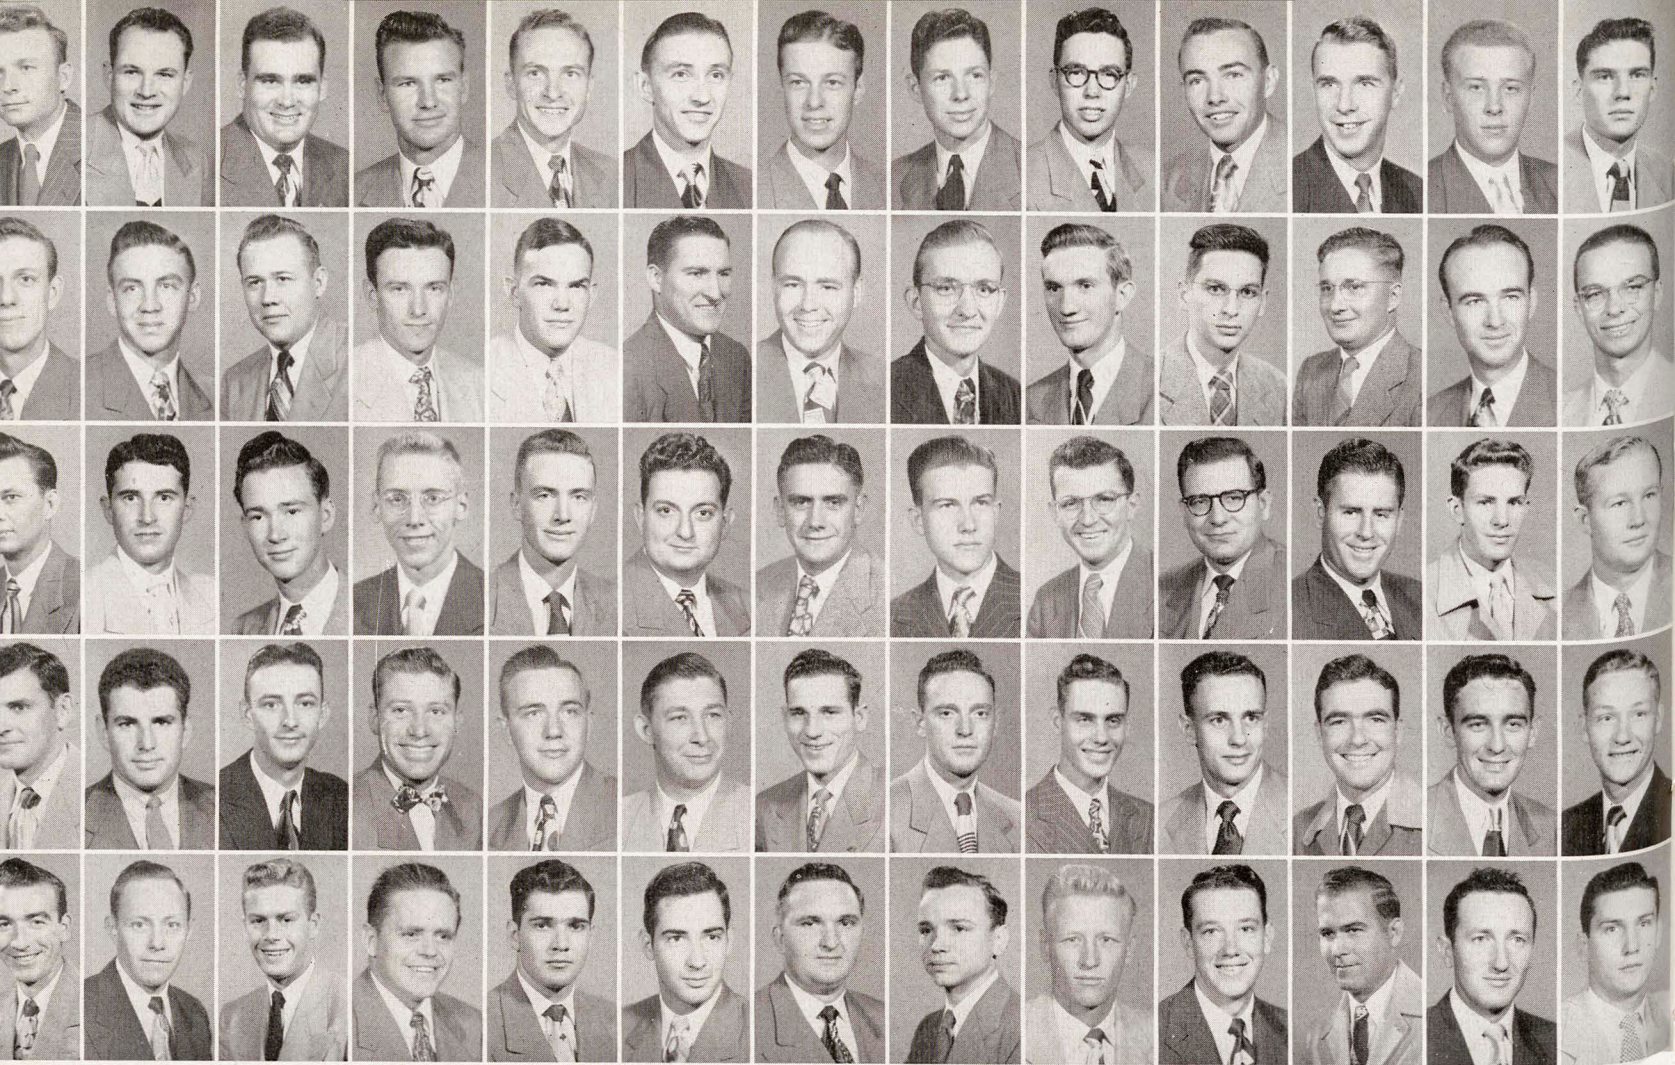

Square dance club officers who were in OIW, were: Lavonia Buries, president; Virginia Blair, secretary and treasurer; and Jeannine Campbell, vice-president.

FIRST ROW: Margaret Anderson, Mildred Austin, Betsy Berry, Patsy Black, Virginia Blair, Martha Brooks, Ann Brown, Lavonia Buries, Jeannine Campbell, Gale Catto.

GREGSON HALL

THIS is the third year that the men's residence hall, named for W. S. "Pop" Gregson, university chaplain and outstanding campus figure, has been in operation. The first 100 men moved into the newly completed Gregson Hall in the fall of 1948. The building is one of the most modern in the southwest, having within its walls a cafeteria, a snack bar, a laundry room, a barber shop, a lounge and a mailing room. Into these four walls is packed a small, but thriving and industrious, city with its own government, elected by its residents.

At least an attempt to study.

LLOYD HALLS

Bob Logsden, president

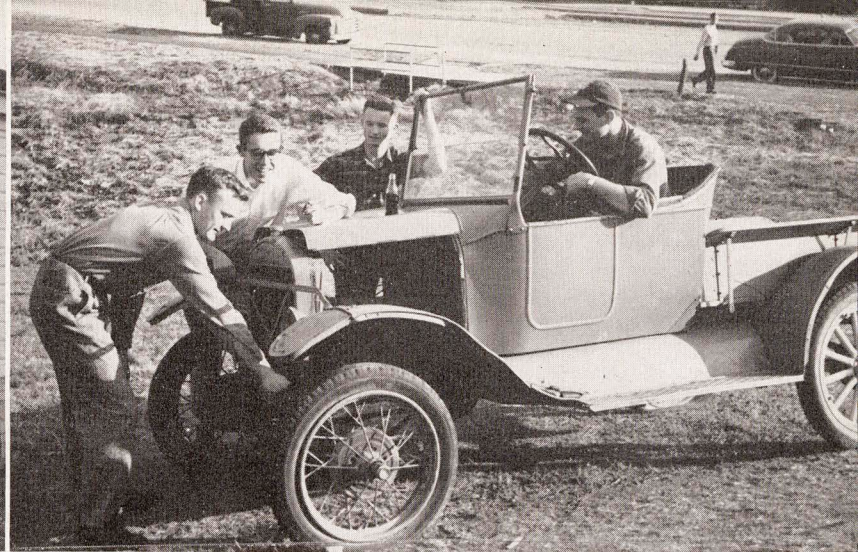

THE housing units on the campus known as Lloyd Halls were purchased from the federal government for use in relieving the cramped conditions of men's housing at the University following the war. Facilities are available for housing approximately two hundred and seventy-five men, and they have been in use since the fall of 1946. Name for the group of former army barracks is taken from that of a Fayetteville man who was killed in the armed forces in World War II.

Each hall elects its governing body which has the job of advising the men, maintaining order and acting in the capacity of general house managers of the living quarters. Counselors are placed by the university in each hall to assist in the governing of the groups along the line of the best interest to the university and the group as a whole.

Kings of all they survey.

RAZORBACK HALL

RAZORBACK HALL, home of the University of Arkansas' sports-minded Porkers, continued to make strides this year as an outstanding campus living group. Although many of the campus athletes still must live in Lloyd or Gregson Hall, Razorback is considered the home of the Arkansas Hogs.

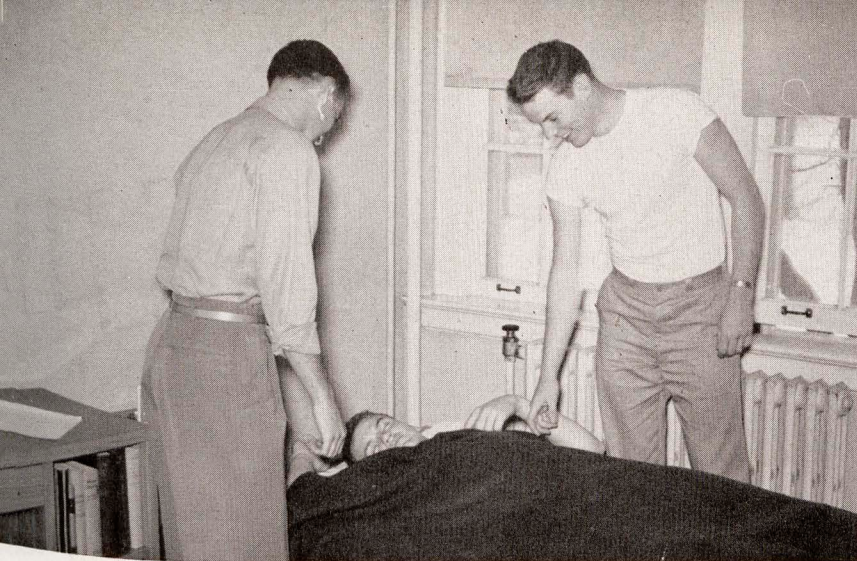

The appearance of the hall has been greatly improved as has the comfort by the new all metal furniture placed in the hall during the last part of last year.

The residents of Razorback hall have their own government watched over by a slate of officers elected by the group each year and all of the facilities of Gregson hall are open to the men of Razorback.

The new plan, originated last year of only placing two men in each room has also been a great factor in the improvement of facilities in the dorm.

Several of the men of Razorback hall are not only outstanding in university sports, but take part in activities on the campus as well.

Keynote of the outstanding social event of the Hog social season was informality. This event is the annual spring outing held by the hall after the final sessions of spring football practice.

Arts and Sciences

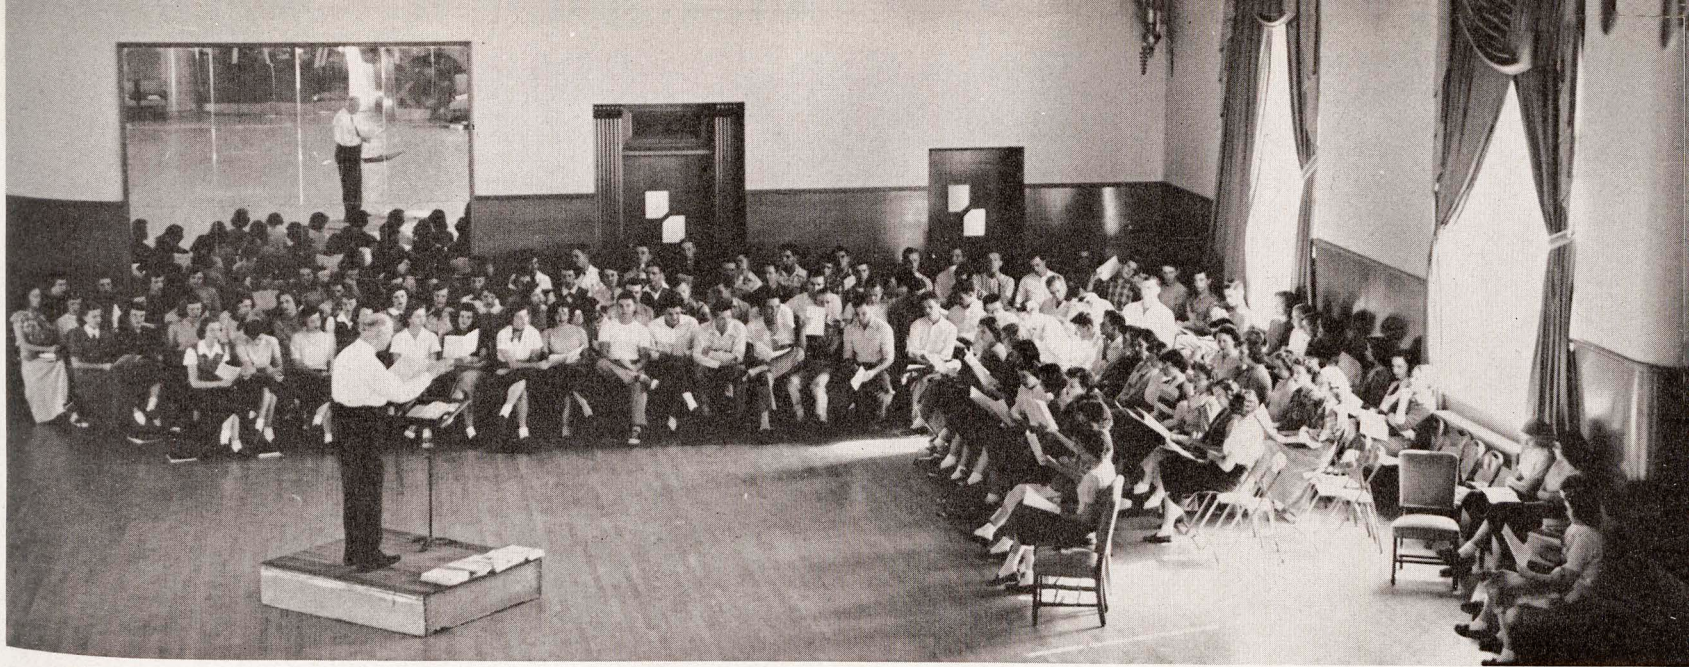

Housed in ten buildings scattered throughout the campus, the College of Arts and Sciences has an enrollment of over 1100 students who study everything from costume designing to electro-magnetism.

Its four year curriculum is designed to give students the comprehensive view of society which the modern world requires. Students who enroll in the College, or who elect courses offered in it, have an opportunity to gain the broad cultural education which is part of intelligent living and at the same time to prepare for the professions or acquire technical training in the sciences.

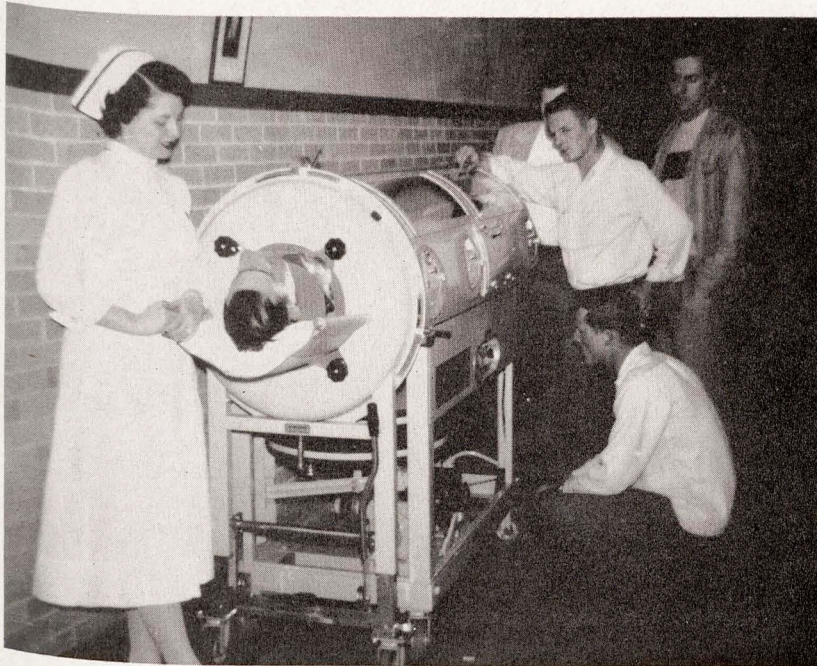

Area majors were introduced into the College in 1949. These fields of interdepartmental concentration are designed to give the student a liberal education, at the same time allowing him to secure specialized knowledge in the area of his choice.

Pi Mu Delta, formerly the Pre-Med Club, is a local organization composed of a majority of the pre-med students, formed in 1950. This organization, together with Alpha Epsilon Delta, sponsors Pre-Med Day, and Probe, the pre-med magazine.

SIGMA DELTA PI

Sigma Delta Pi, national Spanish honor fraternity, was established nationally in 1919 at the University of California, and at the University of Arkansas on May 15, 1950. Its membership is open to third-year Spanish students who have a four-point in Spanish. The purposes of the organization are to effect a wider knowledge of Hispanic contributions to modern culture; to provide a nucleus for Spanish language students' activities; to foster friendly relations between Spanish speaking and English speaking nations; and to reward those who show special attainments and interests.

Agriculture

From stock judging to pie making, the curriculum of the College of Agriculture is geared to give the diversified knowledge that leads to more progressive farming and a more prosperous state. The program of the College of Agriculture, which is under the direction of Dean Lippert S. Ellis, is divided into three parts: the agricultural experiment station, the agricultural extension service, and resident instruction.

The College offers two degrees, the Bachelor of Science in Home Economics and the Bachelor of Science in Agriculture. Graduate study is also offered, and leads to the degree of Master of Science in Home Economics or to a Master of Science in Agriculture. In addition to these degrees, non-degree training may be taken by those students who desire some training in agriculture but who do not want a degree.

Business Administration

The success of the educational program of the College of Business Administration is indicated by the fact that present enrollment is about double the pre-war enrollment. The College offers the degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with emphasis on any one of a dozen phases of business training. Advanced curricula are also offered, leading to the degrees of Master of Business Administration, Master of Arts, and Doctor of Philosophy in Economics.

The College maintains a Bureau of Business and Economic Research, the facilities of which are available at all times to members of the faculty and to graduate students. The library of the College, which is a part of the general University library, contains approximately 21,000 volumes on economics and business.

The College recognizes the inadequacy of an education of a professional nature that is too narrow and over-specialized, and expects students to elect sufficient courses outside the business curriculum to insure a broad liberal education.

ACCOUNTING CLUB

FRONT ROW: Tom Secoy, Mike DeSalvo, Ben Mathies, Jonathan Beavers, George Browning, Reggie Rives, Roy H. Jones. SECOND ROW: Frank Jones, Jr., Nelson Bone, Graham Easter, Dewey G. Glasscock, Jr., Franklin W. Middleton, Robert D. Elkins. BACK ROW: John Hackler, P. V. Smithen, Guy Boyett, Had-don Redding, James R. Long, Bobby J. Simmons, Glen L. Coley.

The Accounting Club is primarily a professional club, but emphasis is placed on high scholastic attainment. Before a student is eligible for membership, he must have a "B" average in all his accounting courses and must have shown superior ability in all his college work. Programs for this year included lectures by student and faculty members, a banquet in honor of the initiates, and a smoker.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

Although it is primarily a business and professional fraternity, Alpha Kappa Psi also places emphasis upon study and performing service to the College of Business Administration. It aids the college by scientific research in the fields of commerce, accounting, and finance, the results of which are used by many business concerns throughout the state and nation.

FRONT ROW: Ralph McDonald, Jr., Nancy Driver, Margaret Villee, Betty Jo Godbold, John Gearhart, June Dalton, Judy Price, Agnes Wynne, Sam Wood. SECOND ROW: E. B. Gee, Jr., John C. Bumpers, Robert C. Hickman, Jack Frost, Hubie Mayes, Lawson Delony. BACK ROW: Bob Hornor, J. B. Lambert, Jr., Walter Nimocks, Gene Rapley, Dennis Shackleford, Bill M. Williams, Jr., Jim Robinson, Walter G. Wright.

The Commerce Guild exists to express and provide for the needs of Business Administration students, to foster co-operation between faculty and students, and to promote the interests of the college and the University.

GENERAL BUSINESS CLUB

FRONT ROW: Robert C. Hudson, Arthur M. Talley, Steve E. Smith, John R. Marlowe, Gene Eberle, Jr., Frank Gill, Merle Smith. BACK ROW: Richard A. Lindsay, Tom W. Murrey, Roy J. Blakeley, Robert R. Basham, Bob Hornor, Jim Wallace, Ben Boren.

Organized on this campus in the fall of 1950, the General Business Club is composed of men who are majors in fields of Business Administration. It aids the College of Business Administration in carrying out its policy of participating more fully in the industrial and business life of the state through increased co-operation with established public and private agencies.

MARKETING CLUB

FRONT ROW: Raymond Johnson, Abe J. Pianalto, Sissy Cunningham, Mary Louise Wise, Ruth Johnson, Virginia Reeves, Alice Paddock, Clela Stuart, Margaret Henderson, Achim Kilian, Neil Thornton. SECOND ROW: Robert P. Curry, Jack N. Duffie, J. Robert Murray, Jr., Clyde W. Allen, Joe Dorsey, Donald Smith, Eugene G. Eberle, Jr., Tom Gray, John Park McGinty, Lawson Delony, Robert C. Hickman. THIRD ROW: Alan Hirsch, Jesse D. Williams, Bill M. Queen, Donald R. Burris, Frank David Wertz, Omar D. Cauby, James V. Murphy, Alfred P. White, John A. Gearhart, William C. Leonard, A. B. Moss. BACK ROW: Winton Smith, Gordon Hastings, Tom Curry, Art Gifford, Gene Rapley.

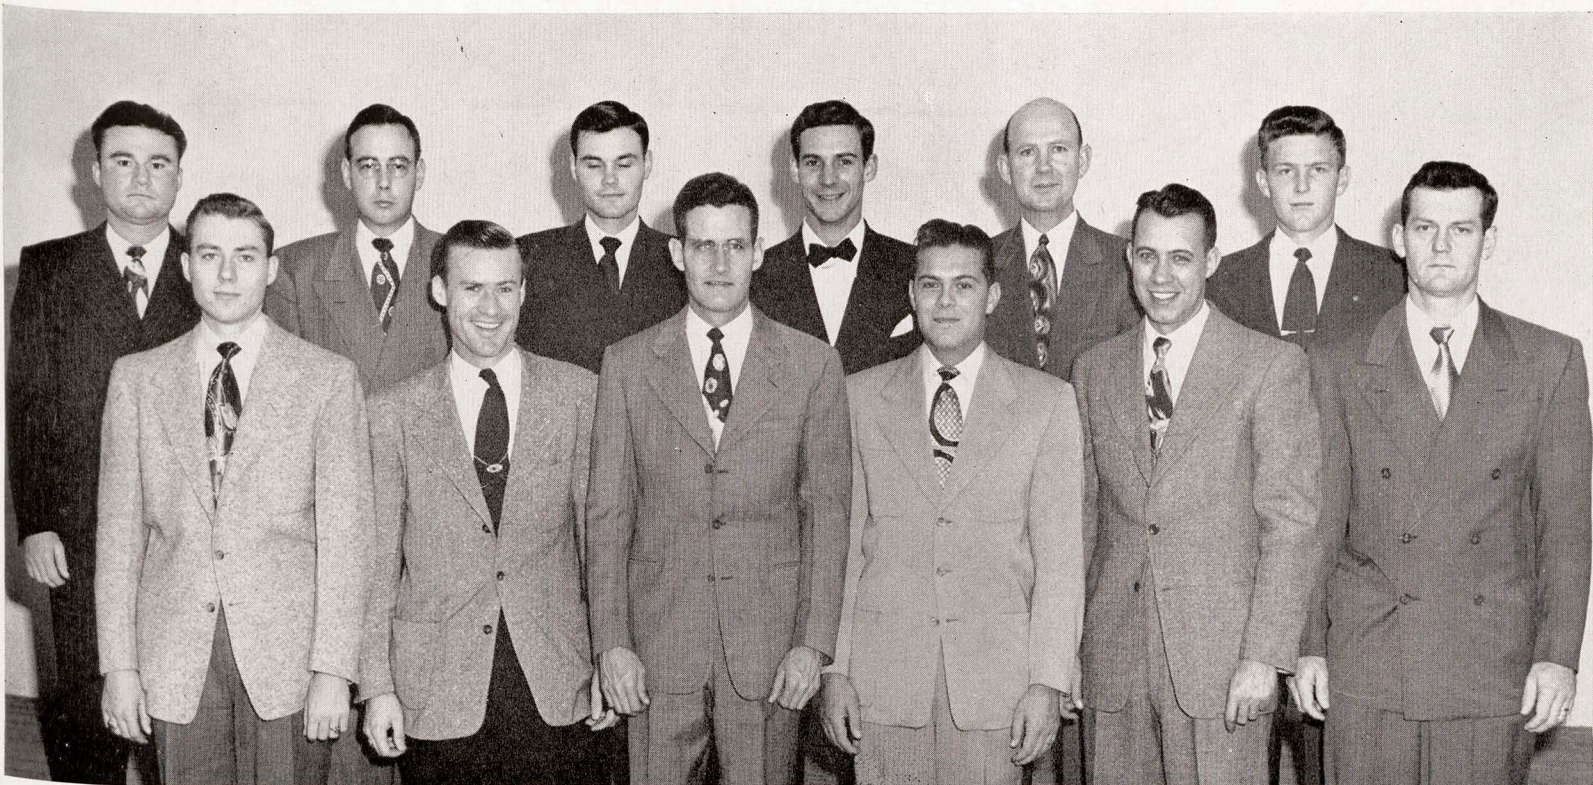

The Marketing Club is composed of students in the College of Business Administration who are majoring in marketing and related fields. It seeks to give them career information and unite students who have a common interest.

PHI GAMMA NU

In Phi Gamma Nu is found a group in which women in the College of Business Administration may coordinate the theory of the classroom with their interest in business. It concerns itself with finding employment contacts for women graduates in various localities and in particular fields open to women.

SOCIETY FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF MANAGEMENT

FRONT ROW: Bob Curry, John Biegel, J. O. Lide, Harold R. Morgan, Jim Gregory, George E. Freeman, Jr. BACK ROW: Adolph S. Towns, Harry O. Kyler, Jr., Calvin Mitchell, Gene Eberle, Jr., Howard H. Frost, Adarin D. Farmer.

The Society for the Advancement of Management acquaints students with the industries of the state of Arkansas through field trips to the state's different industrial centers and through seminars on different subjects pertaining to the various divisions of industrial management. Since it is in constant contact with many of the Arkansas manufacturers, it also provides a placement assistance program for the members who desire it.

Engineering

Engineers have "the school of extremes." All year long agricultural engineers sit cramped over their drafting boards, civil engineers plod around the campus with their surveying gear, M. E.'s slush around in hydraulics lab, while electrical, industrial, and chemical engineers keep their slide rules in a state of high friction.

Then — St. Pat's Day explodes. Loudspeakers blare forth politicking for St. Pat, while dancing balloons and promised kisses for every engineer plead for St. Patricia votes.

The College of Engineering offers six fields of study leading to the bachelor of science degree — agricultural, chemical, civil, electrical, industrial, and mechanical engineering.

Arrangements have been made with the Fayetteville Flying Service to give a course in private pilot training to accompany elementary ground school courses. These courses may be taken for University credit.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF CHEMICAL ENGINEERS

FRONT ROW: Marvin Conger, George Sauter, John D. Byrd, James W. McGill, Bruce B. McDonald, Sam Hollinger, Sam Griffith. SECOND ROW: Bobby Hadley, Orville T. Beasley, Robert J. Heaston, Heyward T. Spinks, Richard M. French, Ralph L. Baker, Harold Webb. BACK ROW: Eldon C. Boers, John G. DePagter, James H. Bennett, Allen L. Formby, Jay Thomasson, Jess Olive, Wendell Hill.

The American Institute of Chemical Engineers on this campus is a student branch of the national organization of professional engineers—a professional organization devoted to the advancement of chemical engineering and the bringing together of men with similar ideals and ambitions. It sponsors trips to various industrial processing plants to acquaint students with actual industrial practices.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS

The University chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers performs a dual function in that it provides a link between the profession and also serves as a means of training students in the preparation and presentation of formal technical papers. Membership in the student branch is open to any undergraduate electrical engineer after his freshman year.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF CIVIL ENGINEERS

FRONT ROW: Alvin Singer, Raymond H. Medlin, Arlington Waggoner, Jr., Roland L. Finley, Bob Doyle, Orville L. Bluhm, Daniel R. Harper, J. R. Bissett, Roger L. Grenier, Charles L. Kimberling. SECOND ROW: James Newman, Veale F. Hudspeth, Edward S. Morgan, Joe L. Pearce, Robert B. Howard, Jr., Bill Morris, Lenard Wikman, Clarence E. Hambleton, Jr., Joel W. Bryant, Kenneth Joe Carpenter, Bill M. Horton, Jose B. Trigo. THIRD ROW: Kenneth Rippey, A. L. Fawcett, Oliver W. Gatchell, Charles Pollock, A. W. Sheffield, Alvin Austin, Laurence H. Lambert, Miller C. Ford, Kenneth L. Pitchford, Robert E. Boone, Jorge L. de Jesus. FOURTH ROW: Clyde T. Everett, Wayne Friday, Charles Downs, Earl J. Cox, Arnold J. Tyer, Karl L. Deitz, Emil S. Soret, Harvey E. Hawkins, Harley L. Bledsoe, Roy R. Rosin. FIFTH ROW: John Gillmore, E. L. Thomas, Jr., Louie C. Cockmon, Jr., Bob Cook, William L. Arnold, Bob D. White, Marshall C. Smith, Leon Wright, Gerald D. Willis, Philip W. Ragsdale, Thomas Carey. BACK ROW: George Tait, R. N. Sanders, Cecil B. Lee, Bennie McCoy, Jack Wilson, Walter L. Wight, Greyson T. Yetter, Charles V. Owen, V. F. Bryant, J. E. Howe, G. L. Harris, Joe L. McKinstry, H. Don Boling, James Nelson.

The American Society of Civil Engineers is the oldest engineering society of its kind in the United States. It was instituted for the purpose of advancing engineering and architectural knowledge and practice.

AMERICAN SOCIETY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERS

FRONT ROW: Robert A. M. Landenberger, William C. Robinson, Joe B. Melton, Freddie L. Kidwell, Omer North, Bill Gammill, Bill Searcy, Nat Richmond. SECOND ROW: C. O. Cogburn, M. L. Roscoe, T. T. Souter, C. P. Senyard, W. R. Parker, Bob Goldammer, Luther Spears, D. V. Huckabay. BACK ROW: Herbert M. Wright, William Paul Dillender, Thomas C. Deal, Jr., Lloyd W. Stephens, George W. Malone, Jr., Carl Natho.

The American Society of Mechanical Engineers, founded in 1880, is a national organization of professional mechanical engineers. Like the parent organization, the goal of the student branch is to foster the exchange of ideas and the maintenance of professional standards.

ENGINEERING COUNCIL

The Engineering Council is composed of seventeen engineering students who plan and direct the social functions of the College of Engineering at the University of Arkansas. The membership consists of students elected from the affiliate branches of AIChE, ASME, AIEE, and ASCE; the engineering students serving as members of the Student Senate; the editor and business manager of the Arkansas Engineer, and four members elected at large, one from each class.

INSTITUTE OF RADIO ENGINEERS

The Institute of Radio Engineers promotes a professional consciousness in the electronics industry and is particularly concerned with electrical communications and electronic devices. It provides an opportunity for those who are interested to get together and discuss problems on electronics and articles in current periodicals.

Education students learn by teaching.

Educaation

A separate college since 1917, the College of Education has three main divisions: elementary and secondary education, vocational education, and physical education.

Students preparing themselves for teaching in the elementary and secondary schools, are required to specialize in two or three curriculum fields such as English and biology. The curricula outlined in the vocational department is designed to prepare students as teachers, supervisors, and administrators in the educational field of agriculture and the industrial arts.

Although physical education students are primarily concerned with teaching physical education in elementary and secondary schools, they are required to elect a sufficient number of hours in an academic subject such as English or mathematics.

Dr. Bent sets forth a new curriculum.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

FRONT ROW: Libby Malone, Betty Burt, Mary Brown Gattinger, Mildred Burrow, Doris Hanna, Helen Steele, Kathleen Reddick, Janet Gregory, Wanda Chan-

Graduate

The year 1950-51 saw the inauguration of the first courses leading to a doctoral degree. Under this program, two degrees, the Doctor of Philosophy and the Doctor of Education, will be granted. The degree of Doctor of Philosophy is offered in the fields of chemistry, economics, English, history, and philosophy. The University is the only school in Arkansas which offers courses leading to higher degrees.

The general library has provision for 120 students in its 50 cubicles for graduate study, and stack permits are issued to all graduate students who desire them. Several fellowships and scholarships are awarded to qualified graduate students. Assistantships are also offered to those who wish to teach or work in labs and research departments while they study.

One lawyer learns that honesty is not the best policy.

Law

The School of Law, established here in 1924 and offering the degree of Bachelor of Laws, is under the direction of Dean Robert A. Leflar. The School has been accredited by the American Bar Association and the Association of American Law Schools since 1926. A plan has been set up whereby students in other colleges may combine curricula with the School of Law and receive degrees from both colleges.

The Student Honor Council conducts a system of self-government within the School of Law. The Student Bar Association operates a placement service for Law grads, brings judges and other legal figures to the campus for convocations and instruction. Practice court is held in the School as a supplement to particular courses, and a moot court trial is held each year in connection with Law Day.

"Not MORE cases to brief!"

For Law Day, dapper barristers.

THIS AND THAT

Organizations on the University of Arkansas campus are varied — social, professional, honorary, leadership. Through membership in them, students further themselves in their own particular fields, give service to the campus and the community, and, most important of all, grow and gain by association.

Mortar Board, national leadership honorary for senior women, this year had as one of its service projects an officer training school, by which officers of all campus organizations were enabled to attend forums at which the duties and responsibilities of various officers were discussed.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

FRONT ROW: Ben Jones, Tom Coker, Jack Frost, Perrin Jones, Bill Rice, Hubie Mayes, Alfred Duncan. SECOND ROW: Jack Sloan, Myron J. Fry, Jim Bell, Roger N. Anderson, Sam L. Sparks, Sam Boyce, Max Edmondson. BACK ROW: Bill Trower, Hugh Knoll, Jerol Garrison, Pat Magruder, James W. Miller, Doug Wright.

Alpha Phi Omega is a national service fraternity dedicated to service to the Student body, to youth, and to community. Members, once affiliated with the Boy Scout movement, prove an earnest desire to render service to others.

COTERIE

Coterie is a social organization of outstanding independent women students on the campus. It is made up of girls who live in independent houses or who live off the campus. The organization was originally for town girls only, but now towns from all over the state are represented, as well as other states.

DAMES CLUB

BACK ROW: Mrs. Jerry Wacker, Mrs. Altha Ray Johnston, Mrs. Faye Hill, Mrs. Anita Owen, Mrs. Doris Lewis, Mrs. Bobbie Ruth Carrick, Mrs. Betty Yager, Mrs. Jane Weaver, Mrs. Lois Branton, Mrs. Melva Huckabay, Mrs. Doris Crass, Mrs. Berta Gray, Mrs. Norma Holman, Mrs. June Barnard.

The Dames Club was founded on the University of Arkansas campus in 1921, but did not receive its charter until 1945. It is affiliated with the National Association of University Dames, and is composed of the wives of resident students.

DEBATE CLUB

The University Debate Club, formed in the fall of 1950, is composed of students interested in debate and public speaking. Students who are pledges must participate in a certain number of debates and other related activities, such as the analyzing of speeches, before they can become members.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS CLUB

It's the "ringer" that wins!

Only the best, the very best petroleum products can meet the exacting demands of this fast-moving world we live in.

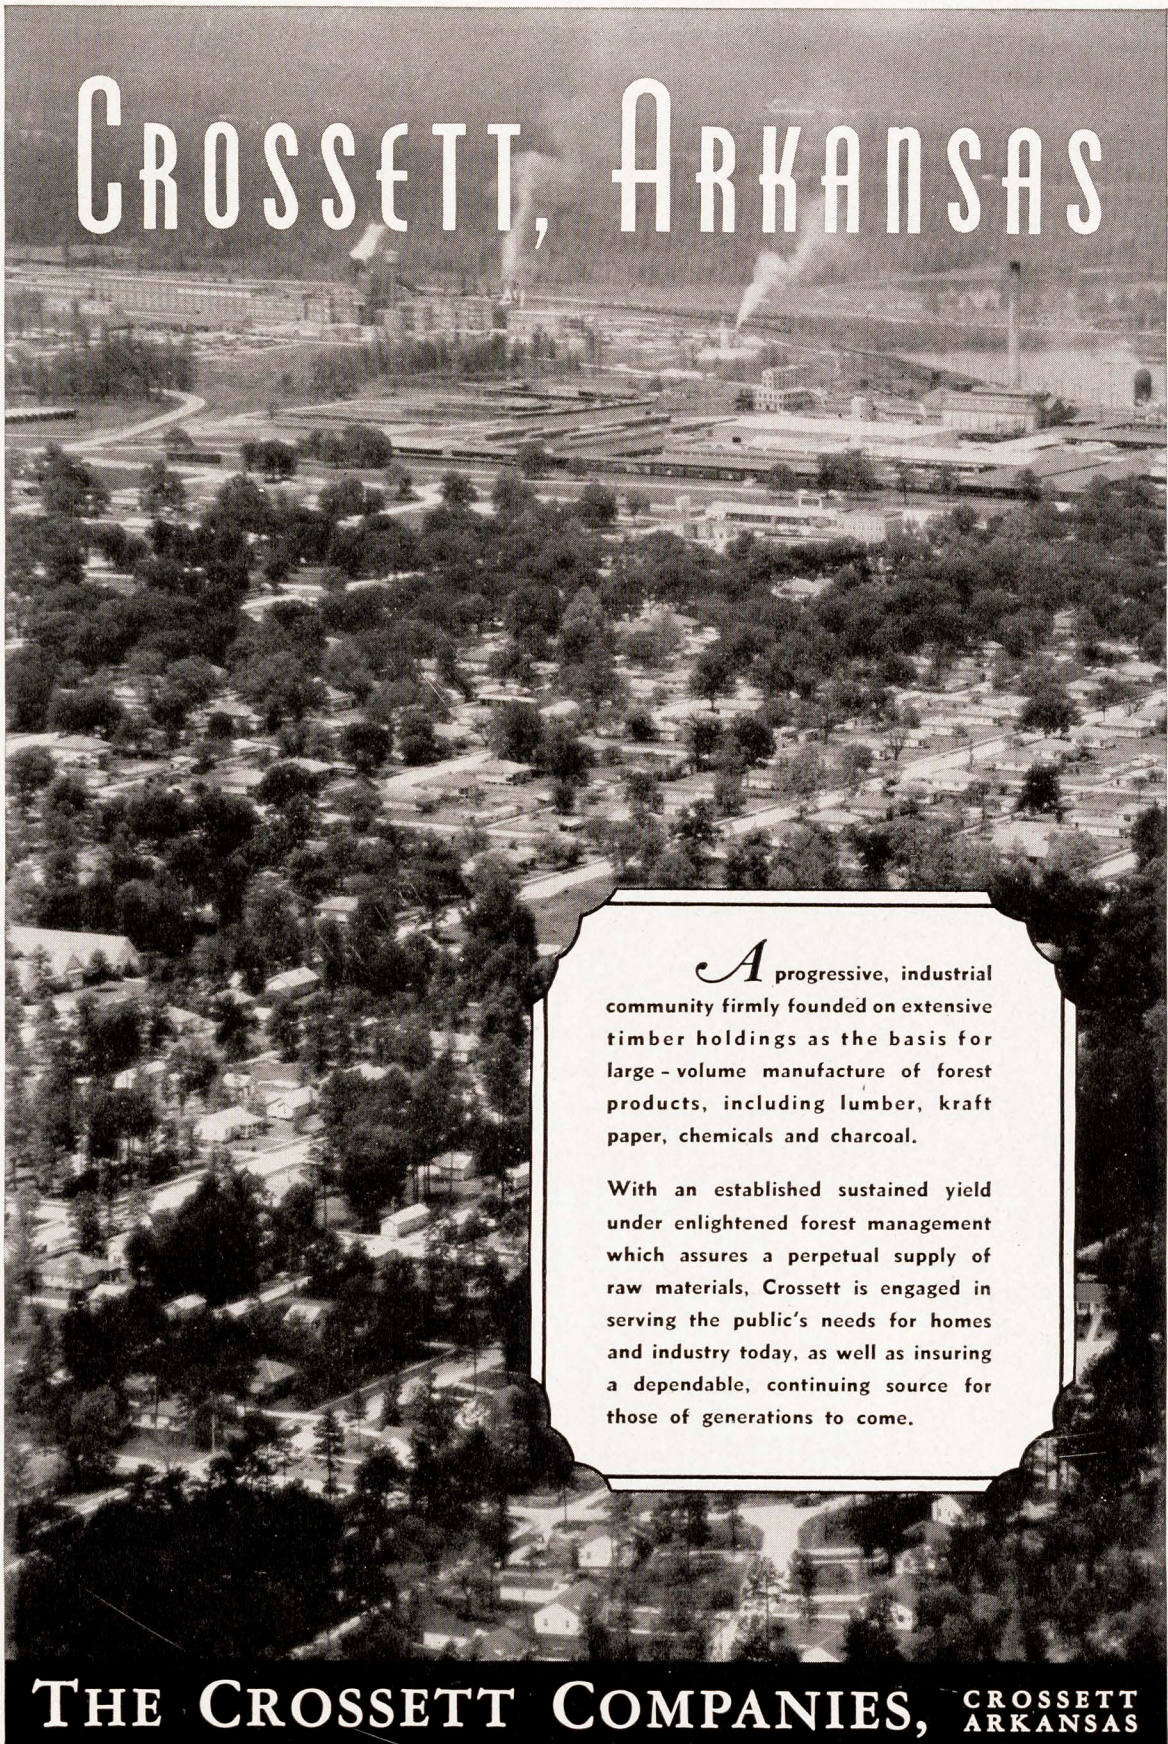

That's why Lion Ethyl and Lion Knix Knox gasolines . . . Naturalube Motor Oil . . . and more than 50 other Lion petroleum and chemical products find a ready welcome everywhere. They are the proof of the pudding—superiority pays!

If "close" isn't good enough for you, see your friendly Lion dealer today. After trying his top-quality products and friendly service, you can score yourself a "ringer," too.
